Knowland Staying On Job As Senate Leader

Differences On Policy Caused Talk

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) has told friends he has no intention of resigning as Republican Senate leader because of his public differences with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles over some aspects of foreign policy.

Moreover, Knowland has asserted that in the unlikely event of a challenge to his leadership role in the new Congress, he will fight the issue out within the conference of all Republican senators.

There has been a great deal of speculation around Washington as to what touched off Knowland's proposal in the Senate Nov. 15 that Congress call state and defense officials and members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff to determine whether any basic changes were needed in the Eisenhower administration's foreign policy.

It was his view, Knowland said then, that the Communists were advancing "the Trojan Horse of (peaceful) coexistence" to gain time for an atomic stalemate in which they would proceed to "nibble away" the free world.

Eisenhower said that some means of living together with the Russians must be found if the world was to avert destruction. Dulles said he saw no immediate emergency that would require a congressional review of foreign policy.

Knowland was reported authoritatively to have felt that he must speak out to alert both American allies abroad and administration officials at home to a view he believes is strongly supported within Republican ranks in the Senate.

As he has related there to his colleagues, Knowland's views are these:

He believes the free world must choose between peace-with-honor and peace-at-any-price. He fears American allies may be lured into a big power conference with Russia, which the United States could hardly boycott if the others accepted, and out of this might grow some form of security pact for all Europe.

He thinks that almost inevitably such a treaty would legalize the Iron Curtain, destroying the spirit of the enslaved peoples in the satellites and eliminating the possibility of any future revolt by them.

He also fears that as part of security guarantees the Russians would demand United Nations recognition of Communist China and the United States might be outvoted by its allies on that point.

Knowland said in an interview today the United States cannot permit Communist China to seize Quemoy or the Tachen Islands and use them for an assault on Formosa.

This represents another possible divergence of views with Eisenhower and Dulles, since they have been unwilling thus far to make any public commitment for defense of the islands which have been under Red shelling and minor attack.

Former Patient Of Sheppard To Be Questioned

CLEVELAND (AP)—At the height of Dr. Samuel Sheppard's murder trial, a former patient at his osteopathic hospital was brought here Saturday for questioning in Marilyn Sheppard's slaying.

The man reportedly came here voluntarily. He was not under arrest and there were no charges against him.

He worked in Cleveland at one time and authorities said he admitted being here July 4 when Dr. Sheppard's attractive 31-year - old wife was beaten to death in her bed.

The man was identified by his lawyer as Philip A. Schilling, 38, of Marine City, Mich., near Detroit.

The lawyer, John Cain, said in Algonac, Mich:

"I have been assured by Detroit and Cleveland police my client had nothing to do with the case. Some screwball injected his name into it and Schilling has gone to Cleveland to clear up any questions police there may have."

Catholic Bishops Hit Atheistic Materialism

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Roman Catholic bishops of the United States Saturday defined this country's real enemy as atheistic materialism and said the nation "must recover and renew its Christian faith" if it is to survive.

"Materialism is the real enemy, at home as well as abroad," they said, adding:

"Materialism has brought about a decline in the influence of religion upon American life. Confusion in our thinking and a sort of paralysis of the national will have been the inevitable results of this decline. Here then we have the source of that weakness which is causing so much concern to men of good will.

"Unless we arrest this religious decline, unless we push back the domestic invasion of materialism, we shall not be able, as history clearly attests, to withstand the enemy from without."

In a statement at the close of their annual assembly, the bishops said the tyranny of atheistic materialism already has been imposed upon a billion souls and "threatens the destruction of our own land as it has already attacked the culture of others."

"The battle is joined," they said. "If our nation is to escape the fate of Poland and of China, of Yugoslavia and of Hungary, and of so many others, if we are to survive as a free Christian nation, then we must be clear-eyed and we must be strong. It is the blind and the weak who fall into the pit."

Asserting the first need is to identify the enemy and recognize it for what it really is, the bishops said:

"Some see the enemy only as a political state or group of states, or merely as an economic system. The enemy is atheistic materialism that seeks to destroy us. This is the enemy."

Then calling for strength, the bishops said that material strength, while necessary, is not enough.

"This nation must look to its spiritual strength," they said, "our vast physical resources and our masterly technical skills will avail us nothing unless we are a people strong in the faith which gives purpose to action, and in the morality which fosters discipline and courage."

5,230 Catholics Given Exit Permits From N. Viet Nam

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—The International Armistice Commission chairman reported Saturday that in the past 10 days the Vietminh have granted exit permits to 5,230 Roman Catholics who wish to leave Communist North Viet Nam for new homes in the South.

The chairman, M. J. Desai of India, told the news conference the Commission needs more information before it can decide whether the Geneva agreement regarding free movement of refugees has been violated.

The French have charged that Communist Vietminh leaders are doing everything possible to prevent the Catholics from leaving the areas around Phat Diem, Bui Chu and Tahi Binh. In turn, the Vietminh have accused the French of forcing the refugees to move South.

The French have asserted that between 20,000 and 40,000 Catholics in the North are trying to get away from Communist domination.

CONSERVATION COURSE FOR TEACHERS

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Additional details of the 1955 conservation education program of the Illinois Conservation Department were announced by director Glen Palmer.

Under the new program, a three weeks course in conservation will be offered to school teachers who may claim credit for the course in any of the state's tax-supported colleges and universities.

The instruction will be given at the State Fairgrounds at Springfield between June 13 and July 1.

Palmer said this feature represents a move to better equip teachers to advance conservation education in the public and private schools where they are employed.

James Helfrich of Hammond will be in charge of the sessions for teachers, which will utilize a newly developed 40 - acre demonstration area on the fairgrounds.

There is no land at the North Pole.

LUTHERANS CONSIDER UNITY

CHICAGO (AP) — Machinery has been set up to study possible unity among Lutheran church bodies.

Some 200 delegates attending the Lutheran Synodical Conference convention ending Friday agreed to appoint standing committees on doctrinal unity to participate in unity discussions.

The convention was made up of the Missouri, Wisconsin, Norwegian and Slovak synods. The members of the synod will have equal representation on a committee of the whole to discuss the unity question without outside Lutheran bodies.

Former Foes, Friends Honor Norman Thomas On Birthday

NEW YORK (AP)—Socialist leader Norman Thomas, a fighter for ideas who can count his victories not in quick, easy skirmishes but in the long, slow pull, was 70 years old Saturday.

Friends and admirers from many fields and a wide range of political views — Democrats an Republicans, liberals and conservatives—will gather here Sunday to honor him.

Messages of tribute have come from high government statesmen in many lands.

The birthday party — for a man often denounced as a menace only to emerge later as a prophet — is being sponsored by a long list of notables — leading American churchmen, scholars, public officials and others.

They're collecting a fund to present to him, to enable him to carry on his work.

On the eve of the occasion, Thomas said in an interview that 'Socialism" still is a scare word to many, but he added: "It has a high degree of acceptance by people who hotly deny it."

Still a busy lecturer and writer, Thomas was asked how, after a turbulent half century of battling for causes that were at the time unpopular, he now had such broad, personal respect.

"I suppose," he said with a laugh, "It's because nobody is afraid I'm going to be elected to something. But, you know, I'm a mere stripling compared to some of the people sent to the Senate."

Thomas, six times Socialist candidate for president, said he "swore off" running for office in 1948 — an activity he undertook not in hopes of winning but to promote his views on social justice.

By this process of slow, steady plugging, Thomas has often seen diatribe and denunciation turn into ultimate triumph.

Looking back over the years, he can recall the days when he was assailed as a radical for favoring such programs as the income tax, woman sufferage, social security laws and union bargaining rights.

"Some people who can't argue about an issue still try deliberately to confuse socialism with communism," he said. "Or rather than look at a question on it's merits, they shout 'creeping socialism'."

Thomas, a veteran anti-Communist, added that "the least danger of communism in Europe today is in the Socialist nations — Britain and the Scandinavian countries."

At present, Thomas said his main efforts are devoted to two things — seeking foolproof world disarmament and 'a more rational international policy" that is neither appeasement of Russia nor get-tough imperilism.

On the domestic scene, he said one of America's keenest needs is for more clearly fixed responsibility of political parties.

"There is no real party responsibility, leadership or policy," he said. "There is no clear dividing lines between the two parties as there actually is in life and issues."

Charge Attendants With Beating State Mental Patients

EAST MOLINE, Ill. (AP)—State's Atty. Bernard Moran of Rock Island County Saturday filed charges of aggravated assault against eight attendants accused of beating mental patients at East Moline State Hospital.

A patient who was accused of participating in the beating of other patients also was named in complaints signed by the state's attorney. Moran said evidence of brutality against mental patients in the hospital would be investigated by a grand jury.

Moran said the alleged beatings occurred between Aug. 2 and Oct. 20 in the Veteran's Department of the hospital.

The state's attorney said he has signed statements from two former non-mental patients at the hospital who claimed they witnessed the mistreatment. One of the victims, Moran said, is a World War II veteran who has been classified by the government as 70 per cent disabled.

Dr. Armin Wolff, superintendent of the hospital, will be among witnesses summoned before the grand jury, Moran said.

Wolff told newsmen he had no direct specific knowledge of brutal treatment of patients by hospital employes. He said all he had heard of any such abuses "were generalities." The Veterans Department of the hospital has 165 patients, Wolff said.

Committee To Stand On Resolution To Censure McCarthy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators who recommended that Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) be censured for his treatment of Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker said Saturday they will stand fast despite the defection of one of their number, Sen. Case (R-SD).

The Senate session called to consider the censure issue now is in recess until Nov. 29 because of the hospitalization of McCarthy for treatment of an elbow injury. Bethesda Naval Hospital said McCarthy spent a fairly comfortable night last night but required some medication to relieve pain.

Members of the special bipartisan committee that recommended that McCarthy be censured on two counts said that when the debate resumes they intend to reply to Case's contention that evidence new to him had undercut the basis for rebuking McCarthy for the way in which he questioned Zwicker at a hearing.

Statements to this effect were made by Sen. Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo), Sen. Watkins (R-Utah), chairman of the six-member censure committee, and Sen. Stennis (D-Miss).

Gutknecht Joins In Protest Against Proposed Turnpike

CHICAGO (AP)—Cook County States Attorney John Gutknecht Saturday joined disgruntled suburban home owners in protesting against a proposed toll road system in the Chicago area.

A proposed superhighway, part of the state's 600 million dollar toll road program, would by-pass Chicago and cut through western suburbs.

Friday a group known as the Suburban Home Protective League, dispatched telegrams to President Eisenhower, Vice President Nixon and Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill), asking them to intercede with Gov. William Stratton to prevent building of the road.

Gutknecht protested the 'secrecy" of the meetings of the State Toll Road Commission.

"There are 4½ million people in Cook County," he said, "and they are not even being consulted about the roads."

UNAUTHORIZED FLIGHT ENDS IN DEATH

BILOXI, Miss. (AP) — Air Force rescue crews groped in shallow water near here Saturday for the body of an airman killed in a B25 crash during a solo unauthorized flight.

Keesler Air Force Base officials here said a missing flight engineer whose identity was withheld pending notification of next of kin, had boasted in a bar Friday night that he could fly a B25.

Witnesses told Keesler officials the bomber buzzed the area of the bar shortly before it dove into the Gulf of Mexico, about 400 yards off the Biloxi business district, scattering wreckage over a quarter mile area.

Mendes-France, Dulles Reject Soviet Proposal

FIELD IN SWITZERLAND—Hermann Field, the Cleveland, Ohio architect who was recently released from a Communist Polish jail, is met by an unidentified official of the U. S. legation as he arrived at the Kloten Airfield in Zurich, Switzerland. Field was immediately escorted to a secret meeting with his British born wife, Kate, who flew here the night before from London.

Hermann Field, Wife Rest In Switzerland

LONDON (AP)—Hermann Field and his wife issued a joint statement Saturday night saying it was essential for both to have a complete rest and they therefore would "remain quietly in Switzerland for the present."

Observers took this to mean that Field apparently intends to keep the details of his arrest and detention by the Reds a mystery for the time being.

The Cleveland architect was released recently after five years' imprisonment in Communist Poland. He arrived in Zurich Friday.

The statement was released in London by Mrs. Field's mother, Mrs. Dorothy Thorneycroft, who said she received it by telephone. It follows:

"We were happily reunited yesterday in Switzerland. This moment was so overwhelming for us both that we were unable to meet the press, and we asked them to understand this. Now it is essential for us both to have a complete rest and we shall therefore remain quietly in Switzerland for the present. We wish to express our deepest gratitude to everyone who has helped us. (Signed) Hermann and Kate Field."

Mrs. Thorneycroft telephoned the statement to The Associated Press. Asked whether it was issued from Zurich she replied: "Switzerland."

Told there were reports in Zurich that Hermann Field would make his first statement to the world press Sunday afternoon, Mrs. Thorneycroft said she knew nothing about it. She did say she assumed the brief message telephoned by her was the statement referred to in the Zurich report. She declined to answer any other questions.

Mrs. Hermann Field had resided in London during the time of her husband's disappearance behind the Iron Curtain, where he went searching for his brother, Noel. Noel Field and Noel's wife, Herta were released a few days ago by the Communist government in Hungary. The Noel Fields are still in Hungary. Mrs. Hermann Field left London Thursday for Zurich.

Garner To Observe 86th Birthday As Usual: Hunting

UVALDE, Tex. (AP) Cactus Jack Garner turns 86 Monday and he's going to celebrate the way he always does: hunting.

"Deer better watch out," he said. "I've got a keen eye."

Feeling fine, in good health, and spry as one of the chickens he keeps, the former vice president had everything ready for his annual hunt.

Garner doesn't ever make a lot of fuss about his birthday. He just quietly aims at living to be 92. That's so he can say he spent half his life in public life and half in private life.

Christened John Nance Garner, he's the only Texan who ever had a fighting chance to become President of the United States. During 46 years in public life he served state and country in many offices, including speaker of the House and and eight years — 1932-1940 — as vice-president.

LICENSE THEFTS INCREASE

LOUISEVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A new vaccination and licensing law is responsible for a rash of dog tag thefts in Kentucky says dog warden Jeff McIntyre. "Some people don't want to pay, so they take them," he says.

Nearly 100 tags have been reported stolen in one county and 200 have gone astray in another. Other counties have reported similar difficulties. More than 100,000 licenses have been issued. The licenses cost $1.50 and vaccinations between $1.50 and $2.50.

Former Demo Seeks COP Nomination For Chicago Mayor

CHICAGO (AP) — Ald. Robert E. Merriam, who walked out of the Democratic party six months ago, announced Saturday he will seek the Republican nomination for mayor of Chicago in February.

Calling himself "an independent running on the Republican ticket," he bid for coalition support from both major parties and independents to beat "a corrupt, entrenched city machine."

Chicago hasn't had a GOP mayor since the late William Hale Thompson left the office in 1931.

Merriam, 36, has been an alderman from the 5th ward for 7½ years and is chairman of the City Council Crime Committee.

He pulled out of the Democratic party following a dispute with other Democratic leaders on how an investigation of crime conditions in Chicago should be conducted.

Martin H. Kennelly, Chicago's third consecutive Democratic mayor since Thompson's reign ended, has not announced whether he will seek a third term.

Merriam said in a statement:

"To bring together a winning coalition of Chicagoans, I have been urged by Democrats, Independents and Republicans alike to make this race by entering the Republican primary."

In his bid for coalition backing, Merriam said Chicago "is the only major city in the United States which has not thrown off the halter of a corrupt political machine in years."

There are 252 religious denominations in the United States, with 284,592 churches and an enrollment of 88,673,005 in members.

Call For Ratification Before Meeting Reds

WASHINGTON (AP)—French Premier Mendes-France and Secretary of State Dulles turned down swiftly Saturday a move by Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov to delay ratification of German rearmament by the Western Powers. Instead they called for "early ratification" by all the Allies before any new conference with Russia.

They declared themselves against "improvised debates intended mainly for propaganda," an obvious slap at Moscow, but expressed willingness to join in "adequately prepared negotiations" in good faith.

The Molotov move came in Moscow where the Foreign Office made public an interview by him suggesting that Russia would be willing to delay the European security conference it has proposed for Nov. 29 if the Western Powers would delay ratification of the new Western European Union treaties.

Dulles and Mendes-France prolonged their talks here long enough to have a quick look at news reports of the proposal. They agreed on its informal rejection, which was the effect of their communique. If necessary, officials said, it will be formally rejected.

The 400-word communique was issued at the State Department at 3:30 p.m., an hour after Mendes-France, grounded by Washington's foggy skies, had left Dulles' office to take a train for New York. He will return to Paris next week.

From the communique and from information provided by officials these other points stood out in the talks:

1. Dulles and Mendes-France agreed that the organization of three new Communist divisions, two of them armored, in Northern Viet Nam creates a serious new threat in Indochina. They agreed on "coordinated procedures and periodic reviews" in dealing with the situation, but there was no evidence that they reached any major policy decisions.

The critically important matter of continuing American financial support for French forces in South Viet Nam, at the rate of several hundred million dollars a year, was left to other negotiations.

2. Dulles agreed to consider use of United States influence to try and prevent any outside agitation to make trouble for the French among the Arabs in North Africa. Mendes-France has contended Cairo and Communist Hungary have been sources of agitation in North Africa.

3. Mendes - France reviewed "hopefully" possibilities for establishing better relations between France and Germany as a step toward creation of a united and peaceful Europe. Dulles said the United States attaches great importance to this.

4. Associates privately confirmed the usual assurances of a communique that the talks occurred in a friendly, cooperative atmosphere. This was a matter of some significance this time since Dulles had deep misgivings about the French Premier following the French Assembly's defeat of a European Defense Community last August. He is understood now to be much more friendly towards Mendes-France.

5. Dulles assured Mendes-France that when France makes a formal appeal for British and American support of an agreement with Germany on the long disputed Saar territory, the United States government will do whatever it possibly can to give such support.

The following are the percentages of certain U. S. crops which are sold abroad, according to a Twentieth Century Fund study: wheat 48, dried milk 45, rice 7, dried peas 35, cotton 34, soybeans 28, lard 24, tobacco and hops 23, plums and Financial Experts Meet In Rio Planning To Put Bite On U.S.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—Delegates from 20 Latin-American nations—mostly financial experts—converged on Brazil this weekend for a showdown with the United States on its economic policies toward this hemisphere.

Newspaper commentaries on the Inter-American Economic Conference, opening Monday in Quitandinha, a mountain resort 40 miles from here, reflected widespread feeling in Latin America that the United States has not been doing enough for this part of the world while handing out billions of dollars in Europe and Asia.

But there was a spirit of moderation in the commentaries and from various delegations came suggestions that Latin America should not expect its northern neighbor to give them the moon.

Brazil's Finance Minister Eugenio Gudin said Brazil "is not going into the conference to defend absurd proposals nor to make unreasonable demands."

Finance Minister Eduardo Acevedo of Uruguay told newsmen last night "Latin America should recognize that there are limitations to the economic assistance even powerful nations such as the United States can give."

At the conference Chile is expected to propose a three-point, six-billion-dollar development fund which would use monetary reserves of Latin-American countries, most of which are deposited in United States banks.

In discussing economic problems to be debated, some delegates noted a recent report given President Eisenhower by a citizens economic group he appointed which said U.S. aid funds to Latin America since World War II were only one per cent of the amount the United States gave to the world as a whole.

President Tries Communications In Defense Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower tried out the communication lines in a White House bomb shelter Saturday as top government officials scattered to secret emergency posts miles from the capital in an atomic attack drill.

For six hours, many operations of government were directed in theory from the remote control stations in Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina and possibly elsewhere that would be manned in event of an actual attack.

Eisenhower, who directed the invasion of Europe from bomb-battered England in World War II, spent 10 or 15 minutes receiving operational reports in an underground shelter at the White House.

Aides said he carried on a two-way conversation with an outlying control center designated "high point" and wound up by recommending more such exercises to familiarize government officials with remote control operations.

Nearly 2,000 key government employes took part in the drill, one of a series that started in June to test the "continuity of government" under conditions that might force abandonment of Washington installations.

They fanned out to 30 emergency stations within 80 miles to the west and north of Washington and 300 miles to the south. These relocation centers, which would be manned for the duration of an emergency, were not disclosed, except that they are in resort towns, colleges, and communities having unoccupied federal buildings.

FIND PSYCHIATRIST BEATEN TO DEATH

CHESTER, Pa. (AP)—Elinor Marjorie Langton, 52, a prominent Philadelphia psychiatrist, was found beaten to death Saturday on the floor of her automobile.

The car was parked on a quiet, residential street in this city of 60,000 a few miles south of Philadelphia.

Her skull apparently had been fractured by the killer's blows. Her ankles and wrists were bound with leather cords.

Couples Club Of White Hall Hears Foreign Students

WHITE HALL—Ninety members and guests of the Presbyterian Couples Club attended the regular meeting on Monday night in the church parlors, and heard a group of foreign students describe their home life.

Charles Arnold presiding over the devotions which included a moment of silent prayer in memory of the late Rev. Walter L. Wilson, pastor of the church.

The bountiful turkey dinner was followed by a program in which Mrs. Ardeen Walker presented a group of local high school students who demonstrated old-times dances including the square dance, Virginia reel, and schottisch. Dancers included Bob Meyer, Edna Talkington, Mary Lou Ricks; David Crowell, Raymond Hicks, Karen Knight, James Tilley and Ellen Walker.

President Stanley Thomas presented a program of international flavor with Prof. and Mrs. Clayton D. Ford of Principia College, near Elsah, Ill. They introduced Wayne Kayser, a student from Columbus, Ohio, and president of the Students' International Club, who presented Miss Jill Periton of Preston Lancashire, England; Miss Colette Aubry of Paris, France; Miss Ella Fianza of Baguio, Luzon, Philippine Islands; and Mr. Dag Ytreberg of Oslo, Norway.

Each of the foreign students told of their home life, schools and customs. For an hour, they kept their audience spell bound. Their talks were followed by questions from the group.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Wood were elected Presidents of the club. The meeting adjourned with Mrs. Lee Griswold giving the Nizpah Benediction.

REUNION AT U. OF I.

Chief Illiniwek (Gaylord Spotts, 853 East State street, Jacksonville) meets the man who invented Homecoming at the University of Illinois. The Homecoming founder, according to university tradition, is Clarence F. Williams, Cleveland, Ohio, who 44 years ago while a student at Illinois proposed the idea on the calendar of every college and high school. The world's first homecoming was at the U. of I. in 1910, the public relations office reports. Spotts in the role of Chief Illiniwek typifies the fighting spirit of the U. of I. football warriors. A talented dancer before he graduated from high school, Spotts has put his sense of rhythm to work in depicting the agile chief. His appearances are one of the features of the football spectacles at Memorial Stadium in Urbana and on the football road trips.

Football Banquet For Carrollton '54 Team Dec. 8

CARROLLTON — The annual football banquet honoring the members of the football team and their coaches for the 1954 football season at the Carrollton Community Unit high school will be given Wednesday, Dec. 8, in the dining room of the local Methodist church.

The banquet will be prepared and served by the members of the Mother's Auxiliary of the School.

The local team finished their football season Friday with a 33-0 victory over Greenfield. They finished the season with a record of 6 wins and 3 losses and 5 won and 2 losses in the Illinois Valley Conference. The local team finished third in the Illinois Valley Conference with Pittsfield first and Jerseyville second.

Jacksonville Public Library Notes

If anyone has any doubts as to the overcrowded condition at David Prince Junior High School, he should drop into the assembly room around 9 o'clock on Friday mornings, reports Miss Frances Bailey, librarian of the Public Library. She had just made such a visit at the opening of the new public library service to the pupils of David Prince. A collection of books suited to the interests of seventh and eighth graders has been placed on shelves in the northwest corner of the assembly room.

These shelves and a screen divide the improvised library from the area where an art class is busily engaged in miscellaneous activities. Miss Bailey was told, also, that the southwest corner of the assembly room serves as the home room for one section.

The pupils at David Prince showed in their faces the same eagerness and delight which are visible on the faces of the children in the Book Week posters that have appeared in so many places during Book Week. Serving these four hundred children in one morning allows only a very short time for each group to select its books. Pupil helpers assist in seeing that the borrowers' names are recorded and dates properly stamped.

Started 28 Years Ago

Weekly service to the pupils of the elementary schools, including the first six grades, has been given for 28 years. At the present time Miss Esther Conner, Young People's Librarian, is assisted in this work by Mrs. Ralph Welles. The collections placed in the six schools total nearly three books a child. The public schools, also, have a large number of books shelved in the various classrooms. In addition, requests for small assortments of books usually related to the current unit of study are prepared for the teachers by the Young People's Librarian.

Since Woodson and Murrayville schools have been included in this school district, the Board of Education has arranged that special collections are prepared at the Public Library for the teachers of those schools. Each Friday these books are taken to the teacher's rooms.

Add 300 New Books

At the Public Library every effort is being devoted to processing some 300 new books which will soon be added to the school collections and to the Young People's Room.

Since the emphasis this past week has been on children's books, the adult department has displayed a group of books on this subject for parents and leaders. For the current week the parents of retarded children, through their organization National Association for Retarded Children, are focusing the public's attention on the needs of this group.

Much consideration has been given in the last few years to helping children with both mental and physical handicaps to take their place in the world. The library has several books written by parents of afflicted children to encourage other parents with similar problems.

Mrs. Roy Rogers tells of the spiritual enrichment brought to her and her husband during the short life of her little girl in "Angel Unaware."

Pearl Buck's Book

Pearl Buck, in writing of her mentally deficient daughter in "The Child Who Never Grew," makes a plea for research, not only to prevent such brain injuries, but to provide proper care to those so handicapped.

In "My Son's Story," John Frank describes his struggle as to whether to place Petey in an institution or keep him at home.

Parents and teachers working with these unfortunate children will find useful "The Mentally Retarded Child," by Levinson and "New Hope For the Retarded," by Pollock. This latter book contains plays, games, musical programs, and other educational devices to teach the mentally retarded as are practiced in the author's school.

Recently, Life Magazines for October 18, and October 25 have had articles and pictures about retarded children. The library has these for circulation.

Backstage Hassel Rages In Pentagon To Place Marines Under Control Of Naval Chief, Carney

By BEM PRICE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Marines have just beaten off — they hope — a determined drive.

Had the maneuver succeeded, nearly all Marine operations would have come under the direct control of the chief of naval operations, Adm. Robert B. Carney.

And as the Marines see it, their commandant, Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd, would have become a mere paper shuffler in charge of headquarters personnel only.

From the Marines' point of view, they would have been scuttled effectively as a semiautonomous fighting force and would have been reduced to the role of Navy stepchild.

With the help of Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont), the Marines think they have won the initial battle but are fully aware that the campaign isn't over yet.

It won't be won, they feel, until Secretary of the Navy Charles Thomas returns from Europe and signs the reorganization plan spelling out in detail the Marines' relationship to the Navy.

The loudest silence in town can be obtained by asking Navy admirals or Marine generals: "Who or what started the fight?"

This much, however, seems certain:

There is a belief by some Navy wheels that the Marines are getting too big for their britches.

The admirals—or a few at least—resent the fact that Congress placed the Marine commandnt on the Joint Chiefs of Stff as a coequal in all matters pertaining to the Corps.

The same admirals also resent the fact that Congress placed a floor under Marine strength—three combat divisions and three air wings.

Before Congress spelled out the place of the Corps in the defense establishment, the Marines existed only as an adjunct to the Navy.

The Marines were limited previously to 20 per cent of the Navy's manpower and they fought a constant war with the Navy over money, with the cry that the Navy wanted to relegate the Marines to the role of poor relations.

It is the Marines' belief that had the Navy's recent attack been successful, the Navy once again would be holding the purse strings and could squeeze the Marines for money to spend on the Navy.

The infighting really started Aug. 30. There is now in the works a Navy reorganization plan. The relationship of the Marine Corps to the Navy is defined currently in what is known as General Order No. 5.

On Aug. 30 the chief of naval operations over the signature of Adm. D. B. Duncan, vice chief proposed to change General Order No. 5 to read:

"The Marine Corps command assistant (to the secretary of the Navy) is the commandant of the Marine Corps. He is charged with and is responsible to the secretary of the Navy for the administration of the Marine Corps and for command of the Marine Corps except those elements included in a unified command or assigned to the operating forces or shore establishment. The commandant of the Marine Corps is responsible to the chief of naval operations for the readiness and performance of those elements of the Marine Corps assigned to the Navy."

This meant to the Marines that the commandant would now become subordinate to the chief of naval operations instead of the secretary of the Navy and be responsible himself only for administration and training.

If the commandant was responsible to the CNO, there really was no point in his enjoying coequal status on Marine matters before the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

All of this flew in the face of recommendations of the Committee on the Organization of the Department of the Navy, headed by Under secretary Thomas S. Gates.

This committee on April 16 said: "The commandant commands the Marine Corps and is directly responsible to the secretary of the Navy for its administration, discipline, internal organization, unit trainng, requrements, efficency and readness. . . ."

It said the commandant was responsible to the CNO only for the readiness and performance of those elements of the Marines assigned to the operating forces of the Navy.

Th first inkling — at least official — that all was not well came Nov. 9 when a congressman reported the battle was raging backstage at the Pentagon.

On Nov. 11, Sen. Mansfield dropped a fairly gentle hint to the Navy to lay off.

The very next day Rep. Bender (R-Ohio), now a senator-elect, protested what he called an apparent effort by Navy admirals to tke control of the Mrines.

Mansfield, meanwhile, wrote a letter to Secretary of Defense Charles Wilson demanding an explanation.

In a speech on the floor last Wednesday, he said, "I regret and am alarmed that the law has been so vigorously challenged in the Department of the Navy."

Since the bassle, which raged backstage throughout September and October, has come to fight, the Navy has begun to backwater.

The Marines feel they've won but admit they are scarred. One source said the Marines in the proposed reorganization keep their semiautonomous status but have lost some control over their planning policies. Just how, he couldn't make clear and nobody else would admit anything.

Coroner's Jury Investigates Traffic Death

An inquest into the traffic injury death of Ellsworth Burnett, 51, Franklin farmer, was held Friday evening at the Neece Funeral Home in Franklin by William L. Hawks, Morgan County coroner.

Burnett died a day following a head-on auto collision with a car driven by William Flynn, 27, of Waverly on the old Franklin-Waverly road on Nov. 9.

After hearing the testimony of 10 witnesses—principals in the crash and those who arrived at the scene shortly afterwards—the jury returned a verdict of "accidental death as a result of an automobile accident on the old Franklin-Waverly road. We, the jury, further recommend that this case be turned over to the proper Morgan County authorities for further investigation."

Flynn, who has been held in custody at the county jail, went to Franklin to testify. Other witnesses included Gene and Gary Burnett, passengers in the other car; Martin L. Anderson, Ray Courier, Jr., Francis E. Hermes, Earl Gray, Virgina B. McNeely, Wayne McNeely and Deputy Sheriff Harry Timmons.

Coroner Hawks said that it was ascertained from testimony given by principal witnesses that neither car had its headlights on at the time of the collision, which occurred about 6:30 p. m.

Comprising the jury were Richard Hembrough, foreman; James H. Blair, A. E. Scott, John R. Bostic, Elbert McNeely and Otto Spires.

Mrs. Shirley Ellering was the inquest stenographer.

Annual Choral Festival Will Be Held Monday

PITTSFIELD—Then Annual Pike county Choral festival will be held next Monday, November 22, in the Pittsfield High school auditorium. The concert will be presented at 8 o'clock in the evening.

Henry Busche of MacMurray College at Jacksonville will be the guest conductor. Busche's work with the festival several years ago was praised by both the students and the audience, and there were many requests that he conduct the group again.

The chorus this year will have 350 members from Pike county high schools. These students have studied the selections in their own school chorus and glee club rehearsals, and will meet during the day Monday as a combined group for their final rehearsals.

The All-County Boys Glee Club will sing "Happy Days are Here Again" by Ager, "Jeshua Fit De Battle of Jericho" by Cooksen, and "Moonlight Bay" by Wenrich-McLean.

The All-County Girls Glee Club will sing "With a Hey and a Hi and a Ho Ho Ho!" by Mizzy-Curtis, "Sleigh Ride" by Edwards, and "Winter Wonderland" by Bernard.

The All-County Mixed Chorus will sing "Where in the World But In America" by Rowell-Waring, "Asleep in the Deep" by Petrie, "Thanks Be to God" by Dickson, and "Prayer of Thanksgiving by Deis.

In addition the the selections by the combined groups, many of the schools will present solos and ensembles.

Schools participating in the festival are: Griggsville, Milton, Nebo, Perry, Plesant Hill, Pittsfield and West Pike (Kinderhook).

DeMOLAY MOTHERS TO PLAN ACTIVITIES

The Jacksonville DeMolay Mothers' Circle will meet Tuesday evening, Nov. 23, at the Masonic Temple for its regular stated meeting. The president, Mrs. Theodore Suhre, has asked all members to be present as there are several important business matters to come before the group, including a catering service for Zingabad Grotto's Swedish Smorgasbord planned for Nov. 30, as the annual Christmas party for next month. The meeting is called for 7:30 p.m.

JERSEYVILLE OFFICE BROKEN INTO AGAIN

JERSEYVILLE — Another break in was reported Friday morning to local officers by the Jacobs Mundy Lumber Company office on East Arch Street.

Burglars broke out the glass from a side door of the company office and effected their entrance. So far as could be ascertained the principal loot taken consisted of flash light batteries.

SOUTH SIDE CIRCLE MEETS AT HOME OF MRS. H. T. KELLER

The South Side Circle was entertained Friday, Nov. 19, in the home of Mrs. H. T. Keller with Mrs. W. B. Rogers assistant hostess.

The president, Mrs. C. L. Rice, called the meeting to order and offered prayer. Minutes of the Nov. 5 meeting were read and approved. A short business session followed.

Program chairman, Mrs. E. A. Schoedsack, presented Mrs. E. G. Caldwell, who read a very interesting Thanksgiving story entitled "The Widened Hearth."

Seventeen members responded to roll call. Two guests were present, Mrs. Olive Osborne and Mrs. Oscar Julberg from Michigan.

The club adjourned for the social hour and delicious refreshments were served from a beautifully decorated tea table with Mrs. W. B. Rogers and Mrs. Harrison Weaver pouring.

The Dec. 3 meeting will be held in the Pilgrim Room at Hamilton's Cafe with Mrs. Ethel Strawn hostess assisted by Miss Emma Hunter.

ALEXANDER ALTAR SOCIETY TO COVER CHAIRS AT CHURCH

ALEXANDER — The Altar and Rosary society of the Church of Visitation met Thursday afternoon. After reciting the Rosary at the church a business and social gathering was held in the basement of the church.

Several of the ladies volunteered to make communion dresses to be sent to the Pope for the Italian children. Members of the society will meet Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 23 to recover the church folding chairs.

Mrs. Betty Eck and Mrs. Louise Coop are on the sewing committee.

The December meeting of the society will be a potluck with serving starting at 12:30 noon.

To Leave Sunday For Methodist Church Sessions

Dr. and Mrs. Victor H. Roberts, 275 East Vandalia avenue, will leave Sunday evening for Chicago to attend a reception and dinner in the Palmer House on Monday evening, Nov. 22, in honor of the 50 Methodist bishops and 573 district superintendents who will be attending a quadrennial national meeting, November 21-24.

Dr. Roberts is superintendent of the Jacksonville district of Methodist churches.

The purpose of the meeting is to bring together the District Superintendents, Bishops, executives and staff leaders of boards and agencies of the church to survey the progress which has been made in the objectives for the quadrennium and to consider techniques by which their full accomplishment may be reached.

The five major subjects to be considered are: "Crusade for World Order," "World Mission of Methodism," "Stewardship of Possessions," "Witness of Methodist Youth" and "Power for Evangelism."

The District Superintendents from the Illinois Conference are Dr. and Mrs. Walter F. Day, Bloomington; Dr. and Mrs. Leland L. Lawrence, Champaign; Dr. and Mrs. Preston E. Horst, Decatur; Dr. and Mrs. Charles B. Warner, Galesburg; Dr. and Mrs. Victor H. Roberts, Jacksonville; Dr. and Mrs. Eugene N. Wisely, Peoria; Dr. and Mrs. Raye L. Ragan, Springfield.

A total of 39 ministers and laymen from the Illinois Conference will attend the reception and banquet on Monday evening.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH GROUP HAS PROGRAM AT MILLER HOME

Group 7, of the Christian Women's Fellowship of Central Christian church, met Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Thomas H. Miller, 417 Lake Street.

The business meeting was conducted by the group chairman Mrs. John Shay. Plans were made to help with the turkey supper on Dec. 1, at the church.

Devotions were given by Mrs. Donald Littler, and were based on "The Cities of Refuge" from the 35th Chapter of Numbers.

The Mission lesson was given by Mrs. Emma Wilding on "A Parish in a City," which told of the work at All Peoples Church, Los Angeles, Calif.

The program was given by Mrs. Verna Butcher, on the subject "In The Heart of the Cities Need." She gave highlights of a personal tour to Flanner House, and the work that this settlement house is doing in Indianapolis. A brief review was also given of the book "Sidewalk Kids," by Gertrude Jenness Rinden.

Following the meeting, the hostess, assisted by several of the members, served refreshments.

The next meeting will be held Dec. 15, at the home of Mrs. Fred Massey, R. R. 2.

Our showroom will be open today for your convenience. Come in, see and drive the 1955 Buick, new thriller in style, power and performance.

MRS. OLIVER P. BAKER, JR.
Winchester Girl Bride

WINCHESTER—In a beautiful candlelight ceremony on Saturday afternoon at the First Christian Church in Winchester Miss Betty Rue Schwab and Oliver Parker Baker, Jr., St. Louis, exchanged their wedding vows. Rev. Robert Foster, of St. Louis, officiated at the double ring ceremony before the altar decorated with baskets of white mums and palms.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. R. L. Schwab, and the late Rev. Schwab. Mr. Baker's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Parker Baker, Sr., of Oakland, Calif.

Gary Stuart played a group of organ selections preceding the ceremony and accompanied Robert Coultas who sang "The Lord's Prayer" following the exchange of vows.

Mrs. Clark Doak, Jerseyville was her sister's matron of honor. Miss Velma Bland, of Chicago, served as bridesmaid.

Houston Bowyer, St. Louis, was best man for the groom, and ushers were Al Fernthell, Cincinnati, Harold Kidd, St. Louis and Cecil McVey, Palmyra, brother-in-law of the bride.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Craig Schwab, Iowa City, chose a wedding gown of white faille, fashioned in Princess style, floor length. The low cut rounded neckline of the bodice was trimmed with small loops and pearls, and the long tapered sleeves were ornamented with pearls at the wrist. She wore a circlet of pearls which held a scalloped veil also trimmed with pearls. She carried a spray bouquet of white mums.

Mrs. Doak's taffeta gown of bronze color was fashioned similar in design to that of the bride. She carried a muff of dark green velvet to which was attached a spray of yellow mums. She wore a band of green velvet trimmed with pearls over her hair.

The gown and accessories of Miss Bland were identical to that of Mrs. Doak.

A niece and nephew of the bride, John McVey, Palmyra, and Kathleen Doak, Jerseyville, served as candlelighters. Little Miss Doak wore a floor length dress of yellow taffeta, with a dark green velvet belt adorned with bronze mums.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Schwab chose a dress of cocoa colored crepe, a velvet hat of very pale lavender and she wore a corsage of lavender mums.

Mrs. Baker, Sr., wore a crepe dress of Wedgewood blue, with navy accessories and a corsage of Happiness roses.

Reception

A reception was held in the church parlor for the wedding guests. The color scheme of yellow and white, and bronze was carried out. Mrs. W. H. Wachenheim and daughter, Nancy, registered the guests, with Miss Nancy wearing a dress similar to that of her cousin, Miss Doak. Others assisting at the reception were Miss Dorris Wilson, St. Louis; Miss Barbara Williams, Champaign, and Mrs. Cecil McVey, Palmyra.

When the young couple left for a Southern wedding trip Mrs. Baker, Jr., was wearing a wool suit of black and tangerine, with tangerine colored hat, black accessories.

The bride graduated from the Winchester High School, class of 1945, from the University of Illinois, class of 1949. For the past two years she has served as District Director of the Girl Scout Council of Greater St. Louis. Mr. Baker, Jr., is a graduate of George William College, in Chicago. He is Youth Secretary of the North Side YMCA in St. Louis and they will make their home at 5011½ Lotus, St. Louis.

Other relatives attending were Mr. and Mrs. Baker, Sr., Mrs. Craig Schwab and children, Carl, Craig Lee, Penny Dee, and Gary, Mr. Wachenheim, and Dr. Doak.

Jerseyville Junior Women To Aid Teens

JERSEYVILLE— The Jerseyville Junior Woman's club has begun plans for establishing a Teen Age club for boys and girls of the community between the ages of 13 and 19, to provide recreation for the young people in their leisure hours.

The group met Tuesday at the Holy Ghost hall and at that time voted to rent a building for the Teen Age club to meet in and to have the program in operation by December.

The sponsors of the project will welcome ideas from residents of the community. Letters are being mailed by the Junior women to all business men and organiaztions asking their cooperation in the program.

Anyone in the county having tables, chairs, lamps, rugs, recreational equipment or lounge furniture of any type that could be used for the project is asked to contact Mrs. Don Martin, chairman.

Malcolm Aldrich, recreational director in Jerseyville, appeared before the club and spoke of the needs of the Teen Age club. A meeting of young people will be held Saturday evening at the Teen Age building at which time they may express their ideas and wishes for the club. Any one between 13 and 19 years of age is invited to attend the meeting.

Atoms Gift To Medicine Club Program

The president of the Jacksonville Tuesday club, Mrs. Chester Colton, entertained members and guests at her home in Pitner Place on Nov. 16. Guests were Mrs. R. P. Templin, Mrs. Schofield, Mrs. Livengood, Mrs. Ralph Bersell and Mrs. Crumpler.

After a brief business session conducted by the hostess the program was announced. Mrs. Jack Thomas spoke on a most interesting and educational subject, New Advances in Medical Science. Mrs. Thomas dealt with the field of atomic energy and its gift to medical science. The study in this field is wide and constantly increasing. The speaker told the women that the Atomic Energy Commission now has three hospitals for the study of using atomic energy as a medical aid and the advances made give much hope to doctors, scientists and humanity. Mrs. Thomas itemized the many new developments in the treating of heart ailments and in arthritis and contributory suffering.

Mrs. Claude Gustine was welcomed as a new member of the Tuesday Club. During the social hour the hostess served refreshments at a beautifully appointed table with Mrs. James Bunting pouring.

Men Prepare Dinner For Couple's Class

Male members of the Couples class at the Grace Methodist church traditionally carried out Ladies night on Sunday evening, Nov. 14, by preparing and serving a delicious dinner for 81 at the church. Tables were decorated in the Thanksgiving theme with brown and orange colored paper ribbons and paper mache turkeys, candy corn and colorful fall leaves.

Anton Engel was chairman of the kitchen committee for Ladies Night.

The entertainment for the evening was a fine musical program presented by pupils from Jacksonville schools. The numbers were presented by Jewell L. Mann. The high school Mixed Ensemble and its accompanist presented a number, "Blue Moon" directed by Mr. Lord. The JHS String Ensemble, directed by Mr. Werner, presented the following numbers, "The Crusader's Hymn," "The Thanksgiving Hymn," "Tenderly" and "Siboney."

Donald Heitler, who is a student at the Illinois Braille and Sight Saving School, entertained with the following numbers. "Novelette," "The High and the Mighty," "You Came a Long Way from St. Louis" and "Stardust."

A short business meeting was conducted by Dr. E. S. Fellows, president of the class. Speaker From Egypt Charms Local AAUW

Madam Doria Shafik, outstanding feminist of Egypt, spoke to the members of the American Association of University Women on Thursday evening in the Social Room at MacMurray College.

"The struggle for political, economic, and social rights for women is not only an Egyption problem, but an international problem as well," Madam Shafik said in her talk on "Egyptian Women and the New Regime in Ebypt." "Women either have fought or are fighting for their rights throughout the world," she asserted.

Madam Shafik sketched, in a most charming manner, the history of rights for Egyptian women starting with the lack of them during the days of her grandmother when polygamy was practiced and women were part of the harem. These many inherited traditions had to be broken down. She illustrated this also by telling how the women of her country stopped wearing their veils in public.

In the ensuing years, women gained admittance into the universities in order that they may be as well educated as the men. They began to take their places in many and varied fields gaining economic rights as well as social rights. She told of taking the parliament by storm in order to gain political rights and representation. When this did not prove entirely effective, some went on a hunger strike which gained the sympathy of public opinion and eventually their political rights. A new constitution is to be finished this month and when parliament reconvenes, women will be among the representatives.

"There must be personal sacrifice such as the hunger strike, for without sacrifice, nothing can be done," Madam Shafik concluded.

Mrs. W. F. Bailey, vice president of the local branch presided at the meeting. Miss Marjorie Copeland, treasurer, announced that current dues must be in by Nov. 27. Mrs. Francis Ferry, program coordinator, introduced the speaker.

Never throw away celery tops! They give wonderful flaver to roast meat or poultry, stews and stuffings.

MRS. RICHARD LOVEKAMP

A ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Marilyn Burrus and Richard Lovekamp of Arenzville was performed Sunday afternoon, November 14, at St. Peter's Lutheran church at four o'clock by the pastor, Reverend G. A. C. Bischoff.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Dora Burrus and the bridegroom the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lorenz Lovekamp, all of Arenzville.

Candelabra, ferns and two large baskets filled with white mums decorated the church altar. Tapers glowed in each of the church windows. Miss Elizabeth Paul served as organist and played the traditional wedding marches. The soloist, Bill Kinsey, sang "Because" preceding the ceremony and "The Wedding Prayer" as the couple knelt at the altar. He was accompaniel by Miss Inez Dahman.

Mrs. Elroy Dannewitz of Somonauk, Illinois, sister of the bride, was her matron of honor. The other two attendants were Mrs. Henry Quigg of Jacksonville, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Martin Burrus, Arenzville, sister-in-law of the bride.

Martin Burrus of Arenzville, brother of the bride, served as best man and Henry Quigg and Elroy Dannewitz were groomsmen and al-so ushered guests to their seats.

The bride was gowned in filmy white nylon tulle with Chantilly lace over bridal satin, floor length. The fitted bodice was of lace which extended torso length before fanning out into a huge full skirt of layers of tulle over satin ending entrain and worn over hoops. The fragile bodice was styled with a sweetheart neckline and short lace sleeves. She wore long lace mitts to carry her cascade bouquet of white pompoms, stephanotis and ivy. The lace bodice was embroidered in seed pearls and iridescent sequins. Her fingertip length veil of sheer illusion was held to a hand blocked cap of imported Chantilly lace. She wore a pearl necklace the gift of her bridegroom.

The attendants were gowned alike in peacock blue velvet and net over taffeta. The floor length dresses had velvet bodices with net over taffeta skirts. Each wore matching color mitts and half-hats in the velvet and carried bouquets of bronze mums and pompoms. Their jewel accessories were single strands of pearls and matching earrings.

Miss Jane and Karen Dannewitz who lighted candles at the altar before the ceremony, wore gold colored velvet dresses and wrist corsages of bronze pompoms. The flower girl Rebecca Burrus, wore gold velvet and a waist corsage of bronze pompoms. She scattered rose petals from a white basket preceding the bride down the aisle. Ringbearers were Joe Dannewitz and Tommy Burrus.

Mrs. Burrus wore for her daughter's wedding navy blue crepe with mauve pink accessories and a corsage of pink pompoms. Mrs. Lovekamp, mother of the bridegroom, also wore navy blue with matching accessories and a corsage of pink pompoms.

Reception in Beardstown

The repection after the wedding was held at the Park hotel in Beardstown. During the receiving hours in the hotel dining room Miss Elizabeth Paul entertained with piano selections.

The bride's table was beautifully decorated with garlands of mums and tapers. The four tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom and served with punch to the guests. Assisting with the serving were Mrs. Joe Schildman, Mrs. Wilbur Lovekamp, Mrs. Paul Koschmann and Mrs. Bill Kinsey. Mrs. John Jokisch was in charge of the guest book and the gifts.

The couple left after the reception for a honeymoon in the Ozarks. The bride's going away costume was a blue wool suit with navy accessories and the corsage from her wedding bouquet.

Mrs. Lovekamp is a graduate of the Passavant Memorial Hospital's School of Nursing with the class of 1953. Mr. Lovekamp has served two years in Japan with the Air Force and will now be stationed at the Clovis Air Force Base in New Mexico.

MRS. MELVIN DUFELMEIER
Shirley Lakamp is Bride

Candleglow from tall tapers in branched candelabra and white mums formed the setting at the altar of the Trinity Lutheran church at Neeleyville the afternoon of Sunday, November 7, when Miss Shirley Lakamp of Chapin became the bride of Melvin Dufelmeier of Arenzville. The nuptials were performed by Reverend John Deterding, pastor of the church, before a gathering of friends and relatives.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Lakamp of Chapin. Mr. Lakamp gave his daughter in marriage. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dufelmeier of Arenzville.

William Jewsbury played the traditional wedding marches and accompanied the soloist, Miss Kathleen Ruppel who sang "Because" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Preceding the ceremony candles at the altar were lighted by Miss Judy Hurrelbrink and Miss Janet Hurrelbrink wearing yellow and blue gowns respectively. The dresses were net over matching color taffeta with lace jackets. The skirts were trimmed with black bows and were waltz length.

Mrs. Edwin Graybael of Columbus, Ohio was the matron of honor and Miss Eileen Dufelmeier of Walnut, Illinois, sister of the bridegroom, was the second attendant.

Wilbur Kleinschmidt of Racine, Wisconsin, served as best man and Frederick Lakamp of Chapin, brother of the bride, was groomsman. Gerald Dufelmeier of Norton, ushered guests to their seats.

Wears Lace Gown

The bride wore a lovely gown of lace fashioned on Princess lines with a fitted bodice and long sleeves tapering to points over the hands. The dainty standup collar had detail trim of sequins and pearls with the bride corresponding the trim with pearl earrings. The waltz length skirt was just shy of the floor and hung generously full with a tulle over satin panel at the front. Her double veil of sheer illusion was secured to a sequin covered crown and she carried a showered white orchid on a white Bible.

The attendants were gowned identically in hunters green. The fitted bodices were of velvet with brief bolero jackets and the skirts bouffont of tulle over taffeta. Each carried a Colonial style bouquet of yellow mums with matching flowered headbands.

Receive at Church

Guests were received by the newlyweds and members of the wedding party and parents at the church immediately after the ceremony. The serving table was centered with a tiered wedding cake, baked by Mrs. Carl Phalmann, flanked by tapers. Yellow mums formed the floral tablepiece. Fruit punch was served with the cake, mints and nutmeats. Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Raymond Dufelmeier, Mrs. Williams Jewsbury, and Miss Donna Diestlehorst.

When the couple left for a honeymoon in the Smokey Mountains and Southern states the bride was wearing an aqua colored knit dress with black accessories. Upon their return they will reside on a farm near Arenzville.

The bride is a graduate of the Chapin high school and is employed in the office of Dr. Robert Herr, Jacksonville dentist. The bridegroom graduated from the Arenzville high school and is engaged in farming.

Guests attended the wedding and reception from Jacksonville, Chapin, Bluffs, Arenzville, Winchester, Virginia, Franklin, Bloomington, Morton, Henry, Galesburg, Beardstown, Arthur, Bushnell, and Quincy, Ill., St. Louis, Mo., Huntington, West Virginia, Racine, Wis., and Columbus, Ohio.

Pilots Bring Joy To Little French Town

The little town of Vimoutiers, France, will celebrate a particularly "joyeux Noel" this December, and with good reason. After ten painful years, this Norman village has resumed a normal, productive life dramatically climaxed by the replacement of two magnificent stained glass windows in its cathedral earlier this year.

Devastatingly bombed during World War II, Vimoutiers has recovered largely through the assistance of the 350 Pilot Clubs in Pilot International. The working women of Pilot, eager to contribute to better understanding among the peoples of the world, accepted in 1949 as "a rare opportunity" the projected program of aid to the French village.

Since then, CHARM magazine reports in its December issue, Pilot has sent food, medicine, clothing, has helped provide a new hospital, rebuild community facilities and, more important, renewed hope and optimism in the hearts of the villagers. Among the many contributions are those sent from time to time by the Pilot Club of Jacksonville.

The new cathedral windows are the result of a special Pilot project and have been replaced in addition to continuing gifts for the material needs of the village.

CHARM tells the story of Vimoutiers this Christmas season as a striking example of the contributions one warm hearted organization of working women has made to world friendship and as an inspiration to women who work everywhere.

JUDITH ANN BAGALE
Plans Wedding December 19

Pre-Christmas nuptials are the plans for Miss Judith Ann Bagale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Bagale, 335 North Webster avenue and Ronald Gene Gano, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gano, 408 Gladstone Road, as announced by her parents.

The wedding will be solemnized at one-thirty the afternoon of Sunday, December nineteenth in the Annie Merner Chapel on MacMurray College campus. The Reverend Leslie J. Heuston, pastor of the Central Christian church, will officiate, assisted by Dr. McKendree Blair.

The bride-elect graduated from the Jacksonville high school with the class of 1951 and is a graduate nurse on the staff of the Passavant Memorial Area Hospital.

Mr. Gano is also a graduate of the Jacksonville high school with the class of 1951 and is a senior at Illinois College.

Use those scraps of leftover pastry this way. Roll out thin and cut into fancy shapes; sprinkle with grated cheddar cheese and paprika and bake. Delicious with soups or salads!

Group four of the CWF of Christian church met Wednesday with Mrs. Earl Underbrink, 124 Pine street, assisted by Mrs. W. W. Gilham and Miss Annabelle Crum.

Prayer opened the meeting and final plans were made for the circle's contribution to the society project of the annual dinner to be served Wednesday, Dec. 1 at the church. Reports were made on the service projects.

Mrs. Carl Swanson gave devotions on the Thanksgiving theme. The Missionary lesson on Home Missions was given by Mrs. George Douglas followed by the regular program, The Story of our Work in the Cities. Mrs. S. L. Smith and Mrs. Byron Steward used stories of the All Peoples' Church at Los Angeles and of Flanner House in Indianapolis, Ind. as examples of Home Mission work.

After adjournment dainty refreshments were served to the fourteen members and guests. The next meeting will be Dec. 17 at the home of Mrs. George Douglas with Mrs. Stewart as the assistant.

Fashion Is Theme At Entre Nous

Thanksgiving decorations were featured at the dinner meeting Wednesday, Nov. 17, of the Entre Nous Toastmistress club held in the Pilgrim Room at Hamiltons. Mrs. Helen Smarjesse and Mrs. Mary Minds were responsible for the table appointments.

The topic mistress for the table topics was Helen Devlin with the following giving impromptu talks: Mrs. Emma Lonergan, "My Most Comfortable Outfit;" Mrs. Geraldine Taylor, "My Opinion of the Short Haircut," and Mrs. Bernadine Lair, who answered the question, "Do You Dress to Suit Your Personality or Because It is the Fashion?"

The business session was conducted during the evening by the club president, Mrs. Geraldine Taylor.

After the dinner Mrs. Mary Bennett served as Toastmistress and introduced Mrs. Helen Smarjesse who spoke on "Powers Models" followed by Miss Resa Walsh who discussed, "Style vs Fashion." Mrs. Emma Lonergan served as the moderator for the round-table discussion which followed "Present Day Fashions." Mrs. Geraldine Taylor was the general evaluator for the evening and Mrs. Mary Minks was timekeeper.

45 Will Join Junior Women's Club Dec. 10

Forty-five young matrons will be initiated into the Jacksonville Junior Woman's club at the next regular meeting in December. The names were approved at the meeting Wednesday night of the club's executive board held at the home of the president, Mrs. Robert Herr, on Sunset Hill.

The junior club membership will be near the 200 hundred mark after the initiation and will rival its senior sisters in size. The Jacksonville junior club is by far the largest organization of its kind in the 20th district. The club has successfully accomplished many outstanding civic projects in addition to the required federated club projects. Because of the limited space available for dinner meetings in the city membership has met its maximum. Members in the Junior club are accepted up to and including the age of 40. If the association's growth cannot be stemmed the club may in the future form two such units with different meeting nights to accomodate all young women in the community desiring to share in the worthy civic projects associated with the Junior club.

Those to be initiated at the December meeting are: Mrs. David Glossop, Mrs. Lyndon Heaton, Mrs. Melvin Akers, Mrs. Robert Bradshaw, Mrs. William Chipman, Mrs. John Lair, Mrs. Russell Walton, Mrs. Richard Bruch, Mrs. Victor Williams, Mrs. Ed McCarthy, Mrs James Hocking, Mrs. Thomas Pierce, Mrs. Jack Ryan, Mrs. David Hill, Mrs. Edward Brennan, Mrs. James Orr, Mrs. Tom Mills and Mrs. Ray McKinley.

Also Mrs. Ed Thompson, Mrs. William Wade, Mrs. Joseph Bergschneider, Mrs. Robert J. Linebaugh, Mrs. Frank Norbury, Mrs. John Vohle, Mrs. Jack Gruber, Mrs. Carmen Potter, Mrs. Bill Yording, Mrs. Warren Seymore, Mrs. Eugene French, Mrs. Ray Mason, Mrs. Robert Roach, Mrs. Joseph Cusick, Mrs. Henry Meyer, Mrs. Robert Stone, Mrs. James Cox, Mrs. J. Harry Dowland, Mrs. Travis Budlong, Mrs. John Kelly, Mrs. Byron Boddy, Mrs. John Mullenix, Mrs. Ralph Bursell, Mrs. Robert Werner, Mrs. Hugh Bradshaw, Mrs. Richard Gotschall and Miss Grace McFarland.

The program at the December meeting will be musical with Hyong Jean Paik, talented pianist from Korea who is a student at MacMurray College. Toys for tme underprivileged children in the Jacksonville area will be collected by the committee for the Christmas project at the December meeting. Members are asked to take their toy contributions to the hotel at this time.

Members of the board attending the November session were President Mary Herr, Dorothy Ferry, Betty Mathews, Marg Shanahan, Shirley Williamson, June Carlson, Dorothy Floreth, Agnes Ingram, Corrine Davidsmeyer, Peg Dawson, Juanit Herrin and Vivian Bonjean.

Camera Club Views Special Korean Scenes

The Jacksonville Camera Club enjoyed a program on Korea at the regular meeting held on Wednesday evening at Jones Chapel on the Illinois College campus.

Layo N. Flicke of Barry, presented the program by the use of Kodachrome slides. While an army officer in the army, Mr. Flick became a friend of a Korean who was the highest paid interpreter of that country. This Korean interpreter helped Mr. Flick to obtain some very extraordinary color shots in places and temple compounds that are not accessible to tourist or even service men.

Camera club members were left with the impression there is something really worth while preserving in Korean Culture.

A special guest of the evening was the newly elected president of Central Illinois Camera Clubs Association, John S. Reynolds of Decatur. He was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Robinson of the Springfield Camera Club. They were especially interested in the program on Korea.

Geo. Greenler, local club president presided at the meeting. Refreshments that consisted of doughnuts and cider were served at the close of the evening.

Moose Lodge To Celebrate 8th Anniversary

Plans were made at the regular meeting Thursday night, Nov. 18, of the Moose Lodge 865 at the Home for the celebration of the lodge's eighth anniversary to be marked today, Sunday, Nov. 21.

The meeting was conducted by the governor, Ernest Proffitt with the secretary, C. E. Rousey reading minutes and giving a financial report. Al Rodems, chairman of the building committee, asked for volunteers to work on the second floor of the lodge. Clyde Smith, bowling chairman, reported on the activities of the bowling team sponsored by the lodge.

A lodge member, Harold Bradshaw, was reported still on the sick list. The name of Francis Tannihill was called for attendance prize and he was not present. Announcement was made that the Lodge Home will be closed all day on Thanksgiving, Nov. 25.

Rev. Rodenberg of Meredosia will be the guest speaker at the morning ceremonies. A cafeteria style luncheon will be served at noon by the Women of the Moose. There will be entertainment provided at the Home in the evening.

New York Stock Market

By RADER WINGET

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market ran into selling difficulties this week for the first time in its three week bull market drive ahead following the election.

At one time the selling looked as though it might become serious. The possibility of a major correction loomed. But the market steadied itself. At weekend it was headed higher again, although with much lessened vigor.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks this week was up 80 cents. Compare that with a gain of $4.70 last week and $4.90 the week of the election.

Volume for the week was unusually heavy at 16,791,320 shares, best since the third week of January 1951. Every day the tape was swamped with the weight of orders and was forced to drop behind in reporting actual dealings on the floor of the stock exchange.

On Wednesday the market had its biggest day in nearly four years with 3,830,000 shares traded. That is the heaviest for a single day since Jan. 17, 1951.

The stock market has been climbing for more than 14 months in a determined and steady manner.

Continued excellent general business formed a firm base for the market. The manner in which leadership revolved from one major group to another, including the railroads, also was viewed as a point of strength.

The five most active issues this week on the New York Stock exchange were: New York Central, off ¼ at 23¾ on 239,100 shares; Colorado Fuel & Iron, up 3¼; Chrysler Corp., off 2; U.S. Steel up 3⅝, and Pennsylvania Railroad ahead ⅜.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORT

CHICAGO (AP)—Hog receipts at Chicago this week were the largest since the week ended Jan. 16, 1953, and prices on barrows and gilts fell 50 cents to $1.25 while sows lost 75 cents. A drop in wholesale pork prices accompanied the large live hog run.

The Agriculture Department said, 'It was not a severe price set back considering the hugh volume and losses which ran as high as $9.00 a hundred pounds in some pork cuts in the wholesale trade." Order buyers shipped 20,000 head, largest since January, 1953.

Cattle receipts were about 15 per cent higher than a year ago. Steers made up the bulk of the supply with average good to low prime grades most numerous. Prime steers ended steady, but other types lost 50 to 75 cents.

Heifers finished steady to 50 cents lower than a week earlier, cows about steady, bulls steady to 50 cents lower and vealers steady to $1.00 or more lowe. Top for the week was $31.50, paid for five loads of high prime steers.

Wooled lambs ended the week about steady while shorn lambs were steady to weak. In the wholesale market declines of $1.00 to $2.00 were posted on most dressed meat carcasses.

HOG PRICES DIP SHARPLY LAST WEEK

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Hampered by the largest run in 22 months, hog prices dipped sharply last week at national stockyards.

At the same time, unseasonally warm weather and the emphasis on poultry for the Thanksgiving holiday combined to hurt wholesale dressed meat markets.

Barrows and gilts dropped $1.00 to $1.50 and packing sows $1.25. Hogs sold at $19.35 down Friday.

A total of 19,853 hogs were on sale Monday, largest one-day run since Dec. 29, 1952. The week's total was 60,200, or 10,145 more than the previous week.

Cattle and lamb prices held generally steady, aided by smaller marketings.

ESTIMATED RECEIPTS

CHICAGO (AP)—Unofficial estimated salable livestock receipts for Monday: hogs 15,000; cattle 29,000; sheep 3,000.

WHEAT SET SEASONAL HIGHS DURING WEEK

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat pushed higher with quite persistance on the Board of Trade this week, setting new seasonal highs several days. The advance was accomplished without fanfare and resulted as much from a lack of selling pressure as from strong demand.

The rest of the market did not match wheat's action, although oats ended fractionally higher. Soybeans eased and corn ended mixed. These two cereals had fallen quite sharply in the previous week an still weren't able to show recuperative power.

Rye fell back on a continuation of liquidation while lard, responding to the largest live hog run at Chicago in nearly two year, tumbled sharply. Loose lard closed at a low for the year at 13¼ cents a pound. That was down 1½ cents for the week.

Wheat finished 1½ to 3 cents higher, corn ⅜ lower to ⅜ higher, oats unchanged to ⅞ higher, rye ¼-1¾ lower, soybeans ½-1¾ lower and lard 40 cents to $1.03 a hundred pounds lower.

Two main factors were in the immediate picture to account for wheat's firmness: The fact that the government is getting rid of some of its huge supplies and growing apprehension about the continued dryness in many sections of the winter wheat belt.

In back of these, and unquestionably a more fundamental matter, was the fact that a large amount of this year's wheat crop already has been impounded under the goverment loan. This tends to make the price work up toward the loan level.

Soybeans were shaken a bit by reports much of this crop is high in moisture content, which would reduce its keeping qualities in storage, and news some processing plants were planning to curtail operations next week. The strong producer withholding movement continued, however, and this was a strong price sustaining influence.

Trading in oats was largely of a professional nature with no signs of weakness apparent in view of the good demand for cash oats. Cash corn receipts were liberal and it was felt the major part of the post harvest movement was not yet over.

HIGH MARK FOR REESE

BROOKLYN (AP)—Pee Wee Reese, captain and shortstop of the Dodgers, smiles when he looks back at the banner year he enjoyed in 1954. The 35-year-old infielder batted over the .300 mark for the first time in his 12-year major league career. Reese finished with a .309 average. His 34 two-base hits were tops, too.

His best marks previously were

Bids $4,200 For Five Room House

Bidding $4,200, Robert Bergland purchased a five room house and three acres of land at 1320 South Lincoln avenue, at a master-in-chancery sale Saturday morning at the court house. The property belonged to the David Brown estate.

The house is modern with a bath, full basement, and furnace with blower system.

The sale was conducted by Master-In-Chancery Charles J. Ryan, with Middendorf Brothers as auctioneers. Vaught, Robinson & Foreman are attorneys for the plaintiff.

Jesus' Healings Being Repeated. Says Symonds

In a world devoted to research and material achievement, a different approach to mankind's problem — a spiritually scientific approach—is meeting the test of consistent healing, Walter S. Symonds of San Antonio, Texas, told a large audience in Jacksonville Friday evening.

During the last 80 years of the expanding practice of Christian Science has restored—with unmistakable certainty—the spiritual healing practiced by Christ Jesus and the early Christians, Mr. Symonds said. As a result, he added, materialistic thinking is being as directly challenged by pure Christianity today as it was 2,000 years years ago.

Mr. Symonds, on tour as a member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship, spoke in the Congregational church under the auspices of First Church of Christ, Scientist, of this city. He was introduced by Mrs. Priscilla Ferris, first reader of local church. He spoke on "Christian Science: The Joyous Gospel of Healing and Love."

Spiritual healing became lost about three hundred years after the crucifixion of Jesus, the lecturer pointed out, but the desire to know God better remained. The practice of spiritual healing was restored to the world by Mary Baker Fddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, he said.

"Spiritual healing is the basis and strength of our religion," he declared.

Naval Officer's Recovery

By way of illustrating the application of healing Christianity to a practical situation, he told of the healing of a young naval officer during World War II who had been seriously injured in his leg overseas, and who was hospitlized on the West Coast.

The doctors first believed that there was no hope for the young officer. But he was a Christian Scientist, and while obedient to the rules and regulations imposed upon him by the Navy, he placed his trust completely in God, and called upon a Christian Science wartime minister for help. According to Mr. Symonds, the boy clung steadfastly to his understanding that man's life, as God's child, is eternal.

Slow but steady progress was manifested from the very beginning of Christian Science treatment, Mr. Symonds reported. "It was interesting to watch the step by step progress.

"First there was the belief that life would be lost after the injury, but soon it became evident the young officer would survive. Then came the expressed opinions, 'His leg will have to be amputated, and a medical discharge will be the outcome.'

Cane Replaces Crutch

"The wartime minister continued treatments," said Mr. Symonds, and soon the physicians conceded that the officer might get about in a wheel chair. The wartime minister and the boy continued to pray. There was further improvement. Crutches were restored to, and then one crutch was admitted to be sufficient. Later a cane replaced the crutch. Gradually mortal belief had given way to progress, but one final mortal law was laid down, 'He will always have a stiff leg and a limp.' In a few months this fear was overcome also, and the young officer was free. He was healed and returned to active duty.'"

Mr. Symonds defined Christian Science healing as "the restoration of human thinking to discern the spiritual sense of things—the restoration to human thought of the true sense of man, overcoming the false belief of disease and death."

A spiritual understanding of prayer is essential to healing, he stated. "There must be a consecration of one's thought, life, and action to God before it can be truly said that he is praying. This nearness to God is more felt than seen and is an individual experience through spiritual inspiration."

Garrison spoke on the subject "Mental Hygiene" and particularly of the duty of parents to see that their children are given the necessary environment and opportunity to form and retain good mental hygiene, through the proper guidance and associations.

During the business session presided over by the president, Mrs. Frances Long, it was announced that $17.00 had been donated toward the additional amount needed to purchase a trombone for the band.

Mrs. Virginia Norman, legislature chairman, spoke briefly on a petition to increase the state appropriations for school needs which is being circulated throughout the state and requested that each parent interested in the betterment of our school system, sign the petition. Mr. Kimmell spoke on behalf of the particular need of the additional financial aid in this school district, which state aid now provides only $173.00 per pupil, per year.

It was announced that the December meeting would be a Christmas program presented by grades 5, 6, 7 and 8 at the Winchester high school.

In accordance with the attendance of parents attending the meeting, the Radio was awarded to 5X, Mrs. Mary Gillham's room, and the phonograph to 4X, Mrs. Marguarite McAdams' room.

Following the meeting refreshments were served by the mothers of pupils in grade 6X and 6Y, with Mrs. R. R. Riggs and Mrs. Lawrence Foiles in charge.

PAUL RHOADS WILL TELL ABOUT WATER SYSTEM AT FIELDON

JERSEYVILLE—A special meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Village of Fieldon will be held the evening of Dec. 5, and at that time the proposal for a municipal water system for Fieldon will be discussed.

Paul Rhoads, municipal engineer of Caldwell Rhoads Company of Jacksonville, will be present and will explain the possibilities for constructing a village water system.

Last spring a meeting was held and at that time the financing of a water system was discussed.

Probation Denied: Stay Sentence For Ten Days

Bernard Bruening, recently convicted on a charge of aggravated assaut in Morgan county court, was denied probation at a hearing Saturday morning over which Judge Byron Koch of Scott county presided. The defendant had previously been denied a new trial.

When the court ruled against Bruening on his motion for probation, a motion for stay of execution was entered. Judge Koch granted a ten day stay of execution, during which the defense may appeal to the appellate court.

The motion for probation was opposed by State's Attorney Albert Hall. The defense attorney is A. W. Schimmel of Pittsfield.

Bruening is facing a 60 days jail sentence and fine of $100 in connection with an assault on a resident of Arenzville.

760 Checks In Mail For Xmas Savings Members

Some 760 foresighted people are finding their Christmas shopping a little easier this year, as a result of having a tidy sum stashed away through their Christmas Club savings.

Checks totaling $80,000 were mailed this week from the Farmers State Bank and Trust Company and the Elliott State Bank, where this convenient form of saving money for Christmas has been a popular feature for three years. A gain of $25,000 was made this year over the amount paid to club members last year.

Each year the number of members has increased greatly, subsequently being reflected in the total amount of the Christmas Club checks, which are always sent out the latter part of November.

This has proven to be a popular way of establishing a Christmas fund with both adults and children. As there is no age limit, many children hold membership in the Christmas Club, several having received them as Christmas gifts.

Illinois College Debating Teams Rate Excellent

The Illinois College debating team began the 1954-'55 season by competing in the 8th annual Bradley Speech Tournament in Peoria this weekend. Three teams were entered composed of three veterans and three newcomers. The affirmative team composed of Jack Woulfe and Dan Carter took the decisions from Drake U. and Kirksville State Teachers of Missouri while losing to Grinnel and Notre Dame. The negative team composed of Mark Arroll and John Schmidt defeated Northern State Teachers, St. Olaf, and Illinois State Normal University while losing to Loyola of Chicago. The second negative team of Bill MacDonald and Bill Williams handed defeats to North Central, Iowa Central, and Southern Illinois University while taking a loss from Bowling Green. On the basis of their won and lost record, the two negative teams were awarded the rating of excellence.

The national debate topic this year is that the United States should extend diplomatic recognition to the Communist Government of China. The teams were accompanied by their coach, Prof Lloyd P. Dudley.

Car Jumps Curb, Wrecks Neon Sign At Motel

A large neon sign in front of the Crain Motel on East Morton avenue was completely wrecked early Saturday morning when an automobile out of control crashed against the concrete base of the sign. The car first collided with a guy wire on a utility pole, then caromed into the concrete foundation of the sign, knocking it part way out of the ground.

Donald R. Cope, 22, of 542 West Lafayette avenue, told police he swerved to avoid collision with another car. He was driving west on Morton avenue at 4:22 o'clock when the accident occurred.

Cope told Patrolmen Armstrong and Quinlan that his best pained him as a result of the impact. He was taken home in the police car.

Cope's badly damaged 1950 Buick was towed to the Morgan County Motors garage.

The Martha Circle of the Grace Methodist church met Nov. 18 at the home of Mrs. G. O. Webster, 1047 West State, with Mrs. Sam Baker, Mrs. John Reardon and Mrs. M. E. Gilbert as assistant hostesses.

There were 24 members present.

Mrs. A. B. Applebee conducted the meeting and the minutes of the previous meetings were read by Mrs. George Ashby. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. John Reardon.

The group discussed plans for the Holiday House bazzar and luncheon on Dec. 1. Devotions were given by Mrs. C. L. Kanatzaar, and were taken from Romans 12 and Corinthians 12. The meeting closed with a prayer.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Applebee and Mrs. Baxter.

The December meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Ivan Garrison, 2 Pitner Place, with Mrs. John Taylor, Mrs. H. R. Covey, Mrs. Hugh Gibson and Mrs. Effie Baxter as assistant hostesses.

Large Attendance At Our Saviour's School Carnival

Last Sunday evening the band parents of Our Saviour's grade school and Routt high school held their first carnival and supper. It is planned to make this an annual affair for the school band. All parents of both schools and many friends worked to make it an enjoyable evening and also a financial success for the band.

Over 300 suppers were served from 5 till 7 p. m. The carnival continued until 10. Dancing, cake walk, fish pond, country store, penny pitch and dart games furnished a lot of entertainment for both the children and grown-ups. Refreshments and home-made candy were also sold during the evening.

Irish Get Revenge For Last Years Tie, Outplay Iowa 34-18

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Vengeance - bent Notre Dame pounded Iowa, 34-18, Saturday and exacted rich revenge for the famous 14-14 tie that cost the Irish the national football championship a year ago.

Notre Dame under the cunning leadership of Ralph Guglielmi, the passing genius, roared through Iowa for a 34-6 lead midway through the final quarter. There was no need this chilly, crisp day for the feigned injuries that stopped the clock last year to give the Irish the precious time necessary for tying touchdowns.

Only in the late stages did Iowa ramble freely through Notre Dame to furnish some consolation to the Iowans in the crowd of 52,756, a sellout gathering that had been assured when the tickets first went on sale last July.

Coach Terry Brennan's Irish lads were in command all the way until they were far out of danger and both squads were dominated by reserves in much of the late going. Tery did hustle in his first team when Iowa threatened a fourth touchdown, a maneuver that died with the final gun on the Notre Dame 5.

After a scoreless first quarter, Notre Dame sailed to two touchdowns for a 14-0 advantage in the second period before Iowa came up with a touchdown on a 44-yard pass play, Jerry Riehcow to Frank Gilliam. The Iowa end made the catch on the 18 and dragged Notre Dame defender Joe Heap with him the final five yards.

Notre Dame, its ground coverage featuring top-flight passing and slashing drives, went 75 and 81 yards, respectively, for its first two touchdowns. Jim Morse crunched through from 6 inches away for the first Irish score and Heap hit from the 1 for the second.

The Irish hiked their margin to 28-6 in the third quarter. Captain Binkey Broeder sped 18 yards on the first Iowa play in the second half but he fumbled and Heap recovered at midfield.

Notre Dame clipping cost a touchdown on a 23-yard Guglielmi to Paul Matz pass but the Irish came right back for a score, Don Shaefer striking hard from the 3.

Guglielmi's jump pass from the 9 to Matz on the 5 furnished Notre Dame its fourth touchdown. Matz carried a couple of Iowans over with him.

Final Irish pointmaking developed on Tom Carey's toss to end Gene Kapish from the Iowa 38, Kapish making a fancy catch while all alone on the 14.

Iowa, good for only 104 net yards in the first half, got over the terrain with great rapidity in the last half of the fourth period.

A 76-yard pass-run play, Don Dobrino to Earl Smith, stirred up Iowa enthusiasm as Smith galloped 60 yards after the catch. The touchdown boosted his total to 11 and 66 points for a modern Iowa season scoring record.

Then there was another long Iowa smash that Bobby Stearnes climaxed with a shot from the Notre Dame 10 to end the day's scoring.

Notre Dame completed 12 of 19 passes for a net of 233 yards, Guglielmi notching 9 of 14 with his sure-shots for 165.

Iowa	0	6	0	12	—18
Notre Dame	0	14	14	6	—34

Iowa scoring: Touchdowns: Gilliam, Stearnes, Smith.

Notre Dame scoring: Touchdowns: Morse, Heap, Shefer, Matz, Kapish.

Conversions: Shaefer 4.

Baylor Topples SMU 33-21

DALLAS (AP) — Del Shofner, a loose-joined sophomore with larceny in his heart, and senior Billy Hooper, the faker, feinter and passer of Baylor's thunderous split-T attack, combined to lash Southern Methodist 33-21 Saturday, knocking the Methodists out of the Southwest Conference football race and putting Arkansas into the Cotton Bowl.

Shofner intercepted two passes, running one back 87 yards for a touchdown and using the other to set up another touchdown, and also chipped in a 35-yard run that led to still a third. Hooper's passing and running accounted for the other two scores.

A crowd of 47,000 saw SMU take a 14-0 lead in the first nine minutes, then crumble before the vicious comeback of the versatile Golden Bears.

Arkansas "backed" into the Cotton Bowl, taking a 7-6 licking from Louisiana State in an intersectional game.

Baylor also can tie for the championship by beating Rice next Saturday but Arkansas is in the Cotton Bowl anyway it beat Baylor in regular season play. Arkansas had a 5-1 record in conference warfare.

Missouri Blasts Kansas 41-18

COLUMBIA, Mo., (AP)—The Missouri Tigers used all of their substitutes Saturday in a 41-18 victory that ended the first winless football season in the history of the Kansas Jayhawks.

Missouri completed its Big Seven schedule with a 3-2-1 record. It was Kansas' 10th loss of the campaign and 16th successive setback.

The Tigers, racking up their biggest score against Kansas since 1942, scored twice in the first quarter, once in the second, twice in the third, and once in the fourth.

Sophomore Jim Hunter, only Tiger to score twice, counted in the first and fourth quarters. Quarterback Vic Eaton, end Jim Jennings, halfback Jack Fox and full back Harold Thomeczek made the other Missouri touchdowns. Fox had five conversions.

Kansas scored on a 73-yard pass play from Bev Buller to Dick Sandifer. Fullback John Anderson got the other two Jayhawk touchdowns.

Sooners Wrap Up Title, Drub Nebraska 55-7

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Through the air and on the ground, by intercepted pass and by recovered fumble, Oklahoma ground down a determined but undermanned Nebraska football team 55-7 Saturday to easily wrap up its seventh straight Big Seven conference title and its 18th consecutive victory.

Despite the humiliation, Nebraska backed into an Orange Bowl bid as the conference runnerup with a 4-2 record when contending Kansas State lost to Colorado 38-14. The Cornhuskers have an overall 5-4 record with a game remaining against the University of Hawaii.

Oklahoma, 7 — 0 victory over Maryland in the Miami, Fla., classic Jan. 1, is prohibited by a conference rule from playing a return engagement against the Atlantic Coast champion.

Nebraska played Oklahoma to a 7-7 standstill in the first quarter before 56,000 homecoming spectators. But, as in the Sooners' other games this year, they quickly wore down their opponent and were comfortably ahead 21-7 at the half.

All of Oklahoma's eight touchdowns were scored by different players as Sooner coach Bud Wilkinson swept his bench to prevent a greater runaway. However, left halfback Buddy Leake, playing his last home game, was easily the standout.

He intercepted a pass that set up OU's first touchdown, then passed for the tally, and later ran 19 yards for a TD and converted three times. He also recovered a Nebraska fumble to start another scoring drive.

Oklahoma now has gone 49 games without a defeat in the conference since the middle of the 1950 season.

Oklahoma flashed a fancy passing attack to supplement its colorful ground game for three touchdowns through the air. OU, the nation's top rushing defense team, piled up 342 yards on the ground and 235 through the air, its most passing yardage this season.

Indian Fumbles Turn Tide To Give Princeton 49-7 Win

PRINCETON, N. J. (AP)—Princeton's tricky buck lateral series, operated by a pair of experienced slickers, Royce Flippin and Dick Martin, smashed open Dartmouths defense Saturday and gave the Tigers a 49-7 victory in their final game.

Held to a 7-7 deadlock in a rugged first half, the Tigers forged ahead in the third and struck with explosive force and swiftness to score five touchdowns in the last period.

The game was played on a miserable, rainy day before 23,000 spectators.

Two Dartmouth fumbles, recovered by the alert Tigers, turned the tide in what had been a close game. Dartmouth quarterback Bill Beagle dropped the ball when Mike Bowman hit him in the third and Mike Stewart recovered. That paved the way for Martin's five-yard field goal, putting Princeton ahead.

A moment later Princeton's Bill Agnew tackled Dick Smith and jarred him loose from the ball. That led to a touchdown by Martin.

In the final period Princeton scored on a 25-yard pass from Agnew to Bill Danfort, an 85-yard punt return by Dick Thompson and a seven-yard pass from Thompson to Agnew, a two-yard smash by Bon Russell and a 67-yard pass from Sid Pinch to Thompson.

Carrollton Opens Season Wednesday

CARROLLTON — (Special) — Forty boys, including 18 freshmen, reported to coach Richard Hamann as basketball took over the spotlight at Carrollton High last week.

Three lettermen are in the group. Loyal Rarr, Arthur Linn and Fred Baumgartner are the returning veterans. Other promising candidates are Calvin Pegram, Eric Wilson, Ted Young, Don Martin, Dean Bland, Ronnie Bishop, Clev Journey and Larry Handlihl.

The Hawks open their season Wednesday night when they play host to Bethalto. Bethalto's coach is John Logan, former Eldred, Carrollton and Shurtleff star.

Game time for all home games is 6:45.

Ivan The Terrible One Of Four Midgets At Local Bowl Monday

If eccentric Ivan the Terrible had stepped out directly from an Al Capp cartoon strip he couldn't be more of a fabulous character. In fact, many is the time a ring announcer has inadvertently given "Lower Slobovia," a mythical kingdom in Little Abner, as his birthplace.

Actually, Ivan hails from Ukrania and was brought to the United States as a child.

Ivan the Terrible

Many of Ivan's vanquised opponents will testify to the fact that the bald, bewhiskered mat star's similarity to a comic character ends with his appearance for he packs as much power in his 160 pound, four feet frame as a giant.

Rough and merciless as the Ukranian lad is, you'll get no one to disagree that his speed and wrestling skills is the talk of the country.

Ivan built up his remarkable physique with weight-lifting and is considered one of the most proficient judo wrestling experts among the midgets in the world.

Appearing with Ivan in the co-feature attraction at the high school gym tomorrow night will be Sky Low Low, a 96 pounder from Montreal, Pee Wee James from Boston and Tiny Tim from Detroit.

The special attraction on this second night of wrestling for local fans this season, will be a 1-hour time limit battle between the U. S. Heavyweight Champion Verne Gagne and Don Leo Jonathon.

Jonathon is a newcomer to local mat fans but promises to give the champ a run for his money. The opener will pit Johnny Pavich and Hans Hermann.

Hermann needs no introduction to local fans. The German Giant is one of the real meanies in the mat game today.

LSU Nips Arkansas With 7-6 Upset Before 33,000

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — With handyman Al Doggett playing every backfield position, injury-riddled Louisiana State University rocked Arkansas with a 7-6 upset Saturday before 33,000 fans.

But the defeat didn't stop Arkansas from winning a spot as the Southwest Conference representative in the Cotton Bowl. Baylor, victorious over Southern Methodist, can still tie for the conference title but a defeat by Arkansas earlier in the season gives the Razorbacks the bowl bid.

Lightly regarded and heading nowhere, LSU sent the Razorbacks down to their second straight defeat by beating them at their own games—possession ball.

The largest public gathering in Shreveport history saw Doggett start the game at halfback, return to quarterback to spark a second quarter scoring drive and then move to fullback when there were kicking chores to be done.

It was Doggett's extra point, after the ball holder juggled the pass from center, that made the difference. Doggett kicked true anyway.

After threatening twice, Arkansas got on the scoreboard first when second string tailback Buddy Benson passed 13 yards to Billy Lyons in the end zone, midway in the second quarter. Benson was wide with his extra point try.

Four minutes later, LSU drove 33 yards to a touchdown in eight plays. Halfback Chuck Johns, used sparingly because of a lame ankle, scooted over from the three. Doggett set up the score with a 14-yard pass to Joe May.

After that LSU concentrated successfully on possession.

Montreal Tops Hamilton 24-19

MONTREAL (AP)—The deadly passing of quarterback Sam Etcheverry carried the Montreal Alouettes to a 24-19 victory over the Hamilton Tiger-Cats Saturday and gave the Alouettes a berth in the Grey Cup classic next week in Toronto.

Two of Etcheverry's passes went for touchdowns and one of these plays carried 102 yards.

Rice Tops TCU 6-0 To Win S.W. Conference

HOUSTON (AP)—Jerry Hall, taking over just before game time when the regular fullback was disciplined, teamed with dependable Dickey Moegle Saturday to give Rice a 6-0 Southwest Conference victory over Texas Christian.

After driving 57-yards in the first quarter for the game's lone touchdown, Rice had to call on its best defense efforts to stop three serious TCU threats inside the 10 yard line.

The clock stopped the Horned Frogs on the 6 at the end of the second period. A 91-yard fourth quarter drive was stopped on the 1. As the final gun sounded TCU, on fourth down, threw an incomplete pass from the 8.

Hall, in three plays, accounted for 46 of the 57-yard Rice touchdown drive which ended when quarterback Atchley Proctor plunged over from the one.

Hall took over for Mac Taylor, the regular fullback. Rice sources said Taylor had been disciplined for missing bed check.

Hall was the leading ground gainer with 124 yards in 21 carries. Moegle had 100 yards in 17.

Our Greatest Game Of Season: Bennie Oosterbaan

By DAVE DILES

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— A Rose Bowl exploded in Ohio Stadium Saturday as the nation's top-ranked team, shoved all over its own back yard for three quarters, thundered back to repel a fighting Michigan team, 21-7.

Everything hinged on the outcome of the game, and Ohio State well-wishers were as closely bunched in the victors' dressing room as were the more than 82,400 who jammed into the huge horsehoe for the vital fray.

Possibly no other game in the long history of Ohio State football had meant so much. An undefeated season, the Big Ten championship, a trip to the Rose Bowl and probably the nation's number one ranking hung in the balance.

Woody Hayes, the husky, excitable coach who led the Buckeyes to their first undefeated season since 1944, said, "the boys came through like champions."

The Michigan goalwarts, upholding the adage that they throw away the record books for this game, pushed Ohio State everywhere but out of the stadium.

"But they got only seven points," Hayes pointed out. "We stopped the touchdowns."

Hayes said he was confident the Bucks would win. "But no one goes undefeated without luck," he admitted. "We must have been living right."

Bennie Oosterbaan, veteran Michigan coach, said it was his team's "greatest game of the season and we have no alibis."

"I was never more proud of a team," said the Michigan coach. "I'm not one to look back and say, 'if this had happened, or if that had not happened.' Possibly fate was unkind to a valiant group of warriors. But I have to give Ohio State credit. It's a great team."

Then the man who had hoped a decisive win over the Bucks might mean a Rose Bowl trip for the Wolverines said:

"Woody and his staff deserve a lot of credit. We went into this game with confidence and determination. We are proud — very proud — of our team. And we wish Ohio well out there (in the Rose Bowl)."

A charley horse received in the game probably will not keep Bobby Watkins, leading Ohio State ground gainer and scorer, out of the Rose Bowl.

Taken out of the game shortly after he tackled Michigan's Daniel Cline, Watkins saw no offense action.

The injury was not believed serious.

4 Lettermen At White Hall

WHITE HALL—(Special)—Coach Howard Berline's White Hall Maroons open their cage season November 30 when they play host to Beardstown.

Four returning lettermen are among this year's candidates. They are senior James McClure and Bob Campbell and juniors Gary Craigmiles and Merle Brogdon.

McClure and Craigmiles were regulars on last year's five. Other promising candidates are Don Kisinger, Gary Schroeder, Tom McGlasson and Danny Westridge.

UCLA Bruins Batter Southern Cal 34-0 For PCC Championship

By BOB MYERS

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The unbeaten Bruins of UCLA blasted Southern California 34-0 before 102,548 fans Saturday to win the Pacific Coast Conference championship for the second straight year.

Rounding out a perfect nine-game season before the largest football turnout in the nation this year, the Bruins fired a touchdown shot through the air that actually won the game in the first seven minutes. It was a pass play for 48 yards from little halfback Primo Villanueva to end Bob Heydenfeldt.

Despite the loss, Southern California is due for the official selection to represent the PCC in the Rose Bowl against Ohio State, conquerors in the Big Ten conference. The Trojans finished second in the PCC with a 6-1 conference record. UCLA is ineligible for the coming bowl game, having played there last Jan. 1.

Held scoreless the second and third quarters, UCLA buried the Trojans under a barrage of four touchdowns in the fourth to keep alive the Bruin bid for the mythical national collegiate championship.

Early in the fourth quarter UCLA back Johnny Hermann stepped in to field a pass by Jim Contratto of USC and race it back 44 yards. Moments later, Bob Davenport crashed one yard for the second touchdown.

Villanueva then fired a pass for 12 yards and six points to his blocking back, 181-pound Terry Debay.

The reserves took over in the final stages. End Rommie Loudd scored on a six-yard throw from Doug Bradley for the No. 4 TD of the game, and No. 5 came on a throw from fourth string halfback Sam Brown to another substitute, Bruce Ballard.

UCLA intercepted five Trojan passes and returned them 167 yards a new conference record. And the Bruin defenses held USC to only five yards net on the ground.

UCLA	7	0	0	27	—34

UCLA scoring: Touchdowns, Heydenfeldt, Danveport, Debay, Loudd Ballard. Conversions, Hermann 4.

Purdue, Indiana Fight On Field, Sidelines, Boilermakers Win 13-7

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Purdue's Boilermakers kept the old oaken bucket Saturday by beating their old intrastate rivals from Indiana, 13-7, in one of the roughest games of the series that started in 1891.

Len Dawson's 15th touchdown pass this year was the victory margin.

Purdue finished sixth in the Big Ten, Indiana seventh.

Coach Bernie Crimmins of Indiana raged on the sidelines while penalties repeatedly stopped the Hoosiers.

Fist fights broke out in the crowd of 44,000, but state police had the situation under control when the game ended.

Indiana was penalized 132 yards to 20 for Purdue.

Purdue's victory ran its modern dominance of Indiana to seven straight, the longest string by either team in the 57-game series.

Tackle Nate Borden, a converted end playing his 39th consecutive game for Indiana, picked up a blocked punt in the first quarter for Indiana's touchdown. He was ejected from the game in the final period for unnecessary roughness after adding recovery of Prudue fumble to his final Hoosier performance.

Two 15-yard Indiana penalties set up a one-yard touchdown sneak by Dawn in the second quarter. He passed nine yards to Rex Brock for the winning score in the third.

Indiana had a 7-6 halftime lead, thanks to Florian Helinski's conversion following Borden's touchdown. Dawson missed his attempt after the first Boilermaker score.

Indiana	7	0	0	0	—7
Purdue	0	6	7	0	—13

Indiana scoring: Touchdown, Borden. Conversion, Helinski. Purdue scoring: Touchdowns, Dawson, Brock. Conversion, Dawson.

Bradley Nicks Washington U. Of St. Louis 20-19

PEORIA, Ill., (AP)—Bradley University's football team overcame a 19-6 deficit to edge Washington of St. Louis, 20 - 19, Saturday on Howie Hostetler's extra point.

Bob Ladd of Washington ran back two pass interceptions for touchdowns, but Bradley marched 43 yards in the final period for the deciding touchdown which came on Don Stamp's 2-yard pass to John Joos. It was after this touchdown that Hostetler booted his big extra point.

Stamp passed 19 yards to Joos for a 6-0 Bradley lead in the first period. In the second quarter, Ladd romped 35 yards with an interception of a Stamp pass. That tied it at halftime 6-6.

In the third quarter, Washingtons Jim Burst circled right end on a 20-yard scoring run and Ladd intercepted another Braley pass to scoot 45 yards for a touchdown and a 19-6 Washington lead.

In the fourth period, Bradley marched 66 yards for a touchdown on Al Gatti's one-yard plunge. Hostetler added to keep Bradley behind, 19-13. Then came Bradley's final touchdown march.

Harvard Pastes Yale 13-9

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Senior wingback Frank White, playing for Bob Cowles who was injured on the opening kickoff, threw a 40-yard scoring pass to end Bob Cochran with less than five minutes to play Saturday as Harvard staged a magnificent comeback to defeat Yale 13-9.

The victory spelled Harvard's first Big Three championship since 1941.

Harvard had closed the gap to 9-7 with 34 seconds gone in the final period as sophomore fullback Tony Gianelly fought his way over from the one.

Yale, frustrated throughout the first half except for a safety, tallied at 4:37 of the third period with Bob Brink hitting end Byron Campbell on the goal line with a 12-yard pass.

Macomb Edges Carbondale 19-17

CARBONDALE, Ill., (AP)—Western Illinois of Macomb clinched third place in the IIAC Saturday by edging Southern Illinois 19-17 in the final football game of the season for both teams.

Western scored on two long marches and a pass play.

Don Lashmet plunged over from the three after a 73-yard drive in the second quarter and Ozzie Hysen capped a 97-yard march in the third by scoring from the one on a quarterback sneak.

The decisive TD came with 4½ minutes remaining on an 8-yard pass from Bill Vandermerkt to end Ray Perason.

Bob Ems of Southern scored on a 3-yard plunge in the fourth and passed 36 yards to Wayne Williams for another counter in the third. Gene Tbacchie kicked a field goal for Southern in the first quarter.

Giants Face Rams In Pro Football's 'Game Of The Day'

By JOHN CHANDLER
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New York Giants, who have been working on Eastern clubs to take over the lead in the National Football's League's eastern conference, will face a far western powerhouse Sunday, when the ever dangerous Los Angeles Rams invade the Polo Grounds.

It is the top game of the day, which finds the Detroit Lions — no. 1 club in the western conference — playing the Packers at Green Bay, the Philadelphia Eagles at Cleveland, the Chicago Bears at Baltimore, and the Washington Redskins at Chicago for a date with the Cardinals.

The San Francisco 49ers and Pittsburgh Steelers met last night at Pittsburgh.

Los Angeles, two games behind Detroit, may be depended upon to throw a lightning aerial game at the Giants, with Norman Von Brocklin aiming at three glue-fingered receivers, ends Bill Boyd and Tom Fears, and converted halfback Elroy (Crazylegs) Hirsch, also an end. New York never has beaten the Rams in five league games.

The Giants will counter with Chuck Conerly, who has flipped 16 touchdown passes this year against 9 for Van Brocklin. New York's one break, for Ram back Tank Younger, second best rusher in the league, is out for the year with an injury. New York is being made a slight favorite.

A Giant loss and a Cleveland victory would boost the Browns into first place, where they have been accustomed to finish. New York has a 6-2 record, Cleveland is 5-2 and Philadelphia 5-3.

Cleveland's Otto Graham, the former Northwestern star who has sparked the Browns for nine seasons, may be getting along in years, but he still can give the opposition fits, and the Eagles are no exception. Otto and his mates beat the Giants three weeks ago 24-14. The Browns have allowed only 30 points in their last four games, and are favored to win another.

Detroit, which turned back the 49er threat last week 48-7, has two games in five days with the Packers, Green Bay plays at Detroit in a Thursday Turkey Day game. Detroit must lose two games for anyone to have a chance in the western division and Bobby Layne-Doak Walker and Co. seem to have clear sailing to a third straight league crown.

George Blanda, regular quarterback for the Chicago Bears, is out of action, but the Baltimore Colts also are hampered by injuries. Chicago rules a touchdown favorite.

Washington surprised last week by upsetting Pittsburgh 17-14, but the Cardinals will be a slight favorite in their deal with the Redskins for last place in the eastern division.

Whatever happens between the Giants and Rams and the Browns and Eagles will be important, of course. But the big payoff in the eastern division comes next Sunday when Cleveland takes on New York at the Polo Grounds.

Michigan State Trips Marquette 40-10

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Michigan State, smarting after a season of six defeats—the second poorest record in Sparton football history—took out some of the sting by running up a 40-10 score Saturday against overmatched Marquette.

It was win No. 3 for MSC, the Big Ten co-champion and Rose Bowl winner of last New Year's Day. Michigan State's worst season was in 1917, when the Spartons lost all nine games. Marquette ended with a 3-5-1 record.

Quarterback Earl Morrall got Michigan State off to a fast start with a 59-yard touchdown pass to end John Lewis on the first MSC play of the game.

Morrall hit Lewis with a 69-yard pass later in the first period and in the third quarter connected with a 62-yard throw to Jerry Planutis. Clarence Peaks scored twice for the Spartons on runs of 8 and 65 yards.

Marquette's Frank Scaffidi booted a 41-yard field goal in the second quarter and Fred Connally scored the lone Warrior touchdown from 12 yards out in the final period.

Northwestern Hands Illinois, 1953 Title Winners, 20-7 Defeat

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Northwestern, springing halfback Dick Ranicke to two first-half touchdowns and a lead it never yielded, Saturday piled up a 20-7 victory over a collapsed Illinois team, harassed by a 122 yards in penalties and seven fumbles.

The loss was the Illini's sixth of the Big Ten football season and buried them in last place without a conference win for the first time since 1941.

It was the first time in 20 years that a Big Ten team finished last the year after it had won or shared the title.

The Illini were 1953 co-champions with Michigan State. Michigan won the 1933 crown and ended in the cellar the following season.

Northwestern's triumph was its first in 12 conference games dating back to 1952.

The Wildcats, moving ahead in the series with Illinois by one game—23 victories and 22 defeats rushed on the field of the game Saturday and carried off their elated coach, Bob Voigts.

Northwestern spotted Illinois a 7-0 lead early in the first quarter then scored twice on short blasts by Ranicke to move ahead 13-7 at halftime.

The Illini tallied in the first three minutes of the game after J. C. Caroline captured Frank Jeske fumble on the Northwestern 31. Harry Jefferson drilled the final one foot.

But the Wildcats soon gained deadlock. A major penalty set Illinois back to its own 5. Then Caroline back to its own 5. Then Caroline lost the ball and end Jack Stillwell recovered on the 4.

On the third play, Ranicke smashed across from the one.

In the second quarter, a 15-yard infraction against Illinois for illegal use of the hands helped the Wildcats move 38 yards to score on four running plays. Ranicke again barreled across from the 6.

Northwestern added its third touchdown in the third on Dale Pienta's 20-yard pass to Stillwell, who raced down the sidelines for 27 more to score.

The only record Illinois set was by boosting its home attendance mark to 275,762 with a final turn out of 39,186. The Illini's old record for five games was 267,996 in 1952.

Illinois, behind the fine passing of sophomore Hiles Stout, moved to the Northwestern 14, 17, 10 and 12 yard lines in the last half, only to have two of Stout's passes intercepted and two more fizzle out.

Northwestern	7	6	7	0—20
Illinois	7	0	0	0— 7

Northwestern scoring: Touchdowns, Ranicke, 2, Stillwell. Conversions, Callaway 2.

Expect Directors To Certify Ohio For Rose Bowl

CHICAGO (AP)—Ohio State, the nation's No. 1 team Saturday crushed Michigan with last-half power, 21-7, to capture the Big Ten championship and an automatic bid to the Rose Bowl.

The conference athletic directors Sunday will be polled on the Rose Bowl pick by commissioner K. L. (Tug) Wilson. His announcement in the afternoon is expected to merely certify Ohio State's selection for the Bucks' second Rose Bowl visit since 1950 in the current Big Ten - Pacific Coast Conference series. Ohio State nipped California 17-14, in that game.

Saturday's final round of Big Ten competition also produced a second-place tie between Michigan and Wisconsin, each with a 5-2 record.

Wisconsin's Badgers thumped surprising Minnesota, 27-0. The Gophers finished fourth with 4-2, playing only a six-game conference schedule.

Iowa which finished Big Ten play last week with a 4-3 record held fifth, the Hawkeyes closing today with a 34-18 trimming by Notre Dame.

Final Big Ten standings:

Bears Sneak By Stanford 28-20

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — California's favored Bears rolled up a tremendous lead going into the third period but had to fight with everything they had to stave off an inspired Stanford team Saturday and win their annual "Big Game" 28-20.

A capacity crowd of 81,490 saw the Bears hold a commanding lead of 28-0 just after the third period opened. Stanford, fighting for every inch, scored two touchdowns in that quarter and another in the final period.

The Indians were knocking for another touchdown later in the final quarter, but a fourth-down pass was batted down in the end zone.

California went into the game favored by 14 or more points.

Penn State Subdues Pitt 13-0

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Penn State, stabbing at Pitts defenses with a mixture of passing and running, dumped the Panthers 13-0 Saturday in the mud and rain.

Second string quarterback Bob Hoffman pitched 19 yards to senior end Jack Sherry for the first touchdown, and Don Bailey, the Nittany Lions' No. 1 quarterback, sneaked over from the three in the third period for the other score.

Lenny Moore broke the Lions' season ground-gaining record but failed to score for the first time this season. Moore picked up 68 yards Saturday for a season total of 1,082.

Normal Whips Wesleyan 27-7

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (AP) — Wes Bair fired three touchdown passes Saturday to lead Illinois Normal to a 27-7 victory over Illinois Wesleyan in the season finale for both clubs.

Normal took a quick lead in the first period when Bob Riggenback raced 90 yards for the first time Normal got its hands on the ball and Don Kelly plunged over from the two for the touchdown.

Normal scored again in the first period on a 14 - yard touchdown pass from Bob Kling to Jack Wilson, covering 70 yards.

But Bair got hot in the fourth quarter with a pair of touchdown tosses to Lee Handley, the first covering 52 yards and the other 19 yards.

Wisconsin's Badgers Rout Minnesota 22-0; Ameche Scores 2 TDs

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Wisconsin's Badgers, their offense hobbled by Alan "The Horse" Ameche's aching ankle, cracked a pair of Big Ten pass interception records Saturday and cashed in on enough breaks to rout Minnesota, 27-0, for a second-place tie in the conference race.

Held to a meager 23 yards in the first half, Ameche managed to close his collegiate career with two touchdowns, but was removed midway in the third quarter after he got up limping following a pile-up. The 210-pound fullback received a standing ovation from the capacity Camp Randall Stadium crowd of 53,131 as he left the field.

Senior halfback Clary Bratt, who had been shunted to second string status a couple games back, intercepted four passes to set a new conference individual record. Other Badgers picked off three more to add up to a new team mark.

Don Swanson, third strong Minnesota quarterback, was the victim of six of the thefts, gaining the dubious honor of tying another Big Ten record.

Minnesota, handicapped by the loss through injury of Geno Cappelletti, regular quarterback, never was in the ball game as Wisconsin rose to a 21-0 halftime lead and coasted in.

Ameche banged through the middle for his two touchdowns in the second quarter after Jimmy Miller had scored the first on a four-yard scamper in the opening period. Bratt wound it up in the third quarter with a four - yard sweep around end.

Ameche completed his bid for All-America honors with 26 yards which gave him a four-year career total of 3,212 yards—greatest total ever compiled by a college ball carrier.

Despite the record number of interceptions, Wisconsin scored only once as a result of a pass theft. Bratt picked off a toss by Darrel Cochrane on the Minnesota 16 midway in the third period and the Badgers needed only three plays to score. Bratt swept wide for the final four.

Miller sparked the way to the opening touchdown, a 12-play, 70 yard drive late in the opening period. The slim junior accounted for 25 yards rushing and 25 more on two pass completions, skipping the final four into the end zone on an off-tackle play from the single wing.

Ameche banged over a pair of second - quarter touchdowns, each on a burst of less than a yard through the middle.

Sen. Case Protests Pentagon Handling Of Secret Material

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Case (R - SD) protested Saturday that some Pentagon officers had imposed a tight secrecy gag on senators about a radar chain along the Canadian Arctic while other officials made public broad details on the plan.

Case declared "there certainly is a need for better coordination" between government officials on what is secret and what is not.

As chairman of a Senate Armed Services subcommittee, Case held an unannounced closed-door hearing yesterday on the plans for a "Distant Early Warning" radar chain across Canada's polar regions.

"At suggestion of Air Force officers, we left 'off the record' a number of details on locations and costs because they were too highly classified," he said.

Case said that late yesterday "I was greatly surprised to read a news story written by Elton C. Fay, military reporter for The Associated Press, that contained a broad outline of the project and some of the details we were asked to keep out of our record."

"I have no criticism of Mr. Fay, he's apparently an expert reporter," Case said. 'But members of Congress frequently are being cautioned about military secrecy and then read about it in the newspapers."

Fumbles, penalties and the lack of a strong foreward wall cost the Illini their last chance to win a 1954 Big Ten football game. However the 40,000 fans gathering in Memorial Stadium for the season's finale seemed to feel the game had at least one good point. The uncovering of a passing quarterback in the person of Hiles Stout.

—0—

The sophomore from Peoria Central basketball fame took to the air in the second and fourth periods and gave a preview of what might happen next year. Looking over the statistics on the game, the passing is the one bright spot for the Illini. Stout's passes in the last half moved the ball inside the Northwestern 15 yard line on four different occasions only to have two TD tosses intercepted and two others fall dead.

—0—

Whether this means the Illini will take to the air next season, even though Caroline, Jefferson, Bates and Woodson return, remains to be seen. The way it looks to us it would make little difference what coach Ray Eliot decides to do. You've got to have a line. His backs can go if they get just a little blocking. His quarterbacks can throw if they get a little blocking. Dean Renn proved he can catch a ball but even he could use a little blocking.

—0—

These last two games at Champaign told us one thing. Without "a seven-man line" you're a dead duck. Take Jan Smid out and defensive unit would really be pitiful. However, one such outstanding player can't do too much of offense. It's still an eleven man game and at least all seven linemen should be blockers.

—0—

Oh well, who's complaining. This is the first time since 1941 the Illini haven't won at least one conference game and, anyway, the halftime show was great and the steaks couldn't have been better.

Long Gallops Give Colorado 38-14 Victory

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Touchdown runs of 95, 50 and 46 yards during eight minutes of the second quarter sent Colorado sailing to a 38-14 victory over Kansas State Saturday. The loss buried K-States hopes for a trip to the Orange Bowl as the Big Seven Conference representative.

Halfback Carroll Hardy, who also scored twice in the final quarter, once on a 79-yard run, touched off Colorado's offensive surge with a 46-yard dash through tackle. Four minutes later halfback Frank Bernadi zipped 50 yard on a reverse around right end for another touchdown.

Their spectacular runs were capped moments later by a 95-yard touchdown trip by Emerson Wilson, 196-pound junior fullback who broke through right guard and eluded Kansas State's befuddled secondary.

Fullback John Bayuk plunged 3 yards for Colorado's other TD.

Smith KO's Persley In 9th

MIAMI, Fla., (AP)—Wallace "Bud" Smith, a 9-5 underdog, knocked out Arthur Persley with a smashing right hand to the heart Saturday night in 1:18 of the ninth round in a battle between lightweight title contenders at Bayfront Park Auditorium.

The sudden blow crumpled Persley, the No. 5 lightweight contender. Smith drove home a left to the jaw as Persley went down but it was obvious that the right hand punch had done the job.

Dr. James McCormic, Miami ring physician, examined Persley after he was counted out and said X-rays would be made to determine whether Smith's blow had broken a rib.

Smith weighed 137 for the nationaly televised bout, Persley 136.

16th Annual NCAA Cross Country Monday

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—A Japanese runner with the nickname of "Cooky" is expected to take the cake at the 16th Annual NCAA Cross Country run at Michigan State College Monday.

Kikuo Moriya, a Japanese exchange student from Wheaton College, Ill., is the favorite for the 16th annual four mile run.

If coaching makes runners, Moriya should finish far ahead of the field of more than 200 entries. His coach is Gil Dodds, who as the "flying parson" was one of the all-time runing greats.

Dodds spotted Moriya while stopping off in Japan on a world tour. He persuaded the diminutive Japanese to transfer to Wheaton and predicted his find would some day make cross country history.

Moriya finished fifth in the NCAA grind last year. The four runners who beat him all have graduated. He's a senior this year and so will have his last chance to try for a national title.

He runs against a classy field Monday.

His competition will include Jim Lambert of Indiana, Al Frame of Kansas, Big Seven champion; Rich Ferguson of Iowa, former Big Ten titlist; Arnold Sowel of Pittsburgh, NCAA 880-yard champion; George Terry of Boston University, winner of the IC4A cross country run; George King of NYU, the runner-up; Fred Eckhoff of Oklahoma A. & M. and Gay Denslow of Michigan State.

Kansas, defending team champion, is favored to repeat because of good depth on its squad. Pittsburgh, Penn State and Oklahoma A. & M. are expected to give the principal competition.

'We Were Rather Angry': Guglielmi

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP)—"We were rather angry," admitted Ralph Guglielmi after Notre Dame crushed Iowa, 34-18, here Saturday.

The clever Irish quarterback explained it by saying, "We didn't like what the papers have been throwing at us all week long."

He was referring to stories about Notre Dame's tainted 14 - 14 tie game with Iowa at South Bend, Ind., a year ago. In that game feigned injuries provided Guglielmi with precious time to throw two scoring passes in the closing seconds of each half.

However, with a year to prepare Iowa coach Forest Evashevski said he had no alibi for his team's drubbing:

Notre Dame was the better team. Their line beat our line and that was the ball game."

Evy said after the game that Calvin Jones, Iowa's all-Big Ten guard, played the entire season with a broken right hand.

Jones broke it in practice a week before Iowa's opener with Michigan State and insisted on playing this fall despite the painful injury, Evy said.

Irish coach Terry Brennan said he was "very pleased with the way my team played."

Eastern Raps Northern 28-9

DEKALB, Ill. (AP)—Eastern Illinois bounced out of the IIAC cellar Saturday with a 28-9 victory over Northern Illinois. The game closed the football season for both teams.

The victory, coupled with Southern's 19-17 loss to Western, vaulted Eastern Illinois to fifth place in the conference. Northern and Southern finished in a last place tie.

Eastern pushed ahead in the first quarter on a 46-yard touchdown run by Winston Brown. Northern came back to take a 9-7 halftime lead on a 2-yard field goal by Al Burdi after Bill Graham had connected with touchdown pass to Don Biddek.

Eastern took over the lead in the third quarter on a 65-yard march capped by Bob Gilbin's four-yard touchdown plunge and added two more touchdowns in the final quarter after intercepting a pair of Northern passes.

Annual Player Draft Tomorrow; Bucs Get First Pick From 3,640

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates, last in the National League for three straight years, get first pick Monday in the annual player draft of 3,640 eligible minor leaguers.

After holding their draft in conjunction with the minors' annual convention for two years, the majors return to their old custom of holding their own session.

All indications point to a light draft, comparable to the 1953 selections with only 13 players were taken for $132,500. In 1952 at Phoenix only 11 were picked, the lowest since 1945. However, there are a few prizes in the minors because few players have been sold this fall.

In addition to the draft meeting conducted by Commissioner Ford Frick at the Biltmore Hotel, the National League will hold a special meeting.

Although the National League executives say they will discuss only such things as changing the constitution and bylaws, there have been reports that such matters as franchise shifts to California or expansion to a 10-team league will be tossed around.

As far as is known, the American League has not scheduled a meeting. It has been in session, on and off, for weeks before finally settling the problem of the Kansas City (nee Philadelphia) Athletics.

Both leagues obviously are eyeing the lush pastures of Los Angeles and San Francisco for future expansion. Each league already has made provisions to expand to 10 teams, if and when. Recent action by the West Coast cities to raise money to build new ball parks when franchises are promised, has spurred new activity.

The draft has not produced much top flight talent in recent years although it sent up Hack Wilson and Grover Cleveland Alexander in the old days. Of the 13 picked last year at Atlanta, the best were Spook Jacobs of the Athletics, Jerry Lynch of Pittsburgh and the veteran Chuck Diering of Baltimore. Royce Lint stayed all year with the St. Louis Cards but they sent him to Portland after the close of the season and his name pops up again on the new list of draft eligibles at $15,000.

As usual Brooklyn has packed its Montreal and St. Paul farm rosters with its best talent, figuring it can lose only one from each club. The Cardinals seem to have concentrated on Rochester.

The draft price varies as you go down the line, starting with $15,000 from Open Class (Pacific Coast League), to $10,000 from Triple A (International and American Association), $7,500 from Double A (Southern and Texas), $6,000 from Class A, $4,000 from Class B, $2,500 from Class C and $2,000 from Class D.

First pick goes to Pittsburgh, followed by Kansas City, which inherited the Philadelphia A's position. Alternating by leagues, each club has its chance with the two pennant winners on the end. The New York Giants are 15th and Cleveland 16th. Normally several clubs pass their turn with the have-nots in the second division doing most of the drafting.

Phil Hill Still Leads Dangerous Pan-American Race

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Flying Phil Hill gunned his flame-red Ferrari over the torturous mountains of Southern Mexico Saturday and maintained his slender lead in the Pan-American road race over Umberto Maglioli of Italy.

Death, which has stalked this racing classic from its inception, struck again as Ed Shelton of Greenville, S. C. who was injured yesterday, died in a hospital. Five men have been killed since practice for the 1,908-mile grind opened a week ago.

Wild Bill Vukovich, the Fresno, Calif., daredevil who twice won the Indianapolis 500 mile Memorial Day race, smashed up his Lincoln but both he and his co-driver, Vern Howle, walked from the wreckage to an ambulance.

In the big U. S. stock car division of this spectacle, Roy Crawford of Pasadena, Calif., held a seven-minute edge over his Lincoln teammate, Walker Faulkner of Long Beach, Calif.

Crawford's elapsed time was 8:19:37 to 8:25:41 for Faulkner.

Rutgers Slams Columbia 45-12

NEW YORK (AP)—John Fennen, a senior quarterback, led Rutgers to its first victory over Columbia since 1891 Saturday, 45-12, by scoring twice and throwing one touchdown pass.

Coach Lou Little's 25th year as head coach at Columbia ended with a sorry 1-8 record.

It was Columbia's poorest season since 1943 when they didn't win a game.

Unbeaten Ohio State Bests Michigan 21-7; Wins Rosebowl Berth

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State's unbeaten Buckeyes made good on a four-way bid for gridiron glory Saturday, smashing a 7-7 deadlock with two long touchdown drives in the final period to defeat Michigan 21-7. A crowd of 82,438, and a national television audience saw the game.

The conquest gave the brilliant Buckeyes the undisputed western conference championship a berth in the Rose Bowl, a hefty claim to the national title, and their first undefeated, untied season in ten years.

In beating Michigan for only the third time in 12 seasons, Ohio became the second Western Conference team in history to win seven straight games in the rugged league. Only Chicago's 1913 team had done it before.

The Bucks came from nowhere to climb back on the football throne. Held to only four first downs in the first three periods, Ohio came to life after holding Michigan on the six-inch line to take the ball just as the third session ended.

With the score deadlocked at 7-7 the Wolverines had a first down on Ohio's four, but four cracks at the line served only to turn the ball over to the Bucks, who promptly marched 99 yards, 2 feet and 6 inches in 12 plays, climaxed by Dave Leggett's 8-yard touchdown toss to end Dick Brubaker.

Late in the session, Howard "Hopalong" Cassady, Ohio's outstanding star of the day, intercepted a pass and ran it back to his own 38, and 11 plays later he ended the 62-yard drive with a one yard plunge for the final score. Little Tad Weed, 145-pound place-kicking specialist, booted all three placements for Ohio.

Michigan marched 68 yards in 12 plays at the start of the game for its only touchdown, an intricate buck lateral play sending left halfback Dan Cline into the end zone for the score. Ron Kramer, Michigan's great sophomore end, who played a fine game on both offense and defense, booted the extra point.

The Wolverines, who piled up six first downs to Ohio's one in the opening period for their 7-0 lead, marched from their own 14 to Ohio's 8 in the second session. Quarterback Lou Baldacci tried two futile passes and a line play after which Kramer missed a field goal from the 14.

Ohio's first offensive gesture came just after that. Jack Gibbs third-string fullback who had played only 15 minutes this year, intercepted a pass by Michigan's Jim Maddock and raced it 45 yards to the Wolverine 11.

A penalty moved Ohio back to the 16, but Leggett passed to sophomore end Fred Kriss in the end zone for the touchdown which tied it just before halftime.

As the fourth period opened, Michigan had outgained Ohio 217 yards to 55 on the ground, and boasted a 14-4 edge in first downs. Then came the explosion an Michigan was an outclassed ball club in the final 15 minutes.

Despite the score, Michigan wound up with a 229 to 196 edge in rushing, and a 74-58 advantage through the air.

Cassady's big effort was a 53-yard break over tackle in Ohio's second touchdown splurge.

The game settled down to a matter of Ohio State being able to take advantage of the breaks, and Michigan being unable to take similar advantge. Two of Ohio's touchdowns resulted from intercepted passes, but Michigan couldn't move after getting its big break.

That came in the third period after Baer had fumbled to halt a Michigan drive which went from the Wolverine 14 to Ohio's 14. Unable to gain, the Bucks punted. But fullback Hubert Bobo's kick from the 22 went straight into the air as Kramer rushed him. Right end Tom Mentz fell on the ball on the Ohio 14. But the Wolves were unable to score.

To Honor County 4-H Leaders At Banquet

More than 7,000 local volunteer 4-H club leaders in Illinois will be given special recognition during the ninth annual Local Volunteer 4-H Leaders' Recognition Day Tuesday, Nov. 23.

Morgan county's Ag. and Home Economics club leaders will be among those so honored, according to Assistant Home Adviser Mary B. Allen.

The big event of the day will be the annual 4-H leader's recognition banquet at the Hotel Abraham Lincoln in Springfield. Two agricultural and two home economics club leaders and one extension worker from each county in the state are invited each year to represent their local county leaders at this event. They are selected in the county from those leaders who have not previously attended.

Attending from Morgan county this year will be Mrs. Robert Houston, Mrs. H. E. Rilling, Charles Ater and Buford Keehner.

Last year 373 volunteer local club leaders and extension representatives from 80 counties registered for the day's events in Springfield. Those in charge of the program expect that attendance will be even higher this year. Registration will begin at 10 a.m. in the lobby of the Abraham Lincoln hotel.

Many leading representatives of business and industry and state extension workers will also attend the Recognition Day program to help honor the volunteer leaders. The day is sponsored by the Illinois Extension Service in cooperation with the Illinois Chain Store Council, County Farm and Home Bureaus, the Illinois Agricultural Association and the Illinois Home Bureau Federation.

As the county leader delegations arrive in Springfield, they will register and then be free until noon to visit Lincoln's home and tomb, the State Capitol and other places of interest.

From 1:00 until 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon the leaders will hear a program built around the theme, "Know Your State Government" in the House of Representatives room at the State Capitol. Lt. Governor John W. Chapman will welcome the delegates, and then Warren Wood, speaker of the House of Representatives, will trace a bill through the House and Senate until it becomes a state law. Then the leaders and guests will be taken on tours of the State Historical building and the State Capitol. After a social meeting from 3 until 5 p.m., the banquet will be served in the hotel ballroom starting at 5:30.

The featured speaker of the evening program will be George Grim, news columnist and television reporter for the Minneapolis Tribune. Grim has had a varied career as radio reporter, Army broadcaster, foreign correspondent and world traveler. He is one of the best-known persons in the Twin Cities as a result of his popular column and his television and radio programs.

4-H Volunteer Leaders' Recognition Day is planned each year to follow closely after National 4-H Achievement Day so that local club leaders can share in some of the public acclaim given at that time to the 4-H club members for their accomplishments. It is the loyal efforts of these club leaders, without pay, which makes 4-H club work in Illinois and all over the country the successful organization it is today.

Drivers Aid Muscular Dystrophy Campaign

Saturday was a busy day at the Frank Corrington garage, when the new Plymouth and DeSoto cars were shown. But Clarence Wooten, shop foreman, took time off to drive his new DeSoto demonstrator down to the fire department and join the many friends of the Jacksonville Fire Department in the latter's campaign for funds to fight muscular dystrophy.

Francis Casey was the fireman on hand to pick up collections and he beamed for the photographer as Wooten handed him a couple of dollars.

Other local fire fighters took turns at the truck parked on the east side of the square Saturday. And they were very happy with the happenings of the day.

"All we are striving to do," one of them said, "is to accept the contributions of our friends toward financing medical research aimed at finding a cure for muscular dystrophy. We're not going to high-pressure anybody, but we'll be happy to accept any amount our friends wish to give."

The truck will be on the square from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Contributions brought to the fire house will be accepted each day, at any hour.

"And we're going to close up the campaign Wednesday, the day before Thanksgiving," the firemen say. "Then we'll send a report over to the Journal Courier to tell everybody just how much our friends have contributed in the fight against the terrible disease, MD."

Naples Resident, Mrs. A. Curtis, Dies Suddenly

BLUFFS — Mrs. Alta Mae Whited Curtis, 74, died suddenly at her home in Naples shortly after noon Saturday.

She was born in Schuyler county Nov. 9, 1880 and was the daughter of Edward and Mary Ann Whited. She married A. J. Curtis July 22, 1899 at Mt. Sterling. She lived most of her life in Scott county. Her husband preceded her in death.

Mrs. Curtis is survived by nine children: Martha Kennedy and Alvie Curtis, Naples, Alta VanHyning and Hattie Sims of Jacksonville, Mary Bradbury, Versailles, Charlie Curtis, New Berlin, Pearl Green, Hannibal, Mo., Mable Ballard, Peoria, and John Curtis, Chambersburg. 22 grandchildren and 30 great grandchildren, also a step daughter, Mammie Myers, Astoria.

The body is at the Bates funeral home in Bluffs and funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Hilltoppers To Enact 'Nick Of The Woods'

The dramatics organization of Illinois College, the Hilltop Players, has planned something old, which is something new, and certainly something different. The players' first production will be "Nick of the Woods, or Telle the Renegade's Daughter." The play is a melodrama written over 100 years ago. It was first produced at the famous Bowery theatre in New York City, May 6, 1849, to "unbounded applause, unprecedented in the history of the stage," as the critics of that day described it. It continued in the repertoire of the theatre for many years.

The Hilltop Players expect to produce the play in its authentic original manner, with the old-time painted scenery, costumes, and songs of the period. Miss Octavia K. Frees, who is in charge of the presentation, has announced the dates and time of performance. The play will be produced the evenings of Thursday and Friday, Dec. 2 and 3, at 8:30 p.m. in Baxter hall on the Mound avenue side of the college campus.

Citizens of the community are especially invited to attend "Nick of the Woods."

"It is a welcome respite from the monotony of the motion pictures, radio and television, and ordinary stage presentations. A new world of entertainment will unfold before you as you sit relaxed in comfortable chairs gathered about tables. While you enjoy the action before your eyes, you will be served refreshments. Applaud the hero, sigh with the delicate heroine, hiss the villian and hand out advice to the players," says the Players' publicity manager.

"This is the way old-time audiences enjoyed their dramatics, and it's just what you'll do when you see 'Nick of the Woods.' Be among the opening night audience."

Eldorado Story At Community Conference Today

Eldorado, the southern Illinois town that has become famous for its program of community self-help, is sending a delegation to the second west-central Illinois community work-shop.

The conference takes place today at Illinois College, beginning at 2 p.m. in Federal Hall on the south side of the campus. It will last until 9. The visitors from Eldorado will tell their story during the first general session at 2:45. Any interested person is invited. There is no registration fee.

Eldorado undertook a community-wide self-study program to determine community needs a year ago. Study committees reported their findings to weekly town meetings. The study was completed in May and action for planned community development was launched. There have been many accomplishments since then. The city hall has been renovated and a dump turned into a park through the voluntary labor of the citizens themselves.

On October 13 the Eldorado story was seen by a coast-to-coast audience on Edward R. Murrow's television show, "See It Now."

Communities from this region will be represented on a panel that will present stories of community improvement projects. They will be: Arenzville, Chapin, Jacksonville and Mt. Sterling.

Main Speaker of the day will be Howard Y. McClusky of the University of Michigan, nationally known educator who specializes in community adult education.

Selden, Norris On TV Tuesday

President William Selden of Illinois College and President Louis Norris of MacMurray College will be interviewed on the subject of church related colleges over WICS-TV (Springfield, Channel 20) at 8 p.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 23, on the program known as Forum on Religion.

The program is conducted by the Rev. Raymond Knudsen, pastor of the Fifth Street Presbyterian church in Springfield. Also appearing on the program with the two college presidents will be two students, one from each of the colleges.

Boys And Girls Guess How Santa Will Arrive

Boys and girls in the Jacksonville area will again have an opportunity to win a free theater ticket by guessing how Santa Claus will arrive in Jacksonville on Friday, November 26.

This announcement was made Saturday by Ray Schwempp, chairman of the Retail Council of the Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce. Last year nearly 200 children correctly guessed that Santa would use a sleigh.

A special blank on which boys and girls may register their guess appears elsewhere on this page. Other coupons are available at the Chamber office, 207 Gibson Building, or a plain sheet of paper may be used. Entries must be taken or mailed to the Chamber office no later than Friday noon, November 26.

Santa will arrive at the public square at 2 p.m. on that day. Of course, he will be riding in something, but as last year, he hasn't revealed how he will arrive.

Last year Santa used a sleigh. He may use the same conveyance again, or he may be riding in a bus, train, sled, fire truck, or even a helicopter.

Boys and girls are urged to enter into the fun and register their guesses by Friday. The contest is limited to those who are 12 years of age or less.

Dr. O'Reilly And Brother Improve From Injuries

Dr. William O'Reilly of Winchester and his brother, Thomas O'Reilly of Los Angeles, Calif., were reported in improved condition yesterday at Our Saviour's hospital where they are under treatment for automobile accident injuries. They are expected to leave the hospital within a few days.

The Winchester men and a Jacksonville child were hurt Friday afternoon in a collision on Mound avenue.

Thomas O'Reilly, who has been visiting relatives in the Winchester community, had been to Our Saviour's hospital Friday for a check-up. He and his brother were returning to Winchester at the time of the accident.

According to a police report taken by Officers Wilsen and Runkel, a 1954 Oldsmobile, driven by Dr. O'Reilly of Winchester, and a 1951 Buick, driven by Mrs. Paul Pieper, 1910 Mound avenue, collided in the 1900 block of Mound avenue.

Dr. O'Reilly was taken to Our Saviour's hospital in the police car. He suffered a shoulder injury. Thomas O'Reilly, brother of Dr. O'Reilly who was riding with him, was taken to Our Saviour's hospital by the Cooney ambulance. He has head injuries and injury to the left shoulder.

Five year old Mike Pieper, who was riding with Mrs. Pieper, was taken to Our Saviour's hospital, but was released after emergency treatment.

Reginald Graham, Pike Attorney, Dies Suddenly

PITTSFIELD—Attorney Reginald Orr Graham, 42, husband of the former Cornelia (Cozy) Green of Jacksonville, died suddenly at two o'clock Saturday morning en route to the Illini hospital from his home in Pittsfield.

Mr. Graham had not been ill and was stricken suddenly at his home. He was pronounced dead upon arrival at the hospital. His death is believed due to a cerebral hemorrhage.

Attorney Graham was born at Hannibal, Mo., Nov. 12, 1912, the son of the late Attorney Louis T. Graham and Mrs. Bertha Rush Graham of Pittsfield. He attended Pittsfield schools, graduated from the University of Illinois, took under-graduate work at Leland-Stanford University and received his law degree from the Washington University at St. Louis. He became a member of the bar in 1936. He is a veteran of World War Two having served as a lieutenant in the Coast Guard. He remained a Reserve Officer after the war. He was a member of the Illinois Bar Association and the American Legion Post at Pittsfield.

He and Cornelia Green Biggs were united in marriage June 15, 1947 at Clarendon, Arkansas. He is survived by his wife and mother, both of Pittsfield; a son, Louis Reginald Graham of Quincy and a step-daughter, Barbara Biggs, at home.

The body was taken to the Sutter funeral home. Services will be held at two o'clock Monday afternoon at the Pittsfield Christian church with the Rev. Ward Humphries in charge. Burial will be made in the West cemetery.

Bridge Employe Buried Saturday At Carrollton

CARROLLTON—Emmett Harrigan of Granite City, who had been ticket man on the McKinley bridge at St. Louis for a number of years, died Thursday morning in Granite City. Funeral services were held Saturday at 9 a.m. in Granite City followed by a committal service at 11 a.m. in St. John's cemetery in this city.

Mr. Harrigan was born in Carrollton, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Harrigan. He is survived by his wife the former Stella Knight, and two daughters. He also leaves one brother, Frank Harrigan of Granite City and one sister, Mrs. Myrtle McGann of Spokane, Wash.

To Discuss Brucellosis

Dr. A. K. Merriman, division of Animal Industry of the State of Illinois; G. L. Baker, St. Louis Health Department Inspector; Dr. John DeCamp, Federal Veterinarian, local veterinarians and W. H. Brown, Jr., county farm adviser, will discuss the brucellosis problem at a meeting of livestock producers and their wives which will be held Tuesday, Nov. 23, at 7:30 p.m. in the county court house.

Carrollton Notes

Mrs. Emma Peebles of Alton arrived Saturday to spend Thanksgiving with her cousin, Mrs. Charles Neal.

Mrs. P. A. Daum, Sr. entertained the members of her bridge club Friday evening at her home.

Mrs. W. J. Moore and Mrs. Alleene Leininger will entertain the members of their bridge club Monday evening at the Moore home.

Roger Short and Julie Short of St. Louis arrived Friday to spend the weekend with their grandmother, Mrs. Callie Short, while their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Short, attended the football game at the University of Illinois Saturday. The Shorts were accompanied to Champaign by Mr. and Mrs. George Green.

Mrs. Alice Scott Called By Death; Funeral Tuesday

Mrs. Alice Scott, 90, died near midnight Friday at her home, 669 South Kosciusko street, after a lingering illness. Mrs. Scott was a faithful member of the Mt. Emory Baptist church where she was quite active in the Sunbeam Missionary society as long as her health permitted. She was also a member of the Deaconess board of the church.

She was born in 1863 at Montgomery City, Mo., the daughter of John and Marie Baker. Her husband, James R. Scott, preceded her in death. One daughter, Mrs. Margaret Quinn of this city, survives. The following children preceded their mother in death, Jacob Davis, Dan Davis, Clara Davis, Mrs. Lottie Timberlake, William and Elmer Scott. Also surviving are a grandson, eight great-grandchildren and two great, great-grandchildren.

The body was taken to the Gillham funeral home where the family will meet friends from 7 to 9 p.m. Monday.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday at the Mt. Emory Baptist church with the Rev. E. E. Thompson in charge. The body will be taken to the church one hour before services. Interment will be made in the Jacksonville East cemetery.

Traffic Charges Result In Fines

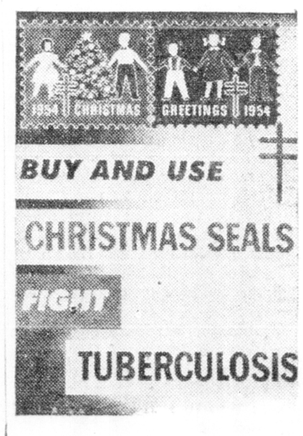

Fines were assessed against several persons on charges of traffic violations at the Saturday morning session of police magistrate's court.

The following defendants were fined: Roy Poore, speeding, $20; James A. Rigor, speeding, $15; Don Mathews, reckless driving, $15 on one complaint and $20 on a second complaint; Donald Hoots, speeding, $35; James McGrath, speeding, $25; Virginia Hacker, running stop sign, $5.

Fines were assessed on 14 for parking in restricted zones; one for double parking; two for drunkenness; one for loud muffler; two for parking in alleys.

Magistrate Russell J. Alvarez presided at the police court session.

FARM BUREAU PRESIDENTS AT CHICAGO MEETING

Council Seeks To Obtain Municipal Gas For Waverly

WAVERLY — The Waverly City Council met in special session in company with Attorney Orville Foreman of Jacksonville. The purpose of the meeting was to make arrangements for filing applications with the Federal Power Commission whereby a municipal gas system could be established for Waverly.

The firm of Vaught, Robinson and Foreman, through their representative Mr. Foreman, presented the necessary papers which they had drawn up to make the application. These consist of two resolutions, one determining the advisability of acquiring and constructing a municipally - owned system and the other directing the filing of the application with the Federal Power Commission.

The first resolution states in part "it is determined that it is advantageous and for the best interest of the City of Waverly and its inhabitants that a municipally owned gas supply and distribution system be established." In another paragraph the resolution points that "Casler and Stapleton, Consulting Engineers, and Vaught, Robinson and Foreman, Attorneys, are authorized and directed to prepare at the earliest possible date the necessary plans, specifications and ordinances for the establishment of the municipally owned system." These plans will be submitted to general vote for the residents of Waverly as required under the statutes of the State.

The second resolution directing the filing of application points out that the Panhandle Pipeline Company maintains lines at approximately one mile from the city limits and that the city is advised that Panhandle could supply the needs of Waverly without imparing service to other consumers. These points being taken into consideration, the City has authorized their attorneys to prepare an application asking the Federal Power Commission to require Panhandle to connect it's facilities with the proposed gas supply system here and to sell an adequate supply of gas to the city of Waverly.

Mayor Romang received correspondence Thursday morning indicating that the necessary applications had been forwarded to Washington.

Lay New Pipe Line

A force of workmen has moved into this area during the past two weeks and is engaged in laying a pipeline for the Panhandle Eastern Pipeline Company.

The line to be used for carrying natural gas from the southwestern United States to the industrial areas of the east, is the third main to be put down by the Panhandle company in this area. The first line which was placed some 20 years ago, was overhauled this summer. The new line virtually parallels the older two lines while passing through this area, crossing Route 104, about midway between Waverly and Franklin.

KEY TO 4-H ACHIEVEMENT: THE FAMILY

A week ago last Saturday an assistant district manager of the Cities Service Oil company got up early and left Bloomington in time to attend the annual Morgan county 4-H Achievement Day program.

He made the trip to present the first "4-H Key Award" ever given in this county. The McLean county oil man, Bill Herman, didn't know the recipient, Jim Williamson, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Williamson, rural route 5, Jacksonville.

After the presentation ceremony Herman asked a few questions, mostly "about Jim's family." He was told that the Williamsons rank high, maybe at the top, in all phases of community life in Morgan county.

Herman said he was "not at all surprised. I really believe that the 4-H movement is the finest thing in the country, because it takes in the entire family. The sharpest boy or girl in the land wouldn't get very far in 4-H work all by himself."

The Williamson family has made a hobby out of working together. But that is another story.

On next Saturday Jim will leave for Chicago, where he will be the guest of the G.M. & O. railroad for seven days at 4-H Club Congress. Hundreds of individuals and corporations who believe in 4-H work will be on hand to keep boys and girls from all sections of the land busy and entertained. There'll be something going on at the Conrad Hilton hotel from 6 a.m. to around 10:30 p.m. every day, plus numerous sight-seeing trips—including a couple to the International Live Stock show.

All-Round Record

The photo shows Jim at left as he completes his 4-H project record books with the assistance of the family. They are his mother and his father; his sister, Carolyn Jean, 11, and brother, Bob, 14.

The other member of the family, Charles, would have been in the photo, but he's busy now at Great Lakes naval base, a member of the U. S. Navy.

Jim has been in 4-H work with the East Side Juniors led by W. Chauncy Carter for the past seven years. This year's projects included beef, corn, soybeans, electricity, concrete, tractor maintenance, egg prodution and chick brooding.

He was also the junior leader of the East Side Juniors, which won again the "Club of the Year" award. And he's the president of the Morgan County 4-H Federation.

His accomplishments that won the 4-H key make up a long list, for it is based on the premise that "the all-around record counts."

Scout, School, Church

He's an Eagle Scout with one palm and the God & Country award. His father has served long with the board of Scout Troop 113, South Jacksonville.

He's a senior at Jacksonville high school, a member of the student council, manager of the wrestling squad and the vice president of the Future Farmers of America. He plays the piano and makes hooked-rugs and will participate in a pantomime skit to be presented on the JHS Minstrel show Monday and Tuesday evenings.

He was the leader of a square dance team that won considerable acclaim, and a TV appearance on WCIA, Chimpaign.

He's a leader in MYF work. His parents are in charge of the Junior Church of Grace Methodist church.

He's exhibited each year at the 4-H fair. Last week his father was elected vice president of the fair board.

Mama Leads Club

Achievement Day pointed out that Mrs. Williamson and Mrs. Don McNeely were co-leaders of the liveliest 4-H home economics club in the county: the South Side Merimaids with a membership of 27 girls, all 11 years old.

This listing could get considerably longer. But it indicates that the man from Bloomington knew what he was talking about.

Jim expects to enter the U. I. College of Agriculture next fall, and hopes to be either a farm adviser or a vocational agriculture instructor. Right now he leans to the latter.

Each Illinois farmer is urged to fill out his 1954 Census of Agriculture questionnaire as soon as he gets it in the mail and before the census taker arrives to pick it up.

Outlook for grains, oilseed meals and by-products for feed next year is good despite drouth in some areas this summer.

Illinois Farmers Outlook Letter

People in other lands are important buyers of United States farm products. In each of the past two years foreign buyers took nearly 3 billion dollars worth of our farm products, about 9 percent of all U. S. farm production. Farm exports are expected to increase slightly in the year ending next June 30.

Most of our farm exports are not "giveaway deals." In the year ending last June 30, we shipped only one-eighth of our agricultural exports under aid programs.

Substantial amounts of four Illinois farm products are sold in foreign lands. These products are soybeans, wheat, corn, and lard.

SOYBEANS. Exports usually take a larger share of soybeans than of any other Illinois farm product. From the 1953 crop we exported 41 million bushels, or 21 percent of total U. S. production. Most of these beans were shipped to Europe and Japan. China and Manchuria are our principal competitors for this export market. Before World War II Manchuria had a virtual monopoly on world trade in soybeans; now much smaller amounts are allowed to pass out through the "iron curtain." USDA officials think that exports of soybeans from the United States in 1954 may increase to 50 million bushels.

WHEAT is the second most important farm export of the United States (cotton ranks first). Unusual postwar needs carried exports up to 48 percent of our 1951 crop. Importing countries recently have increased their own production. Price support kept prices up in the U. S., causing us to lose more exports than other countries, even though there is an export subsidy of 66 to 76 cents a bushel. In the last marketing year exports took 216 million bushels, equal to 19 percent of the 1953 crop. There is some possibility that the figure may go a little higher this year.

Canada is the world's largest exporter of wheat, the United States ranks second and Australia third. The principal buyers are the countries of western Europe.

CORN. Exports seldom equal more than 4 per cent of the total crop, but they often take a substantial part of the corn that farmers offer for sale. In 1953-54 we exported 111 million bushels compared with 126 million bushels the year before and 84 million bushels two years before. This amount was only 3 to 4 percent of total production, but it was equal to about one-fourth of the corn produced in Illinois, the leading cash corn state.

The United States is the leading exporter of corn. Argentina, once all-dominant in this trade, is now in second place. Our corn exports have slipped somewhat in recent months because of increased competition from Argentina. They may increase this year because of poor crops in Europe. Western Europe is the leading corn-importing area.

LARD. In the past two years exports have taken about 20 percent of all the lard that has been produced. In 1953-54 our lard exports decreased because of reduced production and higher prices in this country. Lard sells in United States and world markets in competition with many other prices in this country. Lard sells in United States and world markets in competition with many other edible animal and vegetable oils, including soybean oil, cottonseed oil, peanut oil and many others. Increased production and lower prices for lard in the United States, together with tighter supplies of fats and oils in other countries, should boost lard exports in the year ahead.

Shuman Advocates Soil Conservation Allotment

CHICAGO—A new type of farm program that would give each farmer a soil conservation allotment was proposed last week by Charles B. Shuman, president of the Illinois Agricultural Association.

The plan, he said, would require a certain percentage of the cultivated land of each farm to be placed in soil conserving crops or practices. A farmer would be free to choose the crops he wishes to produce on the rest of his cultivated acreage.

Shuman spoke at the 40th annual meeting of the IAA in the Sherman hotel here. He said failures under the present farm program call for this new type of production adjustment plan.

The Agricultural Act of 1954, recently passed, is a step forward, Shuman said.

"However, before its flexible price support program can be expected to work properly, we must find a way to dispose of the huge goverment-owned stocks of surplus farm commodities," he said.

Trouble—In The Future

"The large stocks will result in trouble for the producers of these commodities at some future time. An important consideration is to make sure these stocks are not replaced by new supplies as fast as storage bins are emptied.

"It has proved politically unfeasible to reduce acreage sufficiently to materially affect production. The present method of controlling production with acreage allotments and quotas for individual crops merely encourages farmers to shift from one crop to another and thus spread the surplus problem to more and more crops," the IAA leader declared.

Adjustments Required

"Obviously, we must adjust downward our total production or shift our production to products which are in greater demand."

To protect the livestock industry, Shuman said it may be necessary to limit the use of the land taken out of production and to conservation crops and practices—at least until the present stock pile is reduced.

"One of the advantages of this type of adjustment program is that those farmers who already following good farming practices with a high percentage of their farm in legumes would not be penalized as they are at present. The reward or incentive for participation in this type of an adjustment program could be rental payments or participation could be required as a prerequisite for participation in price support programs."

Keep Price Supports

"In proposing this new conservation allotment program," Shuman said, "I am not suggesting any radical changes in existing legislation. Certainly, I am not suggesting that price supports be abandoned, but rather that we attack the basic problem that now troubles agriculture—excess production that has come as a result of expansion of acreage encouraged by high, rigid price supports."

PANEL OPINION: LEAN PORK PRICE LITTLE TOO LEAN

CHICAGO — "If packers would pay us $2 a hundredweight extra, they'd get all the meat-type hogs they could use."

That was a summarizing remark in a panel discussion on live-stock marketing, held here today as a part of the Illinois Agricultural Association's annual meeting. The "meat-type hogs" referred to are developed by careful breeding and feeding. Many farmers and packers are interested in the type because housewives prefer lean pork and there is no longer a big demand for lard.

Julius DeDecker of Annawan, Ill., commented during the panel discussion the meat type hogs are worth from $1 to $3 a hundred more than lardy hogs, but that "most packers are now prorating back to the farmer only about 25 cents and that isn't enough."

Though the farmers agreed on the desirability of the meat-type hog, there was much less agreement on the problems of producing them. DeDecker said the type could be produced more economically than fat hogs, while F. R. Winegerter of Huntley, in McHenry county, said he didn't believe a farmer could count on getting meat type hogs up to market weight as economically as the "fat" hogs, at least in every instance.

DREAMBOAT SAILS

EASTON RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)—Jim Gillett, who dreamed about sailing for 50 years, will head for the Caribbean this winter in his 24-foot dreamboat, which took 14 years to build.

Gillett, a building contractor, built the craft in the basement of his barn. He plans to sail to Chicago, then to the Gulf of Mexico.

Most Co-op Boards Retain Directors

Most directors of affiliated farm cooperatives were reelected last week at annual meetings held in connection with the Illinois Agricultural association meeting at the Sherman hotel.

Kenneth Stark of Nebo remains a director of Country Mutual Fire company. He is a holdover member of the IAA board from this district.

F. J. Flynn of Jacksonville, longtime secretary to the Illinois Farm Supply company board, was reelected and Russell Gordon of Palmyra was also renamed to the board.

E. G. Reynolds of Jacksonville was reelected a director of the Illinois Farm Bureau Serum association.

VACATION FOR MOTHER

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. (AP)—Every year, Dr. Earl J. Baker gives a free "dream vacation" to 25 lucky Michigan mothers at one of the city's plush resorts. Dr. Baker, a former philosophy professor, started the idea as a memorial to his own mother. Preference is given to widows and to women with large families. The 1954 group of 25 had 212 children between them.

Unbalanced Production Big Farm Worry: Benson

CHICAGO — Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson Wednesday told 3,000 farmers that their problem is one of unbalanced production rather than over production. He said that although we now have surpluses of a few commodities, we must increase our farm production by one-fourth by 1970.

Speaking before members of the Illinois Agricultural Association, Benson said "We are on the threshold of agriculture's most thrilling period.

"We are a rapidly growing nation. Within just a few years there will be 200 million Americans," Benson told the farm group. "This means we will have to increase our total agricultural output to provide for each of the new citizens the same amounts of food available to the average person today.

"We must obtain this expanded production from roughly the same acreage in cultivation now," Benson added.

Food Preferences Change

He said a switch in eating habits "indicate an ever-growing preference for more meat, eggs, poultry, certain dairy products, and fresh fruits and vegetables."

Less consumption of starchy foods, Benson reported, means farmers must put more emphasis on grassland farming, increased production of feed grains and forage.

"Where one acre of wheat might give sustenance to seven men who live by bread alone, this same plot of ground would provide for only one if the grain is converted into meat and other livestock products," Benson said.

It is through more livestock that we are consuming increasing proportions of the corn and other feed grains produced on our farms, he said.

Can Do It Now

Benson stated farm economists claim farmers can increase their net income by 25 or 50 percent, or even more, "if they use all the new tools and techniques, better breeds, better seeds, and better practices now available.

"An increase of 25 percent in net income for a farm could mean a thousand, two thousand, as much as four or five thousand dollars extra—to spend for better living," the Secretary said.

"The total that government adds to the average farmer's income through subsidies, price supports and conservation payments is relatively small. Doesn't that mean we should place more emphasis on what you can do and less on what the government can do for you?" Benson asked the farmers.

Secretary Benson outlined some of the agricultural developments possible in the future use of atomic energy. "No man today could safely predict the limitations on atomic developments," he said.

SONGS OF AMERICA PROGRAM PLANNED AT CHANDLERVILLE

CHANDLERVILLE — The program, "Singing Along with America," will be presented at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Nov. 22, when the Chandlerville Woman's club meets at the Congregational church. This program is the one that was postponed from Nov. 8. Miss Clyde Carr is the program chairman. Members of the club will assist her.

Mrs. Paul Abbott will serve as chairman of the party committee assisted by Mrs. Jeptha Armstrong, Mrs. Delbert Brooks, Miss Clyde Carr, Mrs. Frank Siltman, Mrs. Neva Morris, Mrs. Iris Gilmore and Mrs. William Kiss.

Drought, Heat Boiled Down Corn Production

Drought and heat took a big bite in this year's farm production, according to preliminary data released last week by the Illinois Cooperative Crop Reporting service.

Crops in the northern section of the state, however, were among the best ever produced. The corn in Carroll county, for example, made 80 bushels per acre this year compared with 70 bushels in 1953; soybeans there made 28 bushels compared with 19 a year ago; wheat came out the same, 25 bushels each season; oats produced 56 bushels an acre, 17 bushels more than in 1953.

The preliminary figures indicate that Route 36 was the dividing line between hard-hitting drought and good yields.

The 1953-1954 figures for Morgan county run this way: Corn, 60-26; beans, 26-20; wheat 33-30; oats 43-40.

Cass county did much better: Corn, 48-37; beans, 18-20; wheat, 28-30; oats, 37-39.

Estimated corn yields in other nearby counties are: Peoria, 61 bushels against 55 bushels a year ago; Scott, 54 bushels last season, but down to 23 this year; Macoupin, 54 bushels in 1953 and only 17 bushels this year.

4-H ACHIEVEMENT DAY BOND WINNERS

Five Morgan County youths received $25 savings bonds at the annual 4-H Achievement Day exercises held at the Times theatre Nov. 13 under the auspices of the Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce.

Clifton DeOrnellas of the East Side Juniors holds up his bond given by the Farmers Bank & Trust company. Carol Hembrough of the Asbury Girls club received one from the Crawford Lumber company; Charles Finch of the East Side Juniors got one from the Elliott State bank; Sandra Lee Aufdenkamp of the Chapin Top Notchers was presented a bond by the Ideal Baking company and Richard Norfleet of the Berea Ag club won the second bond offered by the Crawford Lumber company.

About six hundred 4-H members were honored during the program for their achievements in club work, with some of them winning top honors in a variety of projects. More than 80 awards provided by Jacksonville merchants also were distributed during the morning.

The East Side Juniors led by W. Chauncy Carter and the Chapin Top Notchers led by Mrs. R. R. Long and Mrs. Louis Werries were named "The Clubs of the Year."

SEVERING RED RELATIONS

Once more Senator Knowland of California, Republican majority leader, has demanded that the United States sever diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union. The occasion this time is the recent shooting down of a U. S. reconnaissance plane off the Japanese coast.

His wrath and that of all Americans at this latest instance of Russian brutality is thoroughly understandable. If these mapping missions over the northern reaches of Japan are within proper territorial bounds, as they seem to have been, then we should take all reasonable steps to protect the men who fly them. That includes fighter escorts.

But it is something else to demonstrate our displeasure by cutting diplomatic ties with the Soviet Union.

There would be certain advantages in such a course, naturally. We would be telling the world in emphatic terms what we thought of phony Soviet justifications of these ruthless acts. We would close Russian diplomatic outlets in the United States which beyond doubt are serving as espionage headquarters.

But we would also be losing a great deal. We would give up all access to the Soviet Union. As it is today, we maintain not only an ambassador but military and naval attaches and other trained observers in Moscow. All these men are charged with the responsibility of keeping close watch on Russian official behavior.

Some may argue that under the restrictions of the Soviet secret police they can observe nothing but those things the Russians do not wish to conceal. But experience has taught us this is not so.

Men like Ambassador Charles Bohlen, commanding the Russian language and steeped in knowledge of the country, can employ delicate antennae to pick up and piece together all kinds of useful information. They can do this in spite of all Russian efforts to prevent it.

We have no illusions about Soviet representatives in this country. We know they do the same thing here that we try to do in Russia. But it has been the considered judgment of our highest officials that the risk is worth taking, that we stand to gain more than we lose by keeping an avenue into the enemy's heartland.

There is another quite practical reason for maintaining relations. Since Russia is plainly committed to a policy of nagging aggression and we are committed to opposing it, it is inevitable that incidents of the sort just reported off Japan are goin to happen from time to time.

When they do, we can make more forceful protests to Moscow through direct representatives than through neutrals such as Switzerland which would have to act for us if we had no diplomatic ties. In other words, so long as we and the Russians stay short of war, we actually can protect our national interests better by maintaining relations than by cutting them.

There is no "appeasement" involved in keeping this contact. By doing so we do not tell the world we approve of the Russian government. We merely intend to show that we recognize it as an ugly fact of life, and that we aim—for our own safety—to find out all we can about that ugly fact.

INDIAN INSULTS

In recent weeks, Krishna Menon, India's so-called delegate to the United Nations, has gone out of his way to insult American newsmen who were interrogating him in the friendliest manner.

Once this occurred at a press club affair in New York, where a reporter asked Menon at the conclusion of his talk what might be done to improve U.S.-Indian relations. Menon replied: "I consider that an insulting question." Just why is beyond all fathoming. One would think he had been called a traitor.

Then, appearing on a well-known television interview show run by Edward R. Murrow, Menon touched bottom. Murrow publicly thanked Menon "for letting us come into your home." Menon replied: "That's more than you would do for me." Oddly, Menon had been a guest in Murrow's home just a few days earlier.

There can be no possible excuse for these tasteless, stupid remarks. The most charitable view Americans can take is that Menon does not represent India at all, but is only filling in until someone more suitable can be found.

Unhappily he is accredited not to the U. S. government but to the UN. If it were the former, it might be possible to declare him persona non grata and send him packing. This strange quirk of a man ought to do his dark brooding in the privacy of his own room, not in the councils of the world.

THE SWITCH—B. Toni, manager of a lunch counter in London, England, takes a quick shave while waiting for counterman George Savini to serve him a cup of coffee. A nearby barber got hot under the collar, and started serving his customers coffee.

Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE

LAROCHE, Belgium (AP)—All my life I have wanted to become a real gourmet, one who makes an art of eating.

Guess I never will. I flunk out on the very first test—which is, that the true gourmet never lets his conscience interfere with his palate.

For example, this year an African native politician disappeared on a campaign tour and presumably was consumed by his constituents. The average voter, no matter what his politics, considers such a thing unjustified, regardless of the candidate's stand on the tariff or whether he favored legalizing bingo.

Your true gourmet, on the other hand, would be interested only in how the politician was cooked, what kind of sauce was employed, and what kind of wine would be proper for the occasion.

I mention this only because I have again floundered in my efforts to become a gourmet. The piece de resistance in this case was not a politician, but something even more vulnerable called a grive.

I have been journeying through Belgium with a group of American travel writers, and life has been one banquet after another.

And just when I thought I was becoming a hardened gourmet at last—well, in they came with a grive on my plate.

What was it? Nobody in our group knew for sure. It was a small bird, roasted a lovely brown. It had been cooked with its head on, and served with the head bent under the wings and legs, which were crossed across its breast in a shy protective gesture.

With knife and fork I freebly attacked the grive. It immediately let its head fall back and flung its wings and legs apart. It looked somehow like a baby that needed a diaper. Hunger left me at once. But feebly I took off a morsel with my fork. It was dark and gamey, and I had a hard time swallowing it.

The Belgian sportsman sitting next to me noticed my difficulty.

"Very delicious," he said, kissing his fingers. He then showed me how to eat a grive. He ripped the bird apart, wolfed it down in his mouth and demolished it with great gusto.

Fighting down an urge to get up and run, I asked him what a grive was. As best I could understand his explanation, filtered through my forgotten years of college French, he said:

"A grive is a thrush, game bird here. We trap it. It is a very greedy bird, and its greed is its own undoing. When it thrusts its head through a small looped snare to get at a berry, the noose tightens around its throat and hangs it."

"A grive is a thrush is a thrush is a thrush." The words rang through my mind. I remembered how as a boy scout I had prowled through the woods identifying different birds to win a merit badge. What would my old scoutmaster think of me now, sitting here with a cooked, sweet-singing thrush on my plate?

My Belgian friend looked puzzled as I pushed the grive away. I felt there was no use trying to explain to him that to me a thrush meant music, and that if I were ever hungry enough to eat musical instruments I would prefer to start by munching on a tuba or nibbling on the legs of a concert piano.

Life: and Life More Abundant

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

Jesus spoke of the killers and destroyers who have been at their deadly work all through the ages—and perhaps never more than in this twentieth century.

In contrast, He said that He had come to give life, and to give it more abundantly.

That note of abundance is a great theme of the Bible, and in the emphasis that Jesus put upon it He was in harmony with the Scriptures of the Old Testament, the Bible that Jesus had known from His youth.

In Israel there were ascetics, men of the wilderness and the desert, hermit prophets — men like John the Baptist, not altogether apart from life and their times, emerging to pronounce their prophecies and appeals clear-eyed, if intense, perceiving the evils and defects of society and proclaiming a better way.

Of these, John the Baptist seems to have been the last, and Jesus said he was the greatest of men (Matthew 11:11). But in strong words He emphasized the difference between John and Himself.

"The Son of Man came eating and drinking." He was no ascetic.

He might experience the temptations in the wilderness, or go to pray all night in the mountains. But His life was mainly among the common people who heard Him gladly. He was with the multitude in fields, villages and temple.

It was a reproach again Israel, uttered by such prophets as Amos and Hosea, that abundance and prosperity were not accompanied by happy and righteous living for all, that in fact social injustice was rife as the strong and successful exploited the weak and the needy.

Nevertheless the relation of abundance to well-being was dominant, as it ought to be. "Be fruitful and multiply" was the typical command of the Creator.

The goodness of God, His rich provision for man's needs was typified in fields dropping fatness, in valleys covered with flocks. If man failed, it was not because of any lack on God's part.

It was the failure of man, not the failure of abundance, that underlay the tragedies of society and life, as it underlies them today.

To work with God, that is man's chief privilege and destiny. It is the basis of sound and wholesome social life.

The injustices, the cruelties, the wrongs that inflict mankind, and from which masses of men suffer, can all be traced to man's failure to work with God and to use all the abundance that God provides.

Tip to Girls: Don't Chase Man Straight to Court

Overheard on a bus: "Listen to this, Mabel. It says right here in the paper that a 26-year-old New York bachelor went to court because he claims a secretary in his office has been chasing him for two years.

"He says this girl telephoned him, got in her car and followed him in his, waved to him, leaned out of the car and called to him.

"What a nerve that guy's got, Mabel. After all, he's a bachelor, isn't he? Until some woman gets him hooked for good, any girl's got a right to try.

"Then who does he think he is, running to court, just because a girl looked him over and probably figured he was as good as she was going to find and she had better try to land him?

"You know how it is yourself, Mabel. You think when you get out of business college that just because you've got a job in an office, and offices are full of men, that finding a husband is going to be just picking out the one that looks the best.

SINGLE MAN IS FAIR GAME

"That's the way you think it's going to be. Only you soon find out that most of the men in offices are married and while that doesn't seem to slow some of them down, the kind of attention you get from a guy whose wife doesn't understand him doesn't get a girl any closer to a wedding ring.

"If there's an unmarried man around, every girl in the office has her eye on him. So if you want to make an impression you can't just sit around hoping he'll notice you on his way to the water cooler.

"You've got to take the initiative to get noticed. And that's all that poor girl in New York did—just took the initiative.

"Well, here's my stop, Mabel. Don't go chasing any bachelor. He's liable to run straight to court."

In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Betty Furness appears on television Sunday, but she won't open a refrigerator door or roast a turkey in the stove.

The nation's most noted appliance saleswoman is starring in the Comedy Hour's version of "Let's Face It" on NBC. She was supposed to do one of the supporting roles. But when Joan Blondell fell ill, Betty took over the top female role. It is the one Eve Arden—another girl who did all right on TV—played on Broadway with Danny Kaye and in the movies with Bob Hope.

I had a chat with Betty between rehearsals and found out how she switched from a screen ingenue to queen of the commercials. A New York City girl she had an active career in the movies during the late '30s and early '40s. She quit films in 1945 to keep house for her husband, composer Johnny Green. (They have a daughter, Babbie, 14).

Their marriage hit the rocks in 1948, and Betty decided to return to acting.

"I had to get out of Hollywood," she explained. "You can't get back to work here once you've quit. You've got to go to New York."

She had middling work in radio and TV, which was then blossoming forth.

"My career was going along in bits and pieces—nothing brilliant," she admitted. "Then one day I was doing a small part on Studio One. One of the advertising agency men saw me sitting around rehearsals and suggested I might do the commercial. At that time they had no one doing them regularly and were not sure they wanted someone."

She gave it a try, despite friends who advised against being identified with TV ads.

"But I have the theory that an actor should keep working, no matter what the job," she reasoned. "And I must say that it has worked out very well. I have been with the company (Westinghouse) 5½ years and I have three more to go. The whole thing turned out much better than I anticipated."

Dems Surprised to Learn Their Man Is on Dulles Team

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—It came as something of a surprise to Democratic National Committee headquarters and to Democratic leaders on Capitol Hill to learn that David K. E. Bruce was their party's "consultant" with the State Department and Republican Secretary John Foster Dulles for the carrying out of a bipartisan foreign policy.

Secretary Dulles identified Mr. Bruce as his liaison man at a Washington press conference. If the word got to Paris, where Mr. Bruce runs his special mission and maintains his headquarters, it may have surprised him, too.

There is no doubt but that Mr. Bruce is a Democrat. He was born one, the son of U. S. Sen. William C. Bruce of Maryland. He ran for the Maryland legislature in 1923 when he was 25 years old. He was elected on a platform of repealing prohibition, legalizing horse racing and protecting fox hunting.

Moving to Virginia and settling down as a gentleman farmer 10 years later, Bruce was elected to the Old Dominion's House of Burgesses.

In The Truman Administration Bruce served as an assistant secretary of commerce, as deputy administrator of the Marshall Plan, as ambassador to France and as undersecretary of state under Dean Acheson. That certainly qualifies him as Democrat.

If still more evidence is needed, it should be recorded that come election time, he has always been a heavy contributor to Democratic campaign funds. But as Democratic consultant and maker of bipartisan foreign policy with the Republicans—that's a job he was never given officially.

Records at the State Department personnel offices don't even indicate that Mr. Bruce is rated that high. He doesn't even have the rank of "ambassador" which Mr. Dulles had when he was Republican adviser to the Democratic-controlled State Department.

Mr. Bruce is on the payroll under a rating of foreign service reserve officer, "class one." This pays $12,000 to $14,000 a year, only half of what an ambassador gets. Money is of no particular object to Mr. Bruce, however, because he's independently wealthy. He works for the government for the love of it.

Officially, Mr. Bruce was given his present job in Europe by President Eisenhower in February, 1953—only a month after inauguration. The title that went with the job was "U. S. Observer to the Interim Committee on the European Defense Community and U. S. Representative to the European Coal and Steel Community."

Mr. Bruce was also assigned to follow the work which is going forward for the creation of a European Political Community. EDC is now a dead duck, but there are other responsibilities in connection with the Paris pacts to admit Germany to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. His office, separate from the U. S. embassy in Paris, is known as "The Bruce Mission."

Secretary Dulles says all this work which Mr. Bruce is doing in Europe is comparable to the work to which Mr. Dulles himself did in Asia under Democratic administrations—negotiating the Japanese peace treaty and dealing with the Korean situation. But Mr. Dulles also served on U. S. delegations to United Nations.

Comparably, Secretary Dulles says Mr. Bruce was one of his advisers at the recent London, Paris and Berlin conferences. But Mr. Dulles was picked for his liaison work between Republicans and the Democratic administration by GOP presidential candidate Thomas E. Dewey and the late Senate GOP leaders, Arthur Vandenberg and Robert A. Taft.

Mr. Bruce was picked by President Eisenhower and not as a representative of Governor Adlai Stevenson, or Democratic congressional leaders Sam Rayburn and Lyndon Johnson. The last two are now representing themselves in bipartisan conferences with the President at the White House.

There is no question in anyone's mind as to Mr. Bruce's fitness to be a policy adviser to the State Department. During World War II he helped Gen. "Wild Bill" Donovan organize the Office of Strategic Services, then became its European operating head. The French called him the most effective American since Benjamin Franklin.

Canapes Give Pleasant Start To Thanksgiving Day Dinner

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Canapes and other appetizing tidbits, served either in the living room before dinner or at table when guests sit down, start the feast on a pleasant note. Serve chilled cider, or fruit juices with them.

Here are a few easy suggestions using deviled ham. We always keep a few of the larger 4½-ounce size cans on hand for making quick canapes when unexpected guests arrive.

Deviled Roll Canapes

One green pepper, cleaned, 1 fresh firm tomato, 1 small onion, 1 package cream cheese, 1 family size (4½-ounce) can deviled ham, 1 small bag potato chips, crushed, 3 hard cushion or club rolls.

Chop together pepper, tomato and onion until very finely minced. Drain. Mix in cream cheese, deviled ham and potato chips. Remove slice from one end of each roll and use a fork to pull out soft centers. Fill hollowed rolls with mixture. Wrap rolls in foil and chill overnight. To serve, cut in thin slices with a sharp knife.

Deviled Tomato Dip
(Makes about 1½ cups sauce)

One cup catsup, 1 can (2¼-ounce) deviled ham, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, 2 tablespoons wine vinegar, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, other seasonings to taste.

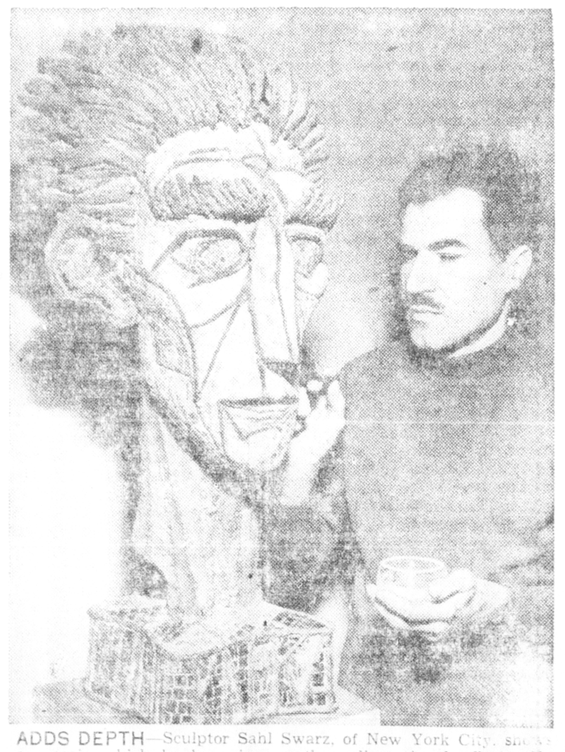

Combine all ingredients and mix thoroughly. Add ½ cup thick sour cream to use as a salad dressing. May be served hot or cold and used as sauce or dip. Particularly good with fish sticks to be dipped and eaten out of hand.

Deviled Roll-Ups

Six slices soft white bread, 1 family size (4½-ounce) can deviled ham, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, 1 thick slice sharp or Swiss cheese.

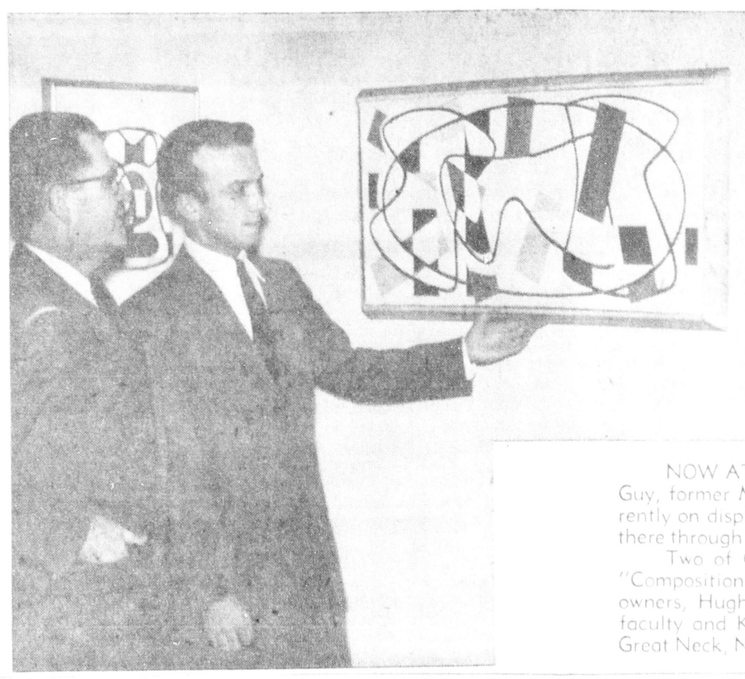

Remove bread crusts and spread each slice with combined deviled ham and mustard. Cut cheese into 6 strips. Place a strip of cheese at one end of spread bread and roll up. Secure with a pick and chill. Serve 2 or 3 filled rolls to a portion. Good finger food.

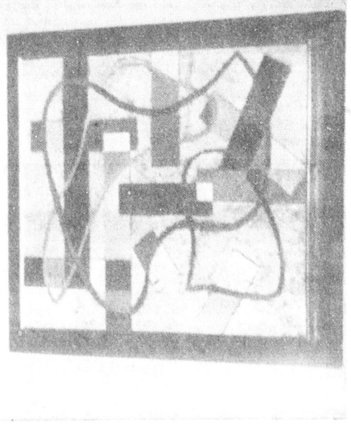

MONDAY'S DINNER: Fruit cup, frozen fish sticks, deviled tomato dip, mashed potatoes, buttered broccoli, Vienna bread, butter or margarine, ready-mix chocolate cake, applesauce, coffee, tea, milk.

Speaks To Club On Handwriting

The monthly meeting of the Concord Junior Women's club was held at the home of rMs. Orieda Anderson with Mrs. Esther Brockhouse and Mrs. Betty McFadden assistant hostesses.

The meeting opened with the club pledge in unison. Roll call was answered by each stating when she had a health checkup.

Thirteen dollars and 36 cents was collected at Halloween for U.N.I.F.C. by the youth of Concord.

Due to the resignation of Phyllis Hogan, the club elected Mildred Musch new vice president.

Orieda Anderson and Myrtle Doerr were appointed the committee for the silent auction to be held at the December meeting.

The club voted to send money to Park Ridge School girls in December.

Dorothy Fouts introduced Carol Nickel who gave a talk on tuberculosis. Mrs. Fouts then introduced Charles Martin, handwriting analyst, who was the guest speaker for the evening.

Former heavyweight champion Jack Dempsey started fighting in 1914 under the name of Kid Blackie.

'Loyalty To Coal' Underlies Failure Of Some Rail Lines To Switch To Diesels

By ED MORSE

NEW YORK (AP)—The thunder of the iron horse is fading to a whisper throughout the land—but will it ever end in total silence?

Romanticists of the rails have been chanting requiems for some time now over the death of an era, as road after road replaces the steam locomotive with the diesel-electric.

But the heroic Age of Steam still offers resistance here and there.

The all-but-total victory of the diesel is driven home by latest figures from the Association of American Railroads: For the first seven months this year diesels performed 83.84 per cent of all freight service on Class I railroads, 85.32 per cent of passenger service and 89.24 per cent of switching service.

The fiery behemoths, however, like the Iroquois and Sioux Indians who fell back before the railroads's Western advance, are stubborn fighters in defeat. They have lost their empire; but some provinces remain.

The diesel has triumphed because, generally, a steam locomotive gets only 10 per cent of available horsepower from its fuel while a diesel gets 35 per cent; five men are required to repair and service a steamer for every man required by a diesel; the diesel hauls more tonnage than a steamer because of fewer layovers, higher utilization and availability of power.

So it seems a paradox that the nation's premier railroad, the Pennsylvania, tops a list of nine Class I railroads which the AAR reports still owned 400 or more steamers apiece as of Sept. 1. The others were the Illinois Central, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio, New York Central, Northern Pacific, Norfolk & Western and Chicago & North Western.

The Pennsy has 1,233 steam locomotives as compared with 2,006 diesels, a surprising high ratio nowadays.

In contrast look at the Santa Fe, whose 13,000 miles of route make it the nation's longest railroad, although the Pennsy tops them all in operating revenues and investment. The Santa Fe completed dieselization this year but still keeps 246 steamers in reserve. It operates with 977 diesel locomotives, consisting of 1,622 units.

On the Pennsy, 187 steam locomotives were in active service Nov. 1. Additionally, 540 were stored in good order, awaiting an upturn in traffic. Another 496 were stored in bad order.

Loyalty to coal, an intangible but powerful thing, has been a big factor in the continuance of steamers on the Pennsy and some other roads. Mine executives—and they're big rail customers—hate to see anything but a coal-burning locomotive ahead of a string of coal cars.

The Pennsy, though its traffic is rich and varied, has derived the greatest chunk of its revenue from coal hauling. So the road fought a desperate fight against dieselization. While other roads were dieselizing like mad, the Pennsy was making intense efforts to develop new, fast economical steam locomotives.

The Pennsy was building scads of these steamers even in the postwar years. They were good, but none could equal the diesel in economy of operation.

As late as 1948 the Pennsy still had 4,100 steam engines and only 73 diesels, although big segments of its system were electrified. In '48, however, the road launched a 300-million-dollar dieselization program and the ratio has been changing swiftly.

In its 1953 annual report the Pennsy said its continued ownership of steamers represented "a flexibility of operation that is economical."

Loyalty to coal, however, was tested in the most crucial arena of all—and lost. The Chesapeke & Ohio, the nation's biggest coal-carrying road, has in service today 696 diesels and only 52 steamers.

The C&O, unlike the Pennsy, is almost totally a coal carrier. It still keeps 300 steamers in reserve, none of which are definitely tagged for scrap.

The bigger roads brag of the millions they have spent on dieselization. One might suppose that steam would find a refuge on small roads with meager finances. But although a lot of these still hang on to their faithful coal burners, many tiny roads with as little as 50 or 100 or 200 miles of route have dieselized completely.

The gallant flag of "loyalty to coal," however, still flies above strong bastions here and there. One is the 2,135-mile Norfolk and Western Railway, primarily a bituminous coal carrier in western Virginia, eastern Kentucky and southern West Virginia.

This road has 438 steam locomotives—not a single diesel.

Hurricane Season Is Over! Damage In 1954 Worst Ever

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)— Unbatten the hatches. Put away the kerosene lamps. The hurricane season is over.

It was a dilly while it lasted, though. Record property damage was inflicted on the North American mainland by four tropical storms with ladylike names and unladylike behavior.

They raged across the coastline and left in their wake property damage estimated at not less than 750 million dollars. It may go as high as one billion dollars.

The previous record loss for North America was the 350-million-dollar toll of the 1938 New England hurricane, in which 600 died. One other storm that year caused no appreciable damage.

Although property losses were astronomical, the death toll this year was far below the record. Approximately 279 persons died on the mainland in the four storms. The record for the Western Hemisphere was established by the Gulf hurricane of 1900 when 6,000 died in Galveston alone and 2,000 others perished elsewhere in Texas and Louisiana.

Of this year's storm dead, 78 were reported from Canada, 38 from Mexico and an undetermined number from the Caribbean island republic of Haiti, where reports varied from 74 to 400. In addition, 260 died in Haiti from a landslide resulting from hurricane rains.

Walter R. Davis, acting chief storm forecaster here, gathered the figures which gave the 750-million-dollar loss estimate. He emphasized that they were preliminary and incomplete. It will take several more weeks to piece together the losses in hundreds of communities which felt the savagery of Hurricane Hazel, for instance.

Davis gathered figures only on this year's tropical storms which caused some degree of damage in the United States. He had no figures on losses from two other disturbances which affected only Mexico and Central America. One disturbance, Barbara, which moved inland over Louisiana on July 29, caused no appreciable damage.

Hurricanes on which damage estimates were tabulated were:

Alice: Moved inland south of Brownsville, Tex., June 25, caused disastrous floods in the Rio Grande and Pecos River areas of Texas and Mexico. Sixteen known dead in Texas, 38 in Mexico. Highways and bridges washed away, many houses destroyed, but no dollar estimate of damage available.

Carol: Smashed across Long Island and New England Aug. 31 with catastrophic effect. Sixty-eight killed, 1,000 injured, property loss 465 million dollars in New England and New York, with lesser damage in New Jersey, North Carolina and Canada.

Edna: Struck Cape Cod Sept. 11, then moved on over eastern Maine, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. Damage officially estimated at 50 million dollars. Twelve killed.

Hazel: Struck North Carolina-South Carolina coast Oct. 15, swept most Eastern states north of there and rampaged into Canada with widespread damage. Losses estimated at 246 million dollars with reports far from complete. Death toll about 145 with 78 of them in Canada.

Davis pointed out that the tremendous property losses resulted because three hurricanes — Carol, Edna and Hazel — aimed their fury at the most highly developed area in the country, the populous East.

The forecaster said the deaths-per-storm ratio has been vastly reduced by better warnings, better disaster planning and a better educated and more stormwise public. But deaths from windblown water remain too high.

Pittsfield Seniors Use Filling Station To Raise Funds

PITTSFIELD — The Pittsfield high school seniors who are now raising a fund for their annual trip next spring, were delighted when Harold Capps, manager of the Sinclair Service Station on East Washington street turned his station over to them for the day on Saturday. The class received a cent a gallon for all gasoline sold during the day and half of the labor receipts, which will augment their travel fund a great deal. Capps is to be congratulated for his interest in the school and his generosity in assisting the senior class.

Top Award

Miss Patsy Paxton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forrst Paxton of route 4, Pittsfield, was awarded the highest award obtainable from the state committee in 4-H club work at the recent Achievement Day program.

She was selected to be a delegate to the 1954 4-H Club congress which will be held at the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago during the week of November 28. She also won $70 toward her expenses for the trip from the Santa Fe Railroad. Awards were given her for her work in clothing and room arrangement. Miss Paxton, who has been winner of numerous awards in 4-H work during the past few years, is now a student at the University of Illinois.

Guest Speaker

Mrs. Reginald Graham has been a guest speaker at a number of club meetings in the city recently. A fluent speaker, she has given interesting and informative talks on Grand Cayman Island in the British West Indies, where she and her husband own property, and have spent many weeks on their vacations. The island, in its tropical setting, has many attractions for tourists and vacationists. Mrs. Graham's description of the Islands, the customs of the residents and their manner of living are very interesting.

RETURNS HOME

Mrs. Jennie Underwood, 1847 South Main street, has returned from Our Saviour's hospital, where she had been under observation.

Miss Roberta Middendorf, Mrs. Rhoda Samoore, and Miss Monna Klebe, (left to right) after chapel services Tuesday at MacMurray College. Misses Middendorf and Klebe, seniors, were elected to the honor society. They were received by Mrs. Samoore, president of the MacMurray Honor Society.

Members of the class of 1955 at MacMurray College received recognition at the chapel service held Tuesday, Nov. 16. Dr. Louis W. Norris, addressing the assembly, spoke on the subject, "Twixt Docility and Rebellion," in its relation to education. Wearing their caps and gowns for the first time the seniors marched in procession through an honor line formed by the sophomore girls, all dressed in white.

Two senior girls, Miss Roberta Middendorf and Miss Monna Klebe, were elected to the honor society. Mrs. Rhoda Olds Samoore, class of '31 and president of the MacMurray Honor Society, received the new members. Recognition was given on the basis of high scholastic achievement. Approximately 10% of the class is selected into membership, two now, and the others will be chosen at commencement.

Miss Middendorf is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Middendorf of Rural Route No. 2, Murrayville.

Tell Nortonville Club Of Tour At State Hospital

NORTONVILLE — A report by members of the Nortonville Community club who recently took advantage of the tour offered at the Jacksonville State Hospital for clubwomen was heard at the Nov. 12 meeting held in the club hall. Mrs. Lowell Wells and Mrs. Thomas Mulquin told the members of their experiences and Mrs. Herbert Clayton reported to the group on the County Federation meeting held in Jacksonville recently.

There were 23 members and 16 guests present. The meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Wendell Claussen. The song "America" was followed by the pledge to the flag led by Mrs. Mulquin. Mrs. Keith Bolton read the preamble to the constitution.

The secretary's report was given by Mrs. Lloyd Sorrells and Mrs. Herbert Clayton the treasurer's report. Mrs. Virgil Vedder read correspondence. Three dollars was donated to the Aid for Handicapped and Exceptional Children. Federated club projects were also approved by the group.

The program leader was Mrs. Charles Story and her topic was "Public Affairs and Legislation." Other contributions included: reading, "Busy Telephone Line," Mrs. Cecil Oxley, and the roll call, surprise, preceded the closing prayer.

Mrs. George Robinson was in charge during the social hour with two contests being conducted. Prizes went to Mrs. Lewis Seymour and Mrs. Mulquin. Guests were Mrs. Charles Mutch, Mrs. Bill Vedder, Vickie and Susan, Mrs. Donald Vedder, Becky, Helen Bolton, Marjorie Mutch, Barbara Oxley, Linda Kay and Gary Bolton, Brenda Whitlock, Karen Sitton, Carman Sue Arnold and Billie and Debra Wells. At the close of the program the hostess served refreshments.

Barbara Wheeler, Albert McDonald Wed Thursday

PITTSFIELD — Miss Barbara Wheeler, daughter of Mrs. Mary Wheeler of Pittsfield, and Albert McDonald, a farmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McDonald of Barry, were married at the home of Rev. Homer Brown on South Memorial street Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. No wedding trip was planned at this time. They will live on a farm in the Time vicinity south of here.

Attendants at the wedding were the groom's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McDonald. The bride's dress was of white nylon and the matron of honor wore pink nylon, both wore corsages of pink rose buds. The groom and his attendant wore dark business suits.

To Meet

The Pittsfield Woman's Club will meet Tuesday afternoon at the Community Center. The program and entertainment will be presented by students of the Hannibal-La Grange college.

The last meeting of the year will be held on Tuesday night by the Pittsfield chapter of the O.E.S. past matrons, past patrons, members taken in during the year and all having birthdays in October, November or December will be honored at the meeting, reported Mrs. Alma Gard, worthy matron.

Final Judging

Dr. Fred Berry, chairman of the "Voice of Democracy" contest, sponsored by the Jaycees, reports that final judging will be made on Monday to determine the local winner. The winner will be selected by the high school faculty members, and will compete in the state finals.

Injured

Miss Carrie McCarty, 82, of Summer Hill, had the misfortune to fall in the yard at her home fracturing her right hip on Thursday. She was brought to Illini hospital where she will remain a patient for sometime. Miss McCarty is widely known both in Summer Hill and this city.

Tom Harris, an employee of the Trio Manufacturing Company at Griggsville, was given emergency treatment Friday morning for an injury to his right index finger which had been caught in the machinery while he was at work.

Society Speaker Explains Sealed Pledge Program

Mrs. Leon Gierke presided at the November meeting of Salem Lutheran Guild held in the new school. Rev. O. J. Klinkerman held opening devotions, after which the group joined in singing a hymn.

The main speaker of the evening was Prof. Arthur Hallerberg who presented a film strip telling about the sealed pledge program which is being presented to the members of the congregation during the month of November which is Stewardship Month.

The secretary, Mrs. Harry Wegehoft read the minutes of the previous meeting and Miss Selma Staake gave the treasurer's report. Eighteen members and guests were in attendance. Mrs. Arthur Hallerberg reported on the Zone rally of the Lutheran Women's Missionary League held at Mason City. The Guild voted to help with Christmas favors for patients at the Jacksonville State hospital. Mrs. Robert Werner was named chairman of the committee to assist with this project.

A social hour was then enjoyed with Mrs. J. R. Davidsmeyer and Mrs. J. W. Davidsmeyer serving delicious refreshments.

Living Of Average Citizen In New York Would Surprise, Shock The Outlander

Editor's Note—The Manhattan skyline glitters above the Hudson, the bright lights bathe Broadway in glamor, the black limousines purr up Park Avenue—those are elements of the romantic myth America has built about New York City. But what's it like to live there? You may be surprised at the answer.

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK CITY (AP)—If everybody will stand back, we'll now knock ourselves out with a swing at the champ. The champion is by its own boast, that largest of American cities—New York.

This is the city of odd and irrelevant facts. For example: New Yorkers' feet generally are bigger than feet in other cities. There are more students in four universities in New York than in all the institutions of higher learning in the British Isles. There are hundreds of thousands of pigeons here, but nobody ever sees a dead pigeon and nobody knows what becomes of them when they die.

It's the American city of sharpest contrasts. Until recently a wealthy old woman lived on upper Fifth Avenue in the world's biggest apartment—54 luxuriantly furnished rooms. A few blocks away Puerto Ricans were sleeping eight to a tiny room.

It is, too, the city of vividly memorable vignette.

Former President Herbert Hoover stepped from the Waldorf Astoria, where he lives, into the crowds of Lexington Avenue. No one looked at him, no one recognized him. Smiling faintly, he climbed into a limousine...

The pretty, well-dressed woman was drunk and crying on Fifth Avenue, wandering blindly through the hurrying crowds of late afternoon, crying and crying. Everyone saw her, but no one spoke to her, for no one knew what to say.

Yes, New York is a million things. Among them it is a city of offices, especially the Home Office. Business is booming here. New office buildings are springing up like mushrooms after rain. Since 1942 there's been an increase of 450,000 jobs, bringing private employment to an all-time high of more than three million. (The fastest growing industry, incidentally, is printing and publishing.)

In this city of the Home Office, they're always saying, "We'll move Brown, Smith and Jones in from Denver, Dallas and Dubuque."

To Brown, Smith and Jones it's the stirring drum roll of opportunity. This is it! The New York myth inflames the imagination. It courses the American consciousness, fed by the eternal springs of movies, radio, television, magazines, books, photographs, newspapers. What is the myth?

It's a montage, with gay music on the sound track: the longshot of the glittering Manhattan skyline across the Hudson. Great ocean liners. Park Avenue, with its purring tide of limousines and beautiful women walking briskly. (Now jazz on the sound track, please, the muted beat of horns.) Broadway. Bright lights. The interior of a penthouse with decor by Dali.

Glamor. Success. Luxury. And girls, girls, girls.

Brown, Smith and Jones rush to embrace the beautiful myth—New York, the golden girl of American cities.

A word of advice to them—which they, of course, will ignore:

"Don't."

Why?

Because New York has had it. New York cannot solve the really big problems that confront it. Inflation, an unplanned population growth, geographical limitations, a complexity of social pressures are the dragons on which the city fathers valiantly split lances.

New York is too expensive for a majority of the people who live here.

Monthly apartment rents in Manhattan, says the real estate board of New York, range on an average of $100 and more per room for penthouses to $25 per room on the upper West Side.

But no survey or index gives an accurate picture of the cost of living here. With one hand the city holds out good restaurants, excellent theaters and concert halls; with the other it reaches for your wallet.

When Brown, Smith and Jones move here they'll probably see fewer shows in a year than they did on occasional visits. Why?

The other night a guy took his wife out to dinner and the theater here. They had two cocktails apiece and then a dinner not so good as they usually eat at home. It cost them $12. That included a 15 per cent tip, for which the waiter did not thank them. Then they went to the theater and sat in the lower balcony at $3.60 a head. They'd thought it would be fun to go to a place afterwards and have a dance. But they didn't. They'd spent $20 and decied $10 more was too expensive for one evening.

New York is the city of the big handout.

That hand extends into pockets everywhere. Taxi drivers, waiters, hatcheck girls, doormen, delivery boys, drugstore countermen, barbers—all demand substantial tips. The owner of a small shop said he even had to tip city trash collectors to get them to remove trash on their appointed rounds. Perhaps it was an exception; this isn't a survey of the city sanitation department. It's merely illustrative of the fact that nearly everybody's got the gimmes — perhaps because scarcely anyone here ever feels confident of living on his salary.

New York has a big crime problem.

If the city stationed a cop on every block 24 hours a day it might just possibly curb it. But that would raise the police force to the equivalent of about 12 Army divisions — and the city government already is as budget-harassed as an unemployed widow with 20 hungry children.

New Yorkers don't blame the police. They don't blame the city government. They simply accept the fact stoically — and in some areas some residents won't go out after nightfall.

New York has an excellent public school system, but in some areas you wouldn't consider sending your children to a city school.

One couple who moved here thought that was ridiculous. They changed their minds when they learned that the son of the school principal was walking on crutches. He'd been criminally beaten up by a couple of students who hated his father.

Because of such conditions private schools flourish in New York. Tuition costs range from $400 to $600. The cost of transporting young children by school bus or taxi between home and school is one more of those items which can raise the cost of living here.

New York is probably one of the worst places in America to raise children.

There simply is not enough recreation space. Again it's not the fault of anyone in particular. The City provides recreations areas, but there just aren't enough open spaces. So kids take to the streets —the most crowded streets in the country.

New York has the nation's worst traffic problem.

As with all its problems, the city tackles this one manfully. Scarcely a month passes that some organization or individual doesn't come up with one more plan. Probably the only plan that would really work would be to ban all autos—a violation of civil rights that even stoical New Yorkers wouldn't take.

Garage rentals are prohibitively high for nearly everybody here. So nearly everybody parks his car in the street. Every 24 hours you go out and ride around looking for another parking space. Many New Yorkers garage their cars in outlying communities. One man, for example, keeps his car in Stamford, Conn. When he wants to go for a ride, he takes the subway to Grand Central and a train to Stamford in order to get his car.

For years the problem has been to provide enough tunnels and bridges to move traffic in and out of the city. Not long ago, for instance, construction started on a new tube for the Lincoln Tunnel. But the problem of moving traffic into New York is quite separate from the problem of what to do with it once it gets here. A third problem besides those of the hub of the wheel and the spokes into the hub is the movement of traffic on the rim of the wheel.

Who's at fault here? Absolutely nobody—and everybody from the Dutch who first settled here to the man who bought a new car yesterday.

When Brown, Smith and Jones move here chances are they'll work in the city and live in the suburbs. The city's suburbs are growing even faster than the city—and some are beginning to face the same problems as New York.

Five days a week there pour into Manhattan Island south of 59th Street 3½ million people. Some travel only a few minutes. Others take as long as two hours. They come by train, ferry, tube, subway, bus, auto. A few millionaires even come by airplane. But they get here, and they get home to rest briefly for tomorrow's struggle.

The curious thing is that few complain about any of this. One outlander put it this way:

"I hated it at first. But it's sort of like the desert. You get used to it, and finally you get to like it. And then you can't think of living anywhere else."

Group 3 C.W.F. Makes Plans For Turkey Supper

The November meeting of group 3 of the C. W. F. of Central Christian church was held Thursday afternoon Nov. 18 at the home of Mrs. Frank Maxan, 503 N. Diamond, with 23 members present.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Ray Bourn, leader, with a prayer, after which year books of the C. W. F. were passed to the members.

In the absence of the worship chairman, Mrs. Slaughter, Mrs. Kate Rose read the devotions, written by Mrs. Nellie Brown, using Thanksgiving as her theme.

Mrs. Minnie Green gave the study lesson following the mission theme of "The City," giving the story of the life of Mrs. Martin in the Bayou country.

Plans for the turkey supper were made by Mrs. Hardy, hospitality chairman, and a special collection was taken for the purchase of food for this supper.

Mrs. Crabtree reported on the next missionary project, which will be a baby layette and hospital gown.

Speaker of the afternoon was Warren Flowers, introduced by Mrs. Maxon, spoke on the activities of the Y. M. C. A. talking especially of the Ki-Y club program, which was very interesting to the ladies.

The meeting closed with the missionary benediction.

During the social hour refreshments in keeping with the Thanksgiving season, were served by Mrs. Maxan and her assistant Mrs. Ruyle.

The next meeting will be held Friday, Dec. 17 at the home of Mrs. Raymond Hardy, 501 N. Prairie, which will be a potluck at 12 noon and a 25c gift exchange.

Mrs. Lawrence Hembrough will be assistant hostess.

RUTH CIRCLE MEETS AT LUCAS HOME

Ruth Circle of the Centenary Methodist church met Thursday evening, Nov. 16, at the home of Mrs. Byron Lucas, South Diamond street.

Eleven members and three guests were present. Mrs. Nolan Smith, assistant leader, conducted the business meeting. Devotions were led by Mrs. H. P. Honstead.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Connie Lucas, Mrs. Miriam Robinson, and Mrs. Delores Floreth.

Thee next meeting will be held December 16 at the home of Mrs. F. E. Patterson, 1619 Hardin avenue.

Panel Discussion Held By Bluffs Woman's Club

BLUFFS — "Advancing Security Through Education," theme of the Bluffs Woman's Club was further enlarged upon at the November meeting held in the Civic Club hall. "International Education" was the panel topic discussed with Mrs. Margaret Hatfield of the Bluffs schools teaching staff serving as moderator. Dr. Luise Kuehn gave a most interesting account of the education system in Germany and made a number of comparisons. The program was in keeping with American Education Week. Miss Sue Bridgman entertained the group with two piano solos.

During the business session with the president, Mrs. Wendell Brackett presiding, roll call was answered by "chuckles about teachers and children in school." The ways and means committee with Mrs. James Baird as chairman announced plans for serving the Civic Club supper on Nov. 22.

The teachers of the Bluffs schools were guests of the meeting and wre Mrs. Helen Ruckman, Miss Thelma Seeley, Miss Joyce Thievaugh, Mrs. Margaret Hatfield, Mrs. Donald Korty, Mrs. Kenneth Bridgman, Mrs. James Waterman, Miss Dorothy Cox, Mrs. Vernon Krems, Miss Muriel Kopp, Mrs. Horace Grimes, James Waterman and Virgil Coughlin; Mrs. Donald Smith, office secretary, was also a guest.

At the close of the meeting refreshments of homemade cookies, coffee and tea were served from a decorated tea table in keeping with the fall season. Mrs. Donald Merris poured coffee and Mrs. Edward Albers poured tea. The hostesses were Mrs. Edward Albers, Mrs. S. L. Murdock, Mrs. Lyle Bates, Mrs. Merle Dunham, Mrs. Ethel House, Mrs. Donald Merris, Mrs. Ben Placke, Mrs. Clarence Weiss and Mrs. Ruth Thompson.

Jr. Woman's Club

The Bluffs Junior Woman's Club met Thursday, Nov. 18, for their November meeting in the Civic Club room with 18 members and four guests present.

Mrs. Carroll Sears, president, presided over the meeting. Reports were given by Mrs. Howard Six and Mrs. Charles Williams. Mrs. Six reported that the committee appointed to find a Girl Scout troop leader had not had much success yet and urged anyone who would be interested to contact one of the committee. Mrs. Williams reported on the Christmas party. The plans are to have "Santa" come and presen' each child of the community with a small gift and some candy. The club will serve hot chocolate and cookies to each child.

Mrs. Sears suggested the club try to sell the remainder of the furniture from the club house. This consists of bamboo blinds, chairs, draperies, and linoleum rugs. These articles can be bought by calling any of the club members and are priced very reasonable.

The program by Mrs. David Orchard, Mrs. Norris Whorton and Mrs. Howard Six was on the bringing up of today's children. Mrs. Six spoke on children from the ages two through six, Mrs. Whorton spoke on children from six to approximately ten and Mrs. Orchard took the children from ten through high school. After the speakers, the leaders started a round table discussion which proved an education for everyone.

At the close of the program the president led the group in a "silent auction." This provided entertainment as well as excitement.

The hostesses, Mrs. Leland McAllister, Mrs. Herbert Hinners, Mrs. Harold Frohwitter, Mrs. Wilmot Boes and Mrs. Leland Littig, served refreshments of pumpkin pie, whipped cream, and coffee. Nut cups and miniature turkey favors lent a seasonal decoration.

The next meeting will be in December and everyone is to bring a gift for a Christmas exchange not to exceed one dollar.

Group 5 C.W.F. Meets Wednesday

Group 5 of the C.W.F of the Central Christian church met at the home of Mrs. Jay Hamilton, 605 West College, at 2 p. m. Nov. 17 with 29 members and 2 guests present.

Mrs. Joe Self led devotions and her subject was "Thanksgiving." Mrs. Oscar Zachery, chairman of the Volunteer Service program gave a talk on "Mental Illness," stressing the need for volunteers for this service.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the hostess and was assisted by Mrs. Harry Ezard.

The December meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Claude Jewsbury with Mrs. Leroy Fairchild assisting.

Badminton Gains In Popularity

Roodhouse Rotary View Movies Of Hong Kong

ROODHOUSE—Dr. G. L. Childress, program chairman at Rotary Wednesday night, introduced his sister, Miss Virginia Childress, recently home from a year's teaching in Yokohama, Japan, who showed movies in technicolor taken while on a guided tour of Honk Kong, Formosa and other points east.

Visiting Rotarians were Tom Cornish, John Marshall, Jacksonville; Junior Rotarians Rollin Dawdy, Cloyd Cox. Other guests were Bill Jolley, Los Angeles, Calif., and Col. Jack Worcester, stationed in Germany.

Adult School

A meeting will be held at the Roodhouse high school on Tuesday, Nov. 23, at 7:30 p.m. to organize an adult farmer evening school class. The course or courses will be conducted by Ardell Kimmel, the local agriculture instructor. The type of courses to be offered will be selected according to the interest of the persons enrolling. Any adult farmer in the Roodhouse area is invited to enroll.

Personals

Col. Jack Worcester arrived at Scott Field, Saturday from Washington, D. C., where he has been on army business from Germany. He has been stationed there for two years. After a short visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Worcester, he will return to Washington, and leave from there via plane to arrive in Germany, Saturday.

Gunners Mate 2/c Ray Ferguson received his honorable discharge and release from the Navy from Norfolk, Va., and returned to Roodhouse, Saturday. His wife left for Norfolk Tuesday and accompanied him home. He and his wife and baby daughter, Cindy, are residing in the former residence of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ferguson.

Thirty - seven neighbors and friends of Noble Clark, a farmer residing west of town whose wife entered Passavant hospital Friday, rendered assistance with his corn picking Wednesday. Twelve pickers accompanied by tractors and wagons were on the scene. Sack lunches were eaten at the noon hour.

Mrs. W. H. Wolfe was hostess to the Deltas at a party held at her home Wednesday night. Plans were made for the annual Christmas party which will be a dinner meeting held at the Jacksonville Country Club.

Prizes at bridge were awarded to Mesdames Forrest Moulton, W. L. Gardiner and Wilson McIver.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

P. William Russell, audio-visual director in the Roodhouse schools, attended the state audio-visual association meeting which convened in Springfield at the new I. E. A. building on Thursday and Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Clark are in Kirksville, Mo., where she has entered the Kirksville Osteopathic hospital there for treatment for a back ailment.

W. A. Jolley, Jr., Los Angeles, Calif., who has been on business in this section of the country, is the guest of his mother, Mrs. W. A. Jolley, Sr.

Dr. and Mrs. N. J. Bucklin, accompanied by his brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Bucklin, Eugene, Ore., arrived home Tuesday from an extended trip. The two couples left again Thursday for Pratt, Kans., to attend a family reunion, the first time members of his family have been together for 24 years. They expect to return to Roodhouse the first of the week.

Visitors and would - be athletes dropping into the Illinois College gym these Monday nights are astounded to see advanced players nonchalantly repeal the law of gravity with returns 12 feet off the floor, and to pick the birdie off the rafters with long shots that rival the Farmer's Bank Building for altitude.

Prospective Players Welcome

But behind that self-confident finished product is a lot of hard work. Instructor Bobby Flower is eager to manufacture local badmintoneers wholesale as she did at Philadelphia Central YMCA, and will turn players out in six easy lessons with shuttlecock feathers for wings, and racket handles for landing gear.

Operating on the theory that "birds of a feather" sock together, Bobby gets them in all states of unpreparedness: those who need guide lines to find the net; mortals who emulate the leaning tower of Pisa in activity and occasional souls who wield a racket like an egg beater. After a system of court maneuvers including: service practice, forehand, backhand, overhand smash and how to react when slipping on a banana peel, the fledglings get so they can launch a birdie without it going A.W.O.L. into Cass County. From there on enjoyment of the game grows with each feather swatted.

Aces Howard DeAmarol and Ray Broekel stand ready to take on any and all challengers. Secretary Dorothy Capatosta occasionally takes a game from teacher. President and Mrs. Selden of Illinois College team together in a deadly partnership worthy opponents for any comers. "Y" executive Warren Flower swings a mean racket, while Willi and Irv August enjoy a fast game of singles.

Badminton is unique as a sport. It has speed, competitive appeal, and great demand on physical reserve. Yet it is adaptable to all degrees of skill, to all ages, and to both sexes. It is an ideal co-recreational game which men and women may play with and against each other.

It can be played over a long span of years, by the not-so-young as well as the young. In fact, the construction of the shuttlecock imparts certain peculiarities to its flight which makes the game primarily one of strategy.

Rackets, Badminton lessons, and practice birdies are made available free of charge to the residents of the Jacksonville area by the YMCA and Illinois College. The hill-top gym is open every Monday evening from 7 to 10 p.m. Shower and dressing room facilities are available. Gym shoes MUST be worn; shorts, jeans, or play clothes are optional.

Handball, volleyball, basketball and squash equipment are also available for those interested, and are used by approximately 35 young adults each Fun and Fitness evening. Ed Harrell, I. C. representative, and Bobby Flower cordially extend an invitation to all 18 years and older to come enter into the fun and add zest to living!

RNA Past Oracles Club, White Hall, Plans Xmas Party

WHITE HALL—Mrs. Ray Linker was hostess at her home Friday night to the Past Oracles club of R.N.A. Camp 987.

Mrs. Elizabeth Dean presided over the short business meeting, which opened with the pledge to the flag and the Lord's Prayer. Mrs. Lena Bertram was elected to serve as secretary-treasurer for the balance of the year, in the place of Mrs. Henry Bishop, who with Mr. Bishop moved to Springfield this week.

Names were chosen for a gift exchange. The meeting in December will be in the nature of a Christmas party at the home of Mrs. John Barnard, with chicken-potluck being served. The hostess served refreshments and bunco was played.

Astronomers Believe Life Like Ours Exists On Planets

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP) — Is there life like ours on other planets, somewhere in the starry universe?

For ages men have wondered.

Now from astronomers comes reason to say, "Yes, probably."

"We are not alone," in the universe, says Dr. Harlow Shapley, famed Harvard University astronomer, for probably there are 100 million planets which could support life in high forms.

He has made what he calls a skeptical or low estimate, this way:

Our sun is a star, and it has planets. You can't assume every sun or star has planets. So, on the safe side, assume that only one in every million stars has any planet or family of planets.

Next, assume that only one of every thousand of all these families of planets has one planet with the right conditions to support life. That means not being too close or too far from its sun, having the right kind of orbit and rotation, and of course an atmosphere.

So now you're assuming only one in every billion stars could have the kind of planet to support life.

Then suppose that life actually develops to high forms on only one in every billion stars could have the kind of planet to support life.

Then suppose that life actually develops to high forms on only one in every thousand of those.

That's saying there could be life like ours or pretty high forms, or even higher forms, for only one of every thousand billion stars in the universe.

Well, there are still enough stars so there would be 100 million of the suitable planets, Dr. Shapley estimates.

Our sun and earth are part of a huge family or galaxy of stars, the Milky Way, estimated to contain 100 billion stars. There are literally billions of other milky ways or galaxies, each with billions of stars.

The indications are that "the life phenomenom is widespread and of cosmic significance," Dr. Shapley has written. And, he adds, there's no reason to assume that man or the animals or birds on earth "are the best that biochemistry and star shine" can produce.

Space travel may someday permit us to visit other planets in our own solar system to see if there is life on Mars, or elsewhere.

But to learn whether other stars have planets like ours, or planets with life on them, is quite another thing.

For even the stars which are nearest to us are so distant that it takes years for their light to reach us. Yet light travels 186,000 miles a second—in a year (a light year) it has sped about 6,000 billion miles.

The very nearest star to us is 4 1-3 light years away. That's a long round trip even if space rockets could travel at the speed of light.

Present techniques in astronomy can't answer whether nearby stars have planets of about the earth's size. The stars are too bright, and any small pull by planets on their motions is difficult to measure. But evidence has been found for a huge planet circling around a star, named 61 Cygni, which is about 11 light years away.

Merritt WSCS To Buy Church New Curtains

Members of the Merritt Methodist church WSCS agreed at the November meeting not to have the accustomed gift exchange in December but to use the money for purchasing curtains for the church dining room. The president, Mrs. Marie Reed, conducted the monthly session held in the social rooms of the church and which opened with the hymn, "I Need Thee Every Hour." The Lord's Prayer was then repeated by all.

Miss Georgia Hawk gave the secretary's report and 18 members and three guests responded to roll call with scripture. Mrs. Verena Berry gave the treasurer's report and announced that $28.00 was received from serving lunches on election day. At this time members voted to give money toward the buying of curtains for the dining room.

A card of thanks was read from the family of Mrs. Mattie Leach and Mrs. Millie Hitt for flowers. Miss Georgia Hawk led in devotions and Mrs. Helen Metcalf gave the lesson. The business session closed with the WSCS benediction.

During the social hour a handkerchief shower complimented Mrs. Roy Moore who was observing a birthday. "Happy Birthday" was sung to Mrs. Moore by all present and a lovely decorated cake, baked by Mrs. Flora Rolf, was cut and served with coffee.

CARROLLTON

CARROLLTON— Howard Kessie, who underwent major surgery for the second time last week since Sept. 1 in Boyd Memorial hospital, is steadily improving.

Dick Bell of White Hall and Everett Mehl of this city went to Wood River Tuesday evening to attend a district meeting of the Lions club.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Tulpin of Rochester were dinner guests Monday evening of Mr. and Mrs. Oren Siebermann.

A Tribute To
Our Fraternal Organizations

It is with a deep sense of gratitude and civic pride that we salute the wonderful idealism and work of our many fine fraternal organizations. They represent the type of manhood of which each of us in this community is so abundantly proud. There is never a week that these tireless citizens are not doing some work of charity or bringing cheer and renewed hope to deserving people. They are truly the Good Samaritans of these modern times. They deserve the high praise and unstinted support of all of us!

Girl Scout Notes

Illinois Prairie Girl Scout Council held its semi-annual council meeting in Winchester on Nov. 16 at the home of Mrs. Richard Coultas. After the business meeting those who attended the conference in Springfield gave a short resume of their sessions and an interesting discussion was held. Refreshments were served from an attractive tea table with Mrs. Henry Dollear, president presiding.

A new Brownie troop has been formed at Franklin school for the Fourth grade girls. The co-leaders are Mrs. Ruth DeLong and Mrs. Mae Essex. Mrs. DeLong comes to us with a background in Girl Scouts having been a leader for the past three years in Waverly.

A Christmas handicraft school was held in the Girl Scout office on Friday, Nov. 19. The morning session was under the direction of Lois Foesterling and the afternoon sessions were conducted by Peg Johnson, Lucile Thomas, and Billie Graenke. Many Novel ideas were worked out and the leaders were inspired by Mrs. Foesterling's comments on creativeness and originality.

The American Legion Auxiliary in Beardstown is sponsoring the Cass county Girl Scout Finance Drive. Besides the Tag Day, and personal solicitations, a dance will be held Thanksgiving eve with all the proceeds going to the Girl Scout Fund.

Troop 12 under the leadership of Mary Morris is making Christmas wreaths out of pine cones and pine boughs. Troop 16 is decorating Santa Claus "Goodie Boxes" to be filled with candy or cookies at Christmas time.

This week let your troop have a ten-minute patrol discussion on the many things for which we are thankful—as individuals. The list should be an interesting one as well as a heart-warming one.

Organize Band Boosters Club At Carrollton

CARROLLTON— Forty-five parents and representatives of the various organizations in the Carrollton Community School Unit met Monday evening at the school to plan the organization of a Band Booster's Club. Miss Valera Berry, the band instructor in the local school explained the needs of a band, the cost of music and the cost of the instruments all of which is high to be borne by the school board alone.

The need for uniforms for the new band was discussed and it was planned to form into a club designed to give financial support to the band in the local school which was organized last year with the first project to be the purchase of uniforms.

At the Dec. 6 meeting of the club regular officers will be elected and in the meantime a committee of four mothers of band students was selected to promote the Band Booster Club within the unit. Mrs. Kenneth Ross was named chairman of this committe and the other committee members are Mrs. Walter Pruett, Mrs. Ernest Martin and Mrs. Joe Griffith. Mrs. Lyndell Smith the school secretary was named as secretary of the new club, which will meet regularly in the music room of the local high school.

Mrs. Harry Roach, a teacher in the David Prince Junior High school, is shown receiving from Rev. M. M. Blair a group of films contributed for use in all Morgan county schools for education concerning the prevention and treatment of tuberculosis. Dr. Blair is president of the Morgan County Tuberculosis and Public Health League.

Money for the purchase of these films was obtained through the sale of Christmas Seals. The 1954 Seal Sale began Wednesday. Posters were distributed by Girl Scout troop of the Illinois Braille & Sight Saving School.

Arenzville Ladies' Aid Society Meets In Church

ARENZVILLE—The Ladies' Aid Society of the Trinity Lutheran church of Arenzville met Thursday in the church basement. The morning was spent quilting.

A noon luncheon was served to 37 members and one guest.

Rev. Henry Allwardt was in charge of the afternoon devotions.

Mrs. John Fricke, president, was in charge of the business meeting. Reports were given by the secretary, Mrs. George Morrison, and the treasurer, Mrs. Harold Roegge. Mrs. Willard Peck gave a report on the zone rally held recently at Mason City. Plans were made for the annual Christmas party to be held at the December meeting. A potluck dinner will be held at noon. A program from the grade school room will be held and a gift exchange will follow. Each member is reminded to bring a gift for an orphan at Addison.

The society will make and fill Christmas boxes for the patients at the State hospital.

The meeting was closed with the Lord's prayer.

The hostesses for the day were Mrs. Henry Allwardt, Mrs. Ed Carls, Mrs. O. W. Hackman and Mrs. Homer Fricke.

'Peter Pan' Fulfills Mary Martin's Dream Of Taking-Off And Flying

NEW YORK (AP) — Fairy dust, which as everybody knows must be sprinkled over boys and girls before they can fly, is thick in the air around a big Broadway theater called the Winter Garden.

It is tossed around by Peter Pan, a green-clad sprite who until a few weeks ago was known as Mary Martin. She has now discovered that being Peter Pan is a full-time job.

She must even carry supplies of glittery confetti in handbags, pockets of street clothes and, of course, in dressing gown pockets for the emergency dusting of small, awe-struck theatergoers.

"It sticks like ticks," she says. "And it gets into everything from carpets to clothes. I wash my hair every day, but it doesn't come out."

So strong are its magic powers, however, the 40 Peter Pan players make up the only cast in today's professional theater which enjoys matinees as much as — if not more than — evening performances. Matinee time is when the under-7 crowd is out in force, dressed to the teeth, squirming with excitement, calling out to the players on the stage or just talking loudly to themselves.

"It's like having a beehive out front," says Mary.

During the first matinee after the show opened in San Francisco, director Jerome Robbins, accustomed to adult theater reactions became frantic worrying about the effect the babble out front might have on his cast.

He rushed backstage as the second act curtain dropped. He found his star, Mary Martin, smiling happily.

"Isn't it wonderful?" she asked. "Aren't they having a lovely time?"

This big, musical production of Peter Pan is laced with sly and sophisticated jokes that pass high over the heads of children and it features a brand of flying to make professional pilots livid with envy. Miss Martin suspects, however, that her suspension over the stage at the end of cleverly manipulated wires is also a shrewd bit of therapy prescribed by her husband, producer Richard Halliday.

"I've wanted to fly all my life," she confided. "I've always dreamed of flying — under my own steam, of course, and of taking off and landing beautifully.

"One morning about three years ago, I awakened Richard. I'd finally done it. I'd flown through the Holland Tunnel and it was beautiful.

"It wasn't long after that he suggested we do 'Peter Pan.' I suspect he decided it would be cheaper and more effective than taking me to a psychiatrist."

Mary hasn't dreamed about flying since "Peter Pan" opened last June on the West coast. One mathematically inclined fan estimates that if the show runs a year — it's a smash, solid hit — she will have 200 ours in the air over the stage.

The robust Halliday production of "Peter Pan" avoids the cloying coyness that has afflicted some previous productions of Sir James M. Barrie's classic, possibly because it's a family affair. Richard's and Mary's 13 - year - old daughter Heller has an important role in the show. She's Liza, the serving maid who looks like Alice in Wonderland, who flies through the air, does a ballet solo and sings a duet with Peter. Heller has a dressing room of her own, complete with brass name plate.

"How about that?" asked Mary. "I've been playing in New York for 16 years — and until now I've never really played on Broadway. And here's Heller, going on 13, on Broadway the first time she plays New York."

During the working week, the Hallidays stay in New York, where they have an apartment in a Central Park South hotel. From 10 until 2:15 daily, Heller attends the professional children's school where she studies the usual junior high subjects. She takes ballet lessons a couple of times a week and, except on matinee days, does her homework from 4 to 6 in the afternoon before going to the theater. After the show there's supper and then to bed.

"The rest of the time," says her father, "she loafs."

Tells Arenzville W.S.C.S. Of Need For Missionaries

The WSCS of the Arenzville Methodist church met Nov. 11 at the church and heard a talk on the Need of Missionaries and Funds by Mrs. Mildred West.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Doris Peck, and the group sang, "Stand Up for Jesus" followed by the Lord's Prayer. The devotions were given by Mrs. Mary Clark assisted by Miss Anna Green, Mrs. Kate Wood and Mrs. Jennie Peck. Mrs. Mildred West gave the program and told of the need for missionaries and cash both in India and Pakistan. After benediction refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Beatrice Plunkett and Mrs. Lorene Noble.

Members present were Mrs. Mary Clark, Mrs. Kate Wood, Miss Anna Green, Mrs. Helen Ginder, Mrs. Dorothy Franke, Mrs. Irene Parkerson, Mrs. Mae Beets, Mrs. Mardell Gish, Mrs. Mary Joekel, Mrs. Willa Mae Huey, Mrs. Doris Peck, Mrs. Grace Ater, Mrs. Jennie Peck, Mrs. Beatrice Plunkett, Mrs. Lorene Noble, Mrs. Mildred West, Mrs. Agnes Strickler and Mrs. Raymond Schnitker.

The next meeting will be held Dec. 9 with Mrs. Laura Hierman.

THE manager of the park shook his head in answer to Greg's question. He had not seen a tall, fair young woman carrying two suitcases.

His son looked up from homework. "I saw her cut across the park; she took that dirt road over there."

"Where does it go?"

"Nowhere but Ferguson's farm and the Murgatroyd place. But they are quite a way up the road."

Greg nodded carelessly and sauntered across the park, but when he was out of sight he hurried. It was growing dark and he wanted to find Hannah without delay. She was not the kind of girl to do a thing like this just to bring him running after her. If she had gone away, she meant to stay hidden. That was why she had taken the dirt road instead of a main highway.

She was so sensible Greg was not prepared for an impulsive action from her. Greg tried to remember what he had said to Daggett, what she had heard and misinterpreted. Phrases kept coming back to him about Hannah posing as the old man's niece and the trouble it might cause. He had said that a woman was in the way on a trip like this, but he had never pretended otherwise to her. He had never said that he wanted her to come along. She ought to have gone home in the first place.

Anyhow, he assured himself angrily, he was not to blame because she had overheard his conversation with Daggett, was he? He recalled Kirby saying, "I didn't know the fellow would put a bullet through his head."

Greg preferred not to know why she had been hurt. Things that were not put into words need not exist. But he did not want to think of her running down the road away from him. He did not want to think of her unhappy.

• • •

HIS flashlight caught and pinned a figure against the dark. He stopped running then. He did not want her to think that he had been in any hurry. She stood motionless. He could see her fair hair gleaming and her eyes enormous in the white mask of her face, reflecting in their dark pupils twin shafts of light from the torch.

He flashed it on his own face to reassure her and then turned it off. He heard her set down the heavy luggage and he groped for her in the dark, a hand on either arm, and shook her.

"Hannah," he said harshly, "what made you run away?" His hands tightened until he hurt her but she did not speak or move. "I thought you had some sense. Going off half cocked like that. When will you grow up?" His voice sounded as though he hated her. "Where did you think you were going? Don't ever pull a stunt like that again. Do you hear? Hannah—"

Under his hands he felt the warmth of her arms. He pulled her against him, cupped her chin in his hand and brushed her mouth with his lips. He kissed her again, his lips hard and insistent. His arms held her locked against him.

He released her so abruptly that she staggered, flashed on his light and led her to a fallen log set back off the road. He pulled her down beside him and slipped his arm around her shoulders.

"Look," he said, trying to steady his breathing, "you shouldn't have run away like that. I was just sounding off to Daggett because of this guy Kirby. That's all there was to it I didn't mean—" By some alchemy of the night Hannah was transformed. She was ethereal a Rossetti girl, poetry incarnate.

With a last clutch at his control he said unevenly, "We'd better go back."

• • •

WHEN they reached the trailer park Greg broke the noisy silence between them. "You had better come in with me so the old man will know you are all right. He was pretty sick about your leaving. Then I'll pick up the car and drive you into town where you can get a room for the night."

She followed him passively into the trailer, blinking in the light. Kirby and Rupert were deep in talk but Daggett put down his book and looked from one to the other. The living eyes in the dead face widened and then narrowed.

"I've just come for the car to run Hannah into town," Greg said, scowling at Kirby who was to blame for everything. "I might as well pack a bag for myself if Kirby is to have my bunk."

Hannah said nothing about her letter and Daggett did not refer to it.

"All set?" Greg asked her.

"Hannah," Daggett said anxiously, "you'll be back—I mean, what time will you be back?"

She did not answer.

"I'll pick her up before 8," Greg promised and opened the door. She went out to the car without a word and sat beside him in silence. He stole a glance at her profile, at the small straight nose, the wide mouth whose lips were so soft and warm. Light reflected on the tears that ran unchecked down her cheeks. And she did not know that she was crying.

All The Evils Of Korean War And Their Aftermath Live On In Pusan

PUSAN (AP)—A costly conflict and an uneasy armistice have not changed the face of Pusan.

This dirty, bustling southeast Korean port bristled in 1950 with war materiel flowing in from Japan as onrushing Communist troops threatened to crack the perimeter around Pusan and drive Allied troops into the sea. It almost burst from the influx of refugees from the north.

Four years later, it is still dirty, still bustling, and still crowded.

One million refugees flooded Pusan and the nearby Koje and Cheju islands as the war swept south in 1950. Today, most of them have been resettled, their hopes of returning to North Korea only a dream.

U. S. Army officials estimate that 250,000 Koreans still receive relief in Pusan. In the outlying province another 150,000 get aid.

On nearby Koje Island, scene of bloody wartime rioting by Communist prisoners of war, about 60,000 refugees try to squeeze out an existence. About 3,500 of them are being moved to a housing area north of Pusan shortly.

The U. S. Korean Civil Assistance Command and the South Korean government are building 400 urban and 1,500 rural houses this year, but that will make hardly a dent in the problem.

"The hard fact is that there just isn't enough room to absorb all these people here even if we wanted to," says Lt. Col. Chester T. Kaczmarek, of Johnstown, Pa., executive officer in Pusan for KCAC. "The rest will have to be absorbed by some of the other provinces."

Kaczmarek estimates Pusan and its province can accommodate no more than 200,000 of the refugees.

For every new home that spouts up, it is possible to count 10 ramshackle shanties, each of which shelters anywhere from 6 to 10 refugees. Others live in tents provided by the Army for victims of Pusan's three fires last year which left about 45,000 homeless.

They constitute a serious health and sanitation problem.

Pusan's black market has the people by the throat, for it is the Korean's principal source of consumer supplies. An average Korean earns about 11,000 hwan monthly. This is about $61 at the official exchange rate of 180 to $1. But he must buy food and necessities on the black market, where the illegal rate is 740 to 1.

Thus the Korean family of five or six survives on a starvation diet.

Ever since the war broke out, Pusan has been one of America's largest military supply depots in Asia. Black market merchants in one way and another get their hands on part of those supplies.

These merchants trade with U. S. soldiers, organize rings to steal from Army warehouses and post exchanges, and smuggle in food and luxuries from Japan and Hong Kong.

U. S. Army criminal investigators are kept busy. In June, July and August, they estimate $53,000 in goods was stolen from U. S. military warehouses. Recently, investigators raided a Korean warehouse and seized a cache of stolen goods.

Korean police estimate there are 10,000 prostitutes in Pusan, of which only 1,000 are registered. As for narcotics, neither the Army nor the Korean police will talk about it except to say there is some traffic.

On top of all its other problems, Pusan always seems to be caught up whenever there is political turmoil.

The last attempt to assassinate President Syngman Rhee was in Pusan in 1952. That same year, Pusan was placed under martial law during the clash between Rhee and the National Assembly.

Even now, the city is kept tense by a series of organized demonstrations against Communist members of the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission.

Japan's Craftsmen Make The Cleverest Toys Imaginable For Markets In U.S.

By JAMES CARY

TOKYO (AP) — As a toy-maker, Santa Claus is a piker. At least compared to Japan's imaginative craftsmen.

Streaming across the Pacific to the American market is a flood of some of the cleverest toys you ever saw, straight from the bustling plants and handicraft shops of Tokyo and Osaka.

Guns and tanks, cars and trains, fancy reproductions of automobiles. Dolls, cuddly stuffed bears, submarines, rocket ships, four-motored airliners and big ocean-going vessels.

They're all there. Anything you can think of. Animated dolls you can crank up and make walk across the room, helicopters with flashing propellers and motor-driven blades, tiny toy animals and every variation of cowboys, six-guns and 10-gallon hats imaginable.

Many of the cars have motors you can crank up by running the wheels across the floor a couple of times. They have headlights that work. The rockets send out a stream of sparks and there are monkeys that can be woundup and made to ride a tricycle.

These are not just the product of the fertile Japanese imagination. They are the result of a long, arduous and at times top-secret planning process that is carried on between Japan and U.S. distributors for months before the first order.

Early in the year Japanese planning laboratories begin working up designs for the coming season. They submit them to their American outlets. Consultations follow. Modifications are tried. Sometimes as many as five different versions of the same toy are submitted before a final model is agreed upon.

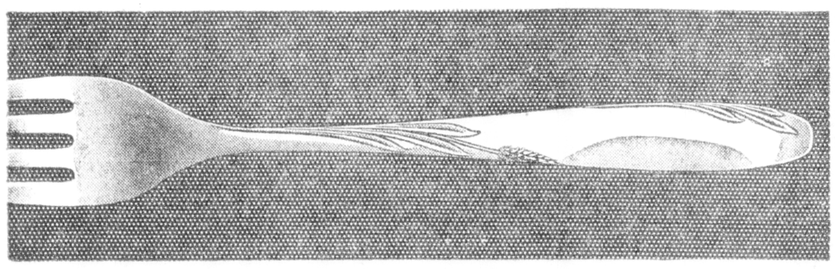

During the summer months contracts are signed and then from August to November the toys come pouring out of the Japanese firms until the demand is filled.

After that, production switches to Easter toys, which carry over into mid-February or March. Then the big manufacturing plants, operated by modern machinery, slow down. But the handicraft concerns, where stuffed toys, paper toys, many types of Christmas tree decorations, wooden, bamboo and shell trinkets are painstakingly put together by hand, continue at normal levels.

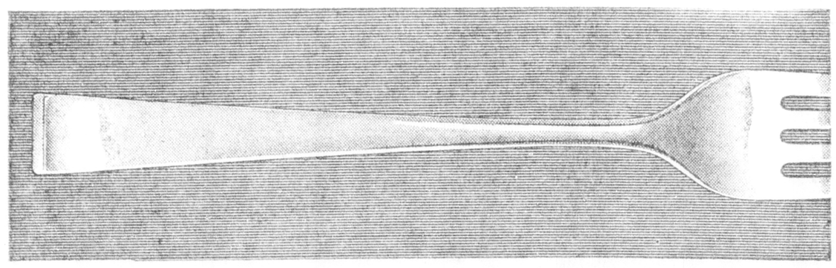

The Japanese toy industry has 80 per cent of its market in the United States. Last year toy experts to all nations totaled $24,569,881, and this year the volume is running at record levels. For the first six months of 1954, U.S. purchases alone totaled $11,933,162 compared to $10,110,799 for the same period in 1953.

NOW: THE AMERICAN MODERN LOOK IN TWO BRILLIANT NEW STERLING PATTERNS BY Gorham STERLING

. . . INTRODUCING GORHAM "WILLOW"

. . . INTRODUCING GORHAM "THEME"

There's great simplicity, and the whole wide world of variety in these two newest Gorham sterling patterns. In Willow, the Far East's sophisticated use of nature forms; in Theme, Scandinavia's love for clean-swept gleaming surfaces. And in both, there's the new kind of American Modern design that makes each piece work overtime for you. Example: new size knife and fork is elegant for formal dinners, yet carefully proportioned for casual snacks, too. Knife also has Gorham's famous one-piece knife handle that resists dents, never rattles. A six piece place setting (consisting of teaspoon, new size place knife, fork and spoon, hollow handle spreader and salad fork) costs only $32.50 Fed. Tax. incl.

16-piece starter set service for 4 — $88.00 including fed. tax.
